SOVIETS CANCEL NHL EXHIBITION

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Ice Hockey Federation has cancelled an agreement with the National Hockey League for a number of games between NHL members and Soviet teams next month.

Tass news agency said today the cancellation was made because John Ahearn, president of the International Ice Hockey League, and NHL officials "could not overcome financial difficulties as a result of which the president of the international federation did not sanction the holding of these games."

During last March's world championship in Moscow, Ahearn had agreed in principle to the games in November and December, Tass added.

Stanfield Says He's Ruthless

HALIFAX (CPI) — Robert Stanfield said Monday he will make some ruthless decisions in choosing a cabinet if the Progressive Conservative party wins the next federal election.

A number of old friends and senior party members will be bypassed in the interest of putting together the best possible cabinet to lead a government, the Conservative leader said.

"If you're the leader of a government, there are certain tough decisions that you've got to make, and you can't refrain from making them because somebody's a nice guy or a friend ...

"I've always believed in that kind of ruthlessness," he said in a television interview as he opened a five-day cross-Canada tour.

Stanfield rejected a suggestion that he would have trouble putting a cabinet together from the 107 Conservative MPs now sitting in the commons.

"I think we have lots of talent, and it's not all on the front row," he said.

The former Nova Scotia premier said he doesn't believe in keeping his MPs "on a very short leash," but that he can be "quite ruthless" in decisions that affect the public.

He did not indicate which MPs might be bypassed. Numerous senior Conservatives sit on front-row benches in the Commons. They include: John Diefenbaker (Prince Albert), Alfred Hales (Wellington), George Hees (Prince Edward-Hastings), Gerald Baldwin (Peace River), Angus MacLean (Malpeque), and Walter Dinsdale (Brandon-Souris).

The Conservative leader expressed confidence that his party will oust the Trudeau government when an election is called.

FERRIES JAMMED

Highways and ferries were jammed to capacity Monday evening as motorists returned home at the close of Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

At the Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay ferry terminals 3½-hour waits were reported and an extra sailing from each terminal had traffic cleared away by early this morning.

There were no extra ferry sailings from Swartz Bay. A terminal spokesman said today two-hour line-ups which started forming in early afternoon were cleared away by the last scheduled run at 10 p.m.

Traffic, he said, "was just like any normal Thanksgiving weekend."

No Live Television Of Trudeau Visit

Special to the Times
PEKING — The Canadian television networks, after reviewing the technical complications, scheduling difficulties and high costs involved, have decided not to carry live coverage of the highlights of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's visit to China this week.

Instead, CBC and CTV will limit their coverage to filmed highlights that will be shown on a delayed basis.

The networks made their

Fishing Treaty Rapped

SEATTLE (AP) — Inaction on complaints by U.S. advisers could lead to a push for the United States' withdrawal from a three-nation treaty of the International North Pacific Fisheries Commission, according to the Seattle Times.

The Times reported Monday that dissatisfied industry advisers to the U.S. section of the commission may seek modification of the pact if Japan does not give ground at an annual meeting next month.

The advisers, the Times said, are unhappy about the commission's inability to stop Japanese poaching of salmon and halibut resources.

"The INPEC is not doing a thing really. It is beneficial only to the Japanese to maintain the status quo," said one industry spokesman.

News Leaks Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge is weighing a justice department offer of sworn statements denying the campaign of news leaks alleged by Vice-President Spiro Agnew.

In legal arguments Monday, the department also sought to defend reporters against subpoenas issued by Agnew's lawyers and offered the judge an unusual private peek at the evidence against the vice-president.

The government arguments were contained in papers filed with United States District Judge Walter Hoffman, who is to preside over the Baltimore federal grand jury investigation of extortion and bribery allegations against Agnew.

The papers were filed in response to a demand by Agnew's lawyers that Hoffman halt the investigation on grounds that impeachment proceedings and the department have poisoned the inquiry through intentional leaks of confidential material.

The department replied that Agnew's lawyers "are engaged in an attempt to confuse the issues and to halt a legitimate investigation by the common defence tactic of trying the prosecutor."

decision on the weekend on the basis of information relayed to them by the Canadian advance team that is in the Chinese capital preparing for the prime minister's arrival on Wednesday.

Chinese officials had offered to provide the Canadian network with a live feed of the central events during the Peking portion of the visit.

Chinese cameras and crews would have been used, with Canadian network men providing the commentary.

LEADERS of the B.C. Federation of Labor have a brief chat this morning before a meeting in the Empress Hotel of representatives of affiliated unions. Federation is lobbying govern-

Unions Mount Bill 11 Lobby

Union leaders descended on Victoria today to lobby the government for changes in its proposed labor code now going through second reading in the legislature.

The lobby, organized by the 200,000-member B.C. Federation of Labor, began with a meeting of representatives of affiliated unions in the Empress Hotel.

Later, a B.C. Fed delegation met a five-member cabinet committee and union leaders were also to meet government MLAs.

The cabinet committee comprised Labor Minister Bill King, Provincial Secretary Ernie Hall, Education Minister Eileen Dailly, Recreation Minister Jack Radford and Attorney-General Alex Macdonald.

Federation secretary Ray Haynes said after the meeting that Labor Minister Bill King had made no commitments on the part of the government and that the bill would have to go through at this session of the legislature.

The federation will continue to lobby and push for referral of the bill to the legislature's labor committee, he added.

IWA regional president Jack Munro was not included on a list of 20 to 30 federation lobbyists to see government MLAs and while everyone was told they were welcome to join the lobby, Munro felt he should have been included on the list.

Last week, while federation leaders bitterly criticized the labor code, Munro said in a telephone interview from Bermuda that the IWA wouldn't attack it unless it has had time to study it.

City Man Killed In Plunge

A 62-year-old Victoria man died Sunday when he slipped and fell from a 280-foot cliff eight miles east of Hope on the Hope-Princeton highway.

Thomas Braeme Waddington of 106-1255 Grant and his wife Josephine had stopped off on their drive back to Victoria from a weekend visit to Kelowna. They were travelling with friends, Mr. and Mrs. James Duprau of 285 Helmcken.

Hope RCMP said an autopsy will be performed Wednesday.

Waddington was a tallyman for B.C. Forest Products in Victoria, where he had worked for 27 years.

OK Picket Lines Close B.C. Tel

Pickets from strike-bound Okanagan Telephone Company appeared today at all offices of the parent B.C. Telephone Company in British Columbia.

A spokesman for B.C. Tel said the company views the action as illegal and has applied to the B.C. Supreme Court in Vancouver for an injunction to halt the picketing.

In Victoria, pickets appeared at B.C. Tel's district headquarters downtown and its divisional headquarters and supply and vehicle depot at Quadra and McKenzie.

"Our business office is closed until the conclusion of this affair," said a company spokesman.

Six hundred B.C. Tel employees in the Victoria area declined to cross the picket lines, joining close to 8,000 other employees elsewhere in the province.

B.C. Tel said management personnel took over operating duties but warned that "there may be delays on calls requiring an operator or directory assistance."

Last week, Okanagan Telephone employees set up picket lines briefly at B.C. Tel's Vancouver office and at offices in Nelson and Kamloops.

The pickets carried signs today saying that strike-breakers are working at Okanagan Telephone a reference to B.C. Tel supervisors they say have been moved into the Okanagan to keep basic telephone service in operation.

Some 550 employees of Okanagan Tel went on strike Aug. 21 to back contract demands. Like B.C. Tel workers, they are members of the Federation of Telephone Workers of B.C. Negotiations broke off last week.

Okanagan Tel had offered a wage and benefit contract package representing an increase of 26.9 per cent in a two-year agreement, but the chief dispute is over control of the pension plan.

Union spokesmen said the pension plan now is controlled by the company and they want an equal voice in the plan.

An information meeting was held this morning at the Union Centre, attended by about 350 members.

FILIPINOS HOMELESS AFTER BLOW

MANILA (UPI) — More than 800,000 Filipinos on the main island of Luzon were left homeless today by typhoon Nora, relief officials said. A new typhoon, Patsy, was reported in the Pacific heading towards Taiwan.

Two ships in the South China Sea, where Nora was reported at a point 156 miles northwest of Luzon with winds of 115 miles an hour, sent distress signals, maritime officials in Hong Kong reported.

Typhoon Nora was reported by the Manila weather bureau to be moving toward China at three miles an hour.

Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos met with his cabinet to assess damage from the typhoon, which swept across Luzon on Monday.

Tankers Ordered

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Atlantic Richfield Co. said today it has contracted with Mitsubishi Heavy Industries, Inc., of Tokyo for construction of three oil tankers totalling 420,000 deadweight tons.

Dollar Slips

LONDON (UPI) — The U.S. dollar, reflecting what dealers said may be monetary anxiety over the Middle East war, slipped to a new low in Amsterdam today and dropped in Frankfurt.

Trains Collide

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters) — At least eight persons were killed and more than 50 injured when a locomotive was involved in a collision with a suburban passenger train Monday, Brazilian officials said.

Skagit? Never

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle Mayor Wes Uhlman has declared that a plan to raise Ross Dam on the Skagit River another 122 feet will never come to reality. Uhlman, in a debate with general election opponent Ilem Tual, said Monday Canadian opposition to the project meant its downfall.

66% Hike Eyed

VIENNA (UPI) — Six of the biggest oil-producing countries in the world opened the second stage today of a campaign to force an immediate 66 per cent increase in prices paid by Western oil companies. Oil sources said the demand could result in the biggest leap in crude oil prices in two years, a move almost certain to affect the North American consumer.

Labor Man Killed

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Another labor leader was shot to death Monday in the resort city of Mar del Plata. It was the fourth assassination since the return to power of Juan Peron. Police said that Julian Julio, secretary of a local union of bus drivers, was shot by two gunmen in a bus terminal. His assailants escaped. Two other union men were wounded.

Damascus, Cairo Hit

Times News Services

Israeli bombers bit deep into the Arab heartland today with massive air raids on both Damascus and Cairo.

In the bombing raids on Damascus, Israeli planes scored a direct hit on the Soviet embassy, CBS radio reported.

The network quoted a Soviet diplomat as saying 30 Soviets, including women and children were killed.

The CBS reporter in Damascus said he saw children's bodies in the rubble. He said the Israeli aircraft inflicted tremendous damage.

Ground battles raged along the Suez Canal and the Golan Heights.

Israel backtracked on a series of optimistic reports and indicated the war has taken a turn for the worse.

"I would not say that we have moved over to a major offensive yet ...," said Reserve Maj. Gen. Haim Herzog, former chief of Israeli military intelligence.

The Arab armies "are fighting in an orderly manner without indication of a break in their psychological or military make-up," he said.

Herzog's analysis appeared to counter an assessment by Lieut. Gen. David Elazar, Israel's chief of staff, who said Monday night "we have gone over to the offensive ... the entire offensive is succeeding."

Elazar vowed at a news conference to "break the bones" of the Arab armies and said both Egypt and Syria had lost several hundred tanks while being thrown back from their advances across the Suez Canal in the south and into the Golan Heights in the north.

In the bombing raids on Damascus, Israeli planes scored a direct hit on the Soviet embassy, CBS radio reported.

The network quoted a Soviet diplomat as saying 30 Soviets, including women and children, were killed.

Israeli planes overnight hit what Tel Aviv described as anti-aircraft missile batteries and military targets around Port Said, the Egyptian oil installation at the northern end of the Suez Canal.

"The batteries were knocked out and the installations damaged," the announcement said, describing the strikes as "massive."

It was the first large-scale Israeli counterstrike reported across the waterway since the war began.

Witnesses at the foot of the Golan Heights reported seeing artillery flashes all along the front. Syrian shells were said to have fallen on a collective farm inside Israel but no damage was reported.

Simultaneously, the command said, Israeli Naval vessels sank three Egyptian missile boats in the Mediterranean off the Nile Delta and escaped after the attack.

"Israeli Phantom jets bombing in Damascus were said to have also damaged the Syrian defence ministry and the government radio station across the street."

The Lebanese defence ministry said Israeli jets struck an army radar station 18 miles east of Beirut and there were reports of Israeli armor crossing into Lebanon, so far not involved in the fighting.

An Israeli spokesman said the attack on Damascus was in retaliation for Syrian shelling earlier today of Israeli settlements south of Nazareth in which the Israelis said there were a number of civilian casualties.

The Syrians said they hit only military targets.

Hijack Linked To War

By COLIN LEGUM
London Observer

LONDON — The precipitating factor in the renewal of military hostilities in the Middle East — just six years after the Six Days War — is almost certainly the success of the Arab gunmen in forcing Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky to capitulate to their demands to end the special facilities granted by Austria for the transit of Russian Jews to Israel.

The Israelis are convinced that the Austrian operation was the work of Saigah, the wing of the Palestinian Liberation Organization which operates out of Damascus under the aegis of the Syrian regime.

Saigah has publicly claimed the credit for the Austrian operation which was carried out by a group calling themselves the "Eagles of the Palestine Revolution." Since the success of this operation the Syrian Baathist regime has been bracing itself for reprisals from Israel.

These suspicions about Israeli intentions have been steadily building up since Sept. 10 when, at a meeting in Cairo, the leaders of Syria and Egypt made their peace with King Hussein of Jordan.

Egypt's president Anwar Sadat hailed this reconciliation as a decisive step towards re-establishing the "eastern front" against Israel "within the framework of a long-term Arab strategy."

Three days later Israel shot down 13 Syrian MIG-21s in the Action Stalled At UN

UNITED NATIONS — Prospects for swift Security Council action to end the Middle East war looked bleak after the 15-country body cut short a meeting Monday night.

The main disagreement was over the position the opposing armies should take following an end-of-hostilities.

No date was set for a further meeting, but diplomatic sources said it could be held late today.

The United States appeared alone Monday with its proposal that the council call for a return to military positions held before the outbreak of fighting Saturday.

China called the idea "preposterous" and, with the Soviet Union, demanded Israeli withdrawal from all Arab lands occupied in the 1967 war.

Some sources said war news was so contradictory that some council members were waiting for a clearer picture to emerge before taking position on a cease-fire resolution.

U.S. Ambassador John Scali told the council the "least damaging way" to end the fighting was to restore the cease-fire lines that Egypt and Syria crossed Saturday.

Later he said the United States had ideas which it was discussing within the government and with other governments.

Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik said Israel must be forced to abandon the parts of Egypt, Jordan and Syria it has occupied with the "support of imperialist circles" since 1967.

He blamed Israel and its allies for the outbreak of fighting.

10 Miss Falls Tumble

Associated Press

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. — Two persons and a baby, marooned upstream from Niagara Falls, withstood flowing water for 2½ hours Sunday awaiting rescue.

By the time they were saved, a helicopter had crashed, a patrol boat was lost and seven would-be rescuers shared their plight.

A motorboat on the Niagara River was carrying Jerry Land, 20; Joanne Horn, 21, and her son Michael, 1½, all from the Buffalo area.

The engine went dead and the boat drifted downstream.

As it neared Goat Island, the passengers climbed out into waist-high water. They stood in one spot, not daring to move for fear of losing their footing in the current. Their boat was swept over the falls.

Police, spotting the stranded party, used a helicopter to make a rescue. But when one of the boaters grabbed the aircraft's skid as it hovered low, the helicopter crashed.

The pilot and two police officers climbed out of the downed craft, and with the others clung to the wreckage for support.

Authorities next tried sending four officers in a police boat to their aid. But the boat stalled. The officers jumped into the river before their boat too was swept over the falls.

Three officers made their way to the helicopter, but a fourth became caught up in the current. He drifted closer to the falls before being pulled ashore by a "human chain."

Finally a cable was hurled out to the marooned. After anchoring the loose end to the helicopter, all nine, one carrying the baby, inched along the line to shore.

1,750 Convicts 'Need Psychiatry'

TORONTO (CP) — Out of 9,000 prisoners held in Canada's federal penitentiaries, at least 1,750 require psychiatric treatment, report to the federal government says.

Contents of the report were released recently by Solicitor-General Warren Allmand, who said some of the recommendations in the report have already been implemented.

The report said about 750 prisoners have diagnosed psychiatric illnesses, while about 1,000 sexual offenders, drug addicts and alcoholics need rehabilitation programs.

The 60-page document, prepared by the federal advisory board of psychiatric consultants, was commissioned in August, 1971, but former solicitor-general Jean-Pierre Goyer. It was delivered to him in May, 1972.

The report called for establishment of five regional psychiatric centres across Canada, with space for 750. It suggested each centre be affiliated with a university to promote research into crime, treatment and rehabilitation.

The standard of psychiatric care provided for prisoners should compare with standards in acute-care psychiatric hospitals, it said.

Cost of keeping a prisoner in federal penitentiary for a year is $9,125, the report said, compared with an estimated cost of $17,188 per person per year at a complete psychiatric centre.

Dr. F. C. R. Chalke of the University of Ottawa chaired the eight-member advisory board, which produced the report.

Many prisoners have been classified as dangerous sexual offenders and have been put in prison for an indefinite stay, the report said, but many of these "have been wrongly classified as such."

It recommends an extensive re-appraisal and screening of prisoners jailed for a long time as dangerous sexual offenders, adding that a likely result will be re-classification and early discharge.

Federation secretary Ray Haynes said the union representatives would first have a "good discussion on the good and bad sections" of the labor code.

Copies of the federation's three-page analysis of the labor code, introduced into the legislature Oct. 1, were distributed. The analysis details the federation's objections and says that unless there are substantial amendments to the code, it should be referred to the house labor committee.

Haynes said union representatives wouldn't be talking with opposition MLAs because "we have never been too impressed with the position of the opposition. Their position is quite clear — their only objections to Bill 11 are that it does not hit labor hard enough."

He said the federation will "try to convince the cabinet there are sections in the code that need amendment."

The federation has criticized proposals in the code dealing with organizing, composition and power of the new Labor Relations Board, compulsory arbitration of first contracts where there isn't mutual agreement, strikes and picketing, technological change, religious conscientious objection to union membership and the labor ombudsman.

It said the powers given to the labor board are both sweeping and unprecedented and make the powers given the old mediation commission pale in comparison.

Hua demanded that Israel withdraw immediately from the occupied lands. He said the Chinese people admire Egypt and Syria for their "bold and just action and express firm support to them."

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said the fighting was "to be deplored."

Meanwhile, Moslem and Communist countries today expressed support for the Arabs and condemnation of Israel in the current crisis, and oil loomed as an important consideration in many capitals.

In Kuala Lumpur, Malaysian Premier Abdul Razak blamed Israel for the new fighting and expressed sympathy for the Arab effort to regain lost territories.

"No one can doubt that the root cause of the present fighting is the illegal occupation by Israel of Arab land and her continued intransigence in blocking all peaceful efforts to bring about a settlement in accordance with the United Nations resolution," he said.

The Communist Vietnam News Agency in Hanoi, monitored in Saigon, denounced Israel and the United States for the war.

South Vietnam, which has relations with Israel, had no comment except that it was "watching the situation closely."

Venezuela, the biggest oil producer outside the Middle East and the third biggest in the world, said it had no plans to expand its oil output in light of the fighting.

Venezuela currently produces more than 90 per cent of its oil.

In Vienna, six Arab Gulf states were negotiating oil price increases with Western oil companies.

There was no indication that the Middle East war affected the negotiations, but Kuwait has called a meeting of oil ministers in the Arab Gulf states to discuss ways to bring Arab oil to bear on the situation.

In Manila, the Philippines said it would observe "complete neutrality" in the conflict.

The Philippines imports almost 80 per cent of its oil from Arab states.

The European security conference in Geneva today heard Algeria say Israel alone was to blame for the outbreak of fighting.

The conference did not discuss the Middle East situation further, officials said.

A report from the official Algerian news agency said Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid Brezhnev has urged Algeria to go to the aid of Egypt in the fighting.

FOUR-MILE HOUSE SOLD BY SOCIETY

The 115-year-old Four-Mile House on the Old Island Highway at View Royal has been sold.

Kwa-Win-Nah Society trustee Dr. A. G. Bricknell said today the property proved too expensive to use as a halfway house for Indian ex-convicts. He declined to disclose the name of the buyer or the selling price.

The house was purchased about a year ago by the society with the help of a $20,000 grant from the provincial First Citizens' Fund, but by March it was realized it was too large for the number of parolees who could use it.

biggest aerial battle since the 1967 war. This marked a new phase in the relations between Syria and Israel. They had clashed briefly in a sharp military engagement on the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights last December when the Syrian army was badly mauled.

Over the next three weeks there were daily reports of troop movements along the Israel-Syrian border. While the Syrians claimed the Israelis were massing to attack Damascus, the Israelis charged that the Syrians were establishing new missile sites close to the Golan Heights and that her troops were being moved from the Jordan frontier closed to Israel's border.

On Wednesday Defence Minister Moshe Dayan warned Jordan about the consequences of her reported troop movements to join up with the Syrians. On the next day Syria alleged that Israel was preparing for an all-out attack against her. This last allegation came after the successful Arab operation in Austria.

The argument now turns on whether — as Israel claims — the Egyptians, Syrians and Jordanians, were planning to force the big powers to intervene by a military challenge to Israel; or whether — as the Arabs claim — they are engaged in defensive action against unprovoked Israeli aggression.

It is still too early to say which of the two accounts is correct, or whether, perhaps there are elements of truth in both the versions now being offered. But what is striking is the close parallel between the situation leading up to the present round of fighting with the crisis which produced the Six Days War.

Then, too, the Syrians were at the centre of the build-up of Arab-Israeli suspicions, while the Egyptian leadership was making threatening noises about the need to intensify the confrontation with Israel.

The Syrians claimed then — as they do now — that Israel was mobilizing her armies for an attack against themselves, and called for Arab resistance to halt Israel's aggressive intentions.

Israel claimed in 1967 — as she does now — that the mobilization of her army was forced on her by the build-up of Arab forces all around her borders.

The crucially important difference between the two situations is that in 1967 the Russians were directly involved (as later transpired) in encouraging President Gamal Nasser to move against Israel in order to discourage her from attacking Syria; now the Russians are on the side of those who favor demilitarizing the conflict in the Middle East — a stand which has led over the last year to a steady worsening of Moscow's relations with Damascus.

The renewal of hostilities in the Middle East comes right in the middle of preliminary soundings now being taken in New York by U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger with Arab and Israeli foreign ministers about a possible new American peace initiative in the Middle East.

Island Heron Saved

NANAIMO (CP) — A young, seriously-injured male heron owes its life to the care and medical treatment of human helpers.

The great blue heron, one of the largest of Vancouver Island's native birds, was found almost dead from starvation on a farm in the Errington area, north of here. The fleshy part below the bird's tongue was torn, probably in an accident caused by man's carelessness, leaving the tongue pushed out through the opening.

Unable to eat, the heron was dying of starvation when found by Stewart Fawcett, who notified the fish and wildlife branch here.

Veterinary surgeon Al Runnels performed a delicate operation.

After giving the bird a local anesthetic, the surgeon carefully stitched the torn flesh under the lower mandible and put the tongue back in place.

The heron, taken to the SPCA shelter, was given antibiotics, but would not eat.

Dwyer found forced feeding was necessary. After getting about six heering down, a big improvement in the bird's condition took place. After two more forced feedings, the bird began eating on its own.

Ottawa Relaxes Tight Control On Prescribing Amphetamines

By JEFF CARRUTHERS
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The federal health department has decided to relax its nine-month-old controls on the prescribing of amphetamines in Canada because it believes the problem of over-prescribing amphetamines is now gone.

As soon as regulations under the Food and Drugs Act can be changed, physicians will no longer have to notify Ottawa every time they prescribe amphetamines and two related drugs.

And doctors will no longer be required to get a consultant to verify the original diagnosis should the amphetamines prescription last longer than 30 days.

But the medical profession will still be restricted to using amphetamines, phenmetrazine and phenmetrazine for six designated disorders: narcolepsy, which features an uncontrollable urge to fall asleep; hyperkinesia or hyperactivity in children; Parkinson's disease; epilepsy; a mental retardation called minimal brain dysfunction; and low blood pressure associated with anesthesia.

A senior health department official explained that the planned changes to the amphetamine controls on the one hand removes the "red tape" for the doctors, while on the other hand maintains the "guts of the controls."

The health department plans to step up its monitoring of the prescribing of amphetamines by doctors, to make sure the problem of over-prescribing does not reappear.

The prescription monitoring will be the same as that applied to the prescribing of narcotic drugs used in medicine, the official explained.

The decision to change the amphetamine regulations, first suggested by health department officials a month ago at a closed-door meeting with representatives of the medical profession, was approved by Health Minister Marc Lalonde during the weekend.

Lalonde's office is expected to announce the proposed changes officially later today. The changes are to come into effect later this fall.

The health department has also decided to reconvene its special advisory panels on use of amphetamines, to expand the permitted number of disorders which can be legally treated with amphetamines. The advisory panels are made up of doctors nominated by the two national medical organizations.

It is expected that amphetamines will be allowed for use in treating certain cases of enuresis or bedwetting; and in treating the criminally insane as a part of a reactive therapy, whereby the patient is given the drug and allowed to work out his antagonisms.

A senior health department official explained that the federal controls on the prescribing of amphetamines that were instituted Jan. 1, 1973, triggered a "marked reduction" in use of amphetamines in Canada.

The controls, he explained, resulted in a reduction in amphetamines use of 90 per cent. "The problem is now gone."

They key to the reduction was limiting the number of disorders which could be treated with amphetamines, he said — specifically prohibiting amphetamines to be used in weight control and as a stimulant for depression.

The controls on the medical use of amphetamines do not directly affect the use of illegal amphetamines, called "speed." While medical use of amphetamines has dropped sharply in recent months, the "speed" problem seems to be getting worse.

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most important — this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.

Canada Backs Spill Plan

LONDON (CP) — Environment Minister Jack Davis says Canada is "right with the United States" in calling for stricter standards for seagoing oil tankers, including the proposal for double bottoms to lessen spill risk in the event of groundings.

Indeed, Canada and the U.S. look an "almost identical" position on issues to be debated in the month-long conference, in contrast to their disagreements during the Stockholm conference on the environment last year.

Davis conceded, however, that although the U.S. and Canada support the double bottom or "segregated ballast" theories, many others among the 138 participating countries are indifferent or opposed to the ideas.

He said Canada seeks to add to the proposed treaty on ship pollution a clause that would strengthen enforcement of regulations against offending ships.

Under this plan, a ship that caused pollution might not only be brought to court by the country in which the offence took place, but also by any other country that is party to the treaty.

Hazardous Oven Recall

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Standards Association (CSA) says a United States-made portable oven-baker appliance sold in Canada has been found electrically hazardous.

The CSA said owners of a "premier" Model T610 A portable oven, made by Munsey Products Inc. of Arkansas, should return it to the dealer for replacement.

(The oven is not offered in sale in Victoria).

Engineer Jailed

KLERKSDORP, S. Africa (Reuter) — An engineer who fell asleep at the controls of a gold mine hoist which crashed, killing 16 men, has been sentenced to three years imprisonment for culpable homicide. Christiaan Johannes Grobler, 33, had pleaded not guilty to the charge arising from the death of 15 Africans and one white miner at the Buffelsfontein gold mine, near this western Transvaal town last June 28.

No Solution in Sight

The weekend outbreak of serious fighting in the Middle East was hardly unexpected. There had been reports of Egyptian and Syrian build-ups of strength along the Israeli border. Egyptian leaders had become more pointed in their promises to the people that military strength would win them back the territories lost to the Israelis in 1967. It was just a matter of time before preparations — and Israeli responses — became a reality. Now the fighting appears to be full-scale again, and the results may be of similar dimensions.

The renewal of the war came in the midst of new efforts by the United Nations Secretariat to bring the two sides together. The U.N. has been powerless over the years to exert much influence on the Middle East situation. Personal diplomacy by various officials has proved no more successful than efforts in the General Assembly or the Council. The former has lost status with the Israelis because of the large number of Arab members and sympathizers with votes in the Assembly. But perhaps the predominant fact in the U.N.'s failure with the problem has been the background realities of involvement by the major powers.

It was enough that the political and military interests of Russia and the United States were deeply immersed in the Middle East controversy. An effective settlement could not be imposed on the antagonistic countries because Russia and the United States could not resolve their own conflicts. When to such a situation is added the super-sensitive question of Arab oil, it is not surprising that no settlement has been found.

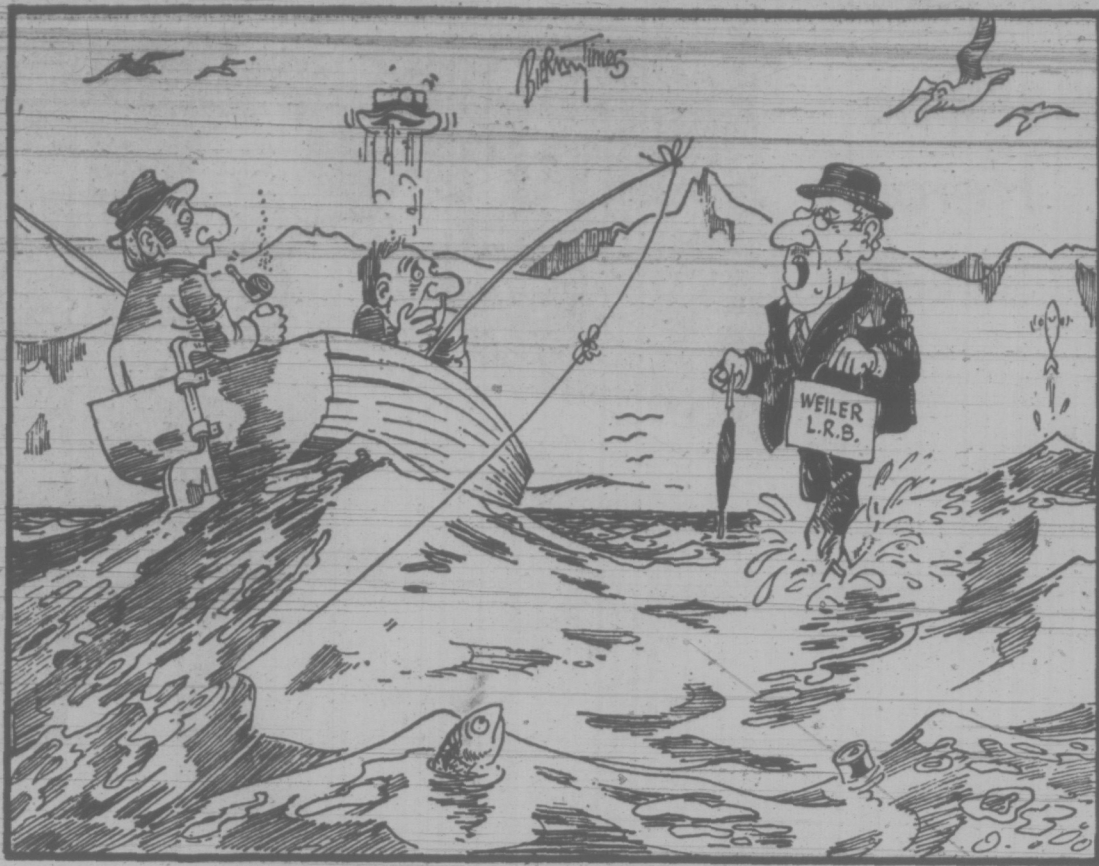

It is not likely that a victory by either the Israelis or the Arab allies in the current fighting will in any way provide an answer to "the Middle East problem." When the problem has existed for two thousand years, the results of any given flare-up of fighting can be considered by either side as merely a temporary phase.

Apart from major-power manoeuvring and the oil aspect, and apart from the traditional religious conflict of the two sides, there are other essentially basic elements of the situation. One is the legitimate problem of the Palestine refugees — a problem which the world has dodged for decades. Another is the fact of Israel's existence, and the corollary that so virile a community, growing at so fast a rate, can be contained within a limited terrain only with difficulty.

In a militarily vulnerable position which by most standards must be adjudged impossible, and surrounded by enemies who continually foretell Israel's extinction, it is obvious that protective territory is a vital problem for the Israelis. They are not likely to give up their 1967 gains without a fight to the death. The only viable alternative would be a completely reliable, perpetual international guarantee of Israel's future.

What nation, or group of nations, today is willing, able, or likely to give that in a way that would inspire confidence? Peace in the Middle East must for a long time remain little more than a dream.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Appreciated

Thanksgiving gives us at Goodwill a chance to thank the many who have helped us.

We must thank the staff of the Times for the space given to reporting our events and needs. This generosity has been invaluable. We must thank the donors of items through our collection booths and pick-up services and those who have given us space to locate our booths. We must thank the users of our retail stores who have thus provided the money needed to carry out our training and rehabilitation programs for the handicapped.

Space does not allow for thanks to many others specifically but we wish to give our heart-felt thanks to all who have helped us. Without your support we could not hope to carry on but with it the future looks bright. — Alec Reid, Community Relations Officer, Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped.

Humanism

Why did Dr. Norman Bethune's death have such a terrific impact on Chairman Mao Tse-tung?

Having been in China during that period, may I respectfully submit my viewpoint.

Mao is a humanist and he understood through practical experience the outpouring of Dr. Bethune's soul's, as the doctor practised selfless humanism on desperately wounded Chinese and Japanese soldiers. This humanism so inspired Mao that he made Dr. Bethune into a national hero in the eyes of 700 million Chinese.

Both Mao and Dr. Bethune knew that pity is not natural to most human beings. This can be seen in the cruelty of children, and in the acts of adults who believe in the madness of war.

Both Mao and Dr. Bethune not only believed in humanism, but practised it — a rare thing for too many humanists. And whatever Mao's critics may say — Mao has established by deeds, what true humanism stands for.

I want Mao's humanism to speak for itself. And to let it speak through the critical judgment of a non-Chinese like myself who lived in China for 22 years and shared some of the birth pains of the new China; of someone like myself who went back 20 years later to compare the old with the new.

And what did I find?

Gone were the appalling poverty, disease, filth, and stinks of the old days. Gone were the racketeers, bandits, warlords, and armies of corruption and squeeze. Gone was the hopelessness and despair of peasants, fishermen, and factory workers. Gone was illiteracy among the masses of the people. Gone was the nightmare of unemployment.

Gone was the fear of old age and insecurity. Gone were the armies of prostitutes and beggars. Gone was the exploitation of child labour. Gone were the heaps of human misery, dying nightly by the thousands on the sidewalks of Shanghai and other major cities. Gone were the bloated bodies of suicides floating on the Whangpoo, Pearl, and other rivers.

Gone was the largest prison in the world, a creation foisted upon the Chinese by foreigners. Gone were brutalizing policemen — Annamite, Sikh, and foreign — who excelled in feeding Chiang-Kai Shek's murder squads with Chinese student patriots.

Gone was the generation of western-created opium addicts. Gone was the lack of parks and recreation facilities for Chinese. Gone was the failure to build new hospitals, schools, etc. Gone were the western and Japanese overlords, who ruled and ruined the hopes and happiness of a quarter of the world's population. Gone was the stranglehold of religion on the minds of the people.

My list could go on and on. But I hope it serves to prove that Mao's "Peoples Republic of China" — towards which our Canadian Dr. Norman Bethune gave his selfless life — is largely Applied Practical Humanism at its Best. — W. A. (Bill) Scott, 1052 Newport Ave.

CNR Trail

The Victoria Sierra Club strongly supports the proposal by the provincial Parks Branch to convert the old abandoned CNR track into a parkway for hikers and cyclists. This is a most imaginative and unique scheme and with the one exception, in Ottawa, would be a first of its kind in Canada.

The cyclist is perhaps the most neglected of all the outdoor hobbyists with very little choice of areas to ride in other than highways or side roads which are crowded with automobile traffic most of the time. If this parkway were established it would provide a continuous, secluded and scenic route all the way from downtown Victoria through Colwood, Metchosin, Matheson Lake provincial park, Sooke basin, Leechtown, along the Cowichan River to Lake Cowichan and Yoxbush with picnic areas, camp sites and restroom facilities along the route. How lucky can you get?

It is difficult to comprehend the apathy and disinterest of the general public which has greeted this proposal. For over a month now it has been before them and people have had the opportunity to respond in a positive manner. The provincial government is waiting and hoping for support; they need the feedback in the form of letters from everyone who would like to see such a route established.

The matter is urgent for there are other interested parties who would be only too anxious to see their own ideas for the use of this line implemented. Even if you neither ride a bicycle or hike, think what an advantage this is to young school age cyclists as well as those older enthusiasts.

Write now to the Hon. Jack Radford, Minister of Recreation and Conservation, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C. — The Victoria Sierra Club, Mrs. E. Howden, Secretary.

Free Will

I have terminated my membership in the British Columbia Government Employees Union as of 30 September 1973.

I am taking this step with great regret. It is my personal demonstration to express my disappointment over the fact that the union does not reject compulsory membership for future government employees, accepts the Rand Formula (compulsory dues payment by non-members) and accepts the right to strike.

I object that the union will derive its strength, obtain its financial means and hold onto its "mandate" — what mandate? — by means of compulsion and coercion as provided for in pending legislation, presently before the Legislative Assembly of British Columbia in the form of Bill No. 182.

I do not wish to be a member of any organization that takes money from my colleagues, as a condition of their earning a living, who do not wish to belong to or to contribute financially to this union.

Both, the Charter of the United Nations and the Canadian Constitution guarantee the right of everybody to free assembly. If one is forced to assemble by legislation, is this a free assembly?

Of course, this is no freedom as guaranteed by the free governments of the world. Legislation by any government accepted by any union, forcing assembly and membership or, alternatively, extracting a payment, is oppressive, unjust and unconstitutional.

Further, I do not think that this union has any need, now or later, to go on strike against its bargaining partner, the government of British Columbia. We do not deal here with a grubby, greedy and exploiting capitalist who squeezes the most out of his abject and starving laborers.

I joined this union as early as I could as an act of my free will, convinced of the correctness and necessity of such joining, and I worked and spoke on its behalf and its interest. I must now quit, again as an act of my free will, because this union shows no regard for human freedom and decency, as I see it. And this union will get my dues money against my free will, because it will have the legislated power to do so. — Eberhard V. Schulenburg, 121 Government St.

The Average Doesn't Exist

OTTAWA — The Finance department, nettled by the latest calculating of Statistics Canada, has challenged the finding that the "average Canadian worker" is slipping behind in the struggle with inflation.

Fascinating as it may be to the participants, the whole argument is plainly artificial. The "average Canadian" of 1957-58 was the political invention of John Diefenbaker. We exist as individuals; our needs and circumstances differ even though we may be assigned to the same income group by National Revenue or Statistics Canada.

In Ottawa there are regular bus routes and express routes, the latter operating in rush hours. The Transit Commission plans to increase express fares by 100 per cent. How will this added expense be calculated for purposes of the cost of living index? Presumably it will be averaged over the bus riding population.

The resulting statistical figure will, no doubt, be some interesting fraction; let us say 10.75 per cent. But who will pay this? It will be a simple matter to find bus riders whose costs are increased by 100 per cent and others on regular routes for whom the increase is zero. It may be very difficult to identify the citizen who can so divide his bus travel budget that he qualifies as an average 10.75 per cent Ottawa worker.

Mythical Average

So with inflation as viewed with anxiety by Statistics Canada or through the rose-colored glasses fashionable at the Finance ministry. The average is a statistical myth.

It is characteristic of inflation that it distorts the economy. The so-called average means that those in strong positions fare very well while others do very badly.

The finance department contends that Statistics Canada ought to have reckoned in terms of "real disposable income" which would take into account reductions in taxation. On this basis Mr. Turner's advisers calculate that we were better off, by about 6.2 per cent, in the first half of 1973 than we were in the comparable months of 1972.

The indignation at Finance is not entirely without justification. There are various shortcomings in the work of Statistics Canada although some are unhelpful to the government's case. But there is a preliminary question to be asked:

How well does Finance cover the inflationary waterfront?

That 6.2 per cent, for example, must include a significant increment which would accrue to us even in the unthinkable event that the government desisted from good works.

In the natural course, we should gain something year by year as a result of technological progress, improved skills and returns to be expected from the national investment.

To say that "people are at least holding their own" is to say very little. If that is the best we can do, with all the boasted expansion, it is obvious that inflation is getting the better of us.

Secondly, these wage-price calculations take no account of the erosion of savings. "The average Canadian worker" has in many cases set aside tidy sums. This must be so for, according to official theory, his problem is to find means of investing his savings. Why else do we have the Canada Development Corporation with its truly imperial ambitions?

The government can index state pensions but it has not yet found a way of indexing savings. Uncalculated, they merely melt away in the fires of inflation.

But Finance expects too much of Statistics Canada. How, for example, are the statisticians to calculate that part of inflation represented by depreciation of the product?

A rose is a rose and a pound of sugar is a pound of sugar. But the dream house of 1973 is simply not the dream house of ten years ago. While the costs have risen, the baseboards have shrunk. So have the warranties on automobiles although gas consumption, for various reasons, has moved in the opposite direction.

Shortages also exact costs difficult to measure. Thus the dream house, for reasons beyond the control of the contractor, cannot be occupied on the due date. What then happens to the average Canadian worker if he exists and has had the temerity probably on the strength of ministerial speeches to invest in a home?

Mr. Turner, before assuming his present responsibilities, used to make interesting speeches about the cashless society. The cashless are to be found in great abundance. They have certainly been doing their best to sustain the economy.

Double Problem

The problem is that they are confronted not merely with the price of goods but also with the astronomical prices of credit. Finance should be better placed than Statistics Canada to calculate this additional impact of inflation on the average and struggling worker.

In Ottawa, a leading centre of inflationary thought, the Transit Commission has proposed another and somewhat startling method of filling its treasury. The Commission is thinking of moving to an "exact change" system of fare payments. The theory is that citizens, lacking the precise fare, will make involuntary additional contributions. It will be a case of Stand (which most people seem to do anyway) and Deliver.

Into what category will Statistics Canada place these contributions?

With the advance of inflation and the decline of services, things are obviously becoming very complex and difficult of measurement. Perhaps it is a good thing that sinful private businessmen, up to this point, have been slow to follow the lead of some of our public authorities, especially in approaches to the cost problem which seemed to be inspired generally by the practice of the famous American inflation fighter, Jesse James.

Most Persistent Myth

The recent letter by the James Bay Ratepayers Association repeats the story that rezoning is going to hit the pockets of the average man — "not the greedy developers" they say — who bought or held land as a legitimate hedge against inflation or retirement.

This is the most persistent myth put out by the Ratepayers Association. There are several factual arguments to counteract it, the first being that rezoning, of the type proposed in James Bay, does not seriously affect property values. In fact, single family dwellings become more desirable and their prices are rising more rapidly in James Bay than other areas.

What the Ratepayers Association should do is distinguish between absentee landlords — the speculators, whether they are large or small — and owners of property who live on the premises. Speculators, whether they are in stocks or shares or property, must take the rough with the smooth. But if I live in a house in James Bay, or anywhere else, and I am now offered twice what I paid for it five years ago, the time for rejoicing is not yet — because I find it costs me even more to buy a house elsewhere, or rent an apartment, or buy a condominium and pay all the upkeep charges.

Up to now the rate of growth of James Bay has been greater than any other area. The 1973 City of Victoria plan will give us 25.5 to the acre compared with the City's 21 to the acre, Fernwood 21 and Oak Bay 23. West End Vancouver is 110 with a potential of 175 and Hong Kong 650. Perhaps members of the Ratepayers Association would like to live in either of these last two places!

James Bay is rehabilitating itself. Houses are being repaired, painted bright colours and, with the changes in the National Housing Act, there will be even more money available for owners, and the City, to make the area the showplace of downtown Victoria. — K.W. Lines, President, James Bay Community Association.

From the Times of October 9, 1913

The total membership of the winter classes at the Y.M.C.A. now numbers 76, the largest of the classes being, as usual, that of arithmetic, which has a membership of 19. Ten students have entered the commercial class in bookkeeping, and quite a number of these are taking the complete commercial course, which means an attendance four times weekly. The foreigners' class contains one Russian, one Italian, two Greeks, one Swede and one German. The businessmen's gymnasium class is about the same size as last year and very enthusiastic. Mr. Beall has a very successful leader's corps of about 10 men, who are studying as assistants in gymnasium class leadership.

Love Has No Age

THE GLOBE AND MAIL
An Editorial

The indulgent generation has itself to blame in large part. It has allowed its children not only to seize most of the radio stations, record stores, fashion houses and barber shops but to create and foster myths about themselves. One is that sex was invented at Woodstock, and this remarkably inventive generation has consequently arrogated to itself proprietorial rights in sexual activity.

Trespassers, naturally, will be scorned, ridiculed, or — the most popular attitude of all — viewed with disgust. The injustice, the ignorance and the inhumanity of condemning sexual activity among the aged, or at least creating the kind of conditions in which it can find no expression, were properly, the subject of biting comment by Dr. Marian Powell, an associate professor at the University of Toronto's school of hygiene.

She placed the evidently unpalatable thought before 200 delegates to the convention of the Ontario Association of Homes for the Aged: the occupants of these homes are people with much the same sexual needs and frustrations as the teen-agers at the other end of the chronological scale. Unhappily, the permissive society has been permissive mostly in one direction.

It would be honest to concede that this intolerance and lack of understanding does not lie entirely among the young. Many people in their middle years would be much happier if people older than they would subside into gentle celibacy (in their 50s at the very latest) and be content to coast gracefully downhill at Sunset Acres, or whatever other monastic establishment is selected for them.

And let's admit, while we are at it, that a barely discernible resilience has crept into the running of homes for the aged in recent years. There is no longer the rigid segregation by sex (the men dine over there, the women here) that there once was; and in more places than before it is possible for couples to secure a modicum of privacy.

Dr. Powell's observations, however make it clear that as old people move within range of the authority of the state that state feels obliged to apply the mores of its most repressive citizens. (Curiously, in the heavily subsidized university residences, the state feels no comparable compulsion to intervene on human relationships.)

Many of those who find themselves in homes for the aged have lost their partners years before, and are battling with the ensuing loneliness. Who has the right to prescribe the exact course — social or sexual — they must follow for their remaining years?

The impediments may not be simply lack of understanding, prejudice, or failure to show compassion, though they are all there in some degree. The difficulties are also architectural — the simple lack of facilities that would be sympathetic to the development of warm human relations. Dr. Powell may be right about the potential popularity of a "petting room" but we suspect this would be a little too conspicuous for the fragile flower of romantic attachment.

The designers of new homes for the aged may take this into consideration. Meantime, the architecture of social attitudes might be revised with beneficial effect.

OPENING CAMPAIGN, Premier and Mrs. Robert Bourassa, left, pass demonstrators and well-wishers in Montreal riding of Mercier. Bourassa is said to have lost support of some English Quebecers but is still expected to get most of their votes in this month's election.

QUEBEC'S TOUCHY CAMPAIGN

The Feds Tread Softly

By DOUGLAS FISHER

OTTAWA — In Ottawa there'll be a tip-toeing around everything Quebecish: There'll be a remarkable hesitancy commenting on the incidents and challenges which will flower in the next four weeks.

One may get the impression that the federal politicians, aside from Real Caouette's Creditistes, really don't care or know about what's transpiring on the Quebec hustings. That will be a wrong impression. The Liberals, the Conservatives, the New Democrats, all care a great deal. They're just scared to show it, firstly for the harm it may do to their friends in Quebec provincial politics, secondly, because they could jeopardize their federal base (the Liberals especially) or their tenuous prospects for gaining such a base (i.e. the PCs and the NDP).

Outsiders have noted more and more practical evidence of the seeming severance of the federal and Quebec Liberal parties. They seem to be quite distinct. They certainly are at the top, though less so at the bottom.

No one has bothered to note it but the NDP is a federation of provincial parties. Organizationally, the formal federal entity is merely a super-structure at the top made up of the provincial organizations. In Quebec (and in three of the four Atlantic provinces) this federated structure comes unstuck. The provincial base in membership and riding organizations is so weak.

Thus the Quebec provincial NDP is really a shadow grouping. A small cadre of moderate socialists and trade unionists, less than a thousand in all, are sustained in a hand-to-mouth existence by occasional funds and organizational support piped through the federal super-structure. This means that in Quebec provincial elections the major questions are whether to show an electoral flag and in how many constituencies — certainly, the imperative is to do what is done at the least possible cost.

That is, any NDP efforts of a formal kind in this election will be simply to demonstrate that the party is still alive in Quebec. Meanwhile, in their social and economic policies, a remarkable similarity has emerged between the NDP as we see the party in Ottawa and the PQ. The bugbear is that in the rest of Canada Lewis, as staunch federalist, cannot be seen as too close to Levesque. And given Levesque's views on clear detachment from federal politics, the PQ sees nothing useful in even an informal understanding with the NDP.

The Conservative thoughts about Quebec provincial politics can be simplified to three points.

Firstly, their traditional connections and core support in vote terms have been with the Union Nationale, and the UN seems in the process of breaking up.

Secondly, Stanfield and friends feel in their bones that if they could only pick up eight or 10 seats federally in Quebec they become the majority and ruling party in Canada. They can't foresee other than marginal gains in the other regions.

Thirdly, the Tories possess in Claude Wagner the only federal politician, other than Trudeau and Marchand, who has any potential influence in a provincial campaign.

The bogging problem is how Wagner might exert such influence. The UN and its leader, Gabriel Loubier, seem a dubious attraction for even cover shoring-up. The Conservatives and Wagner must consider the possibility that an upsurge by Yvon Dupuis and Social Credit, harming the PQ and polarizing Quebec politics between the Liberals and Social Credit, might do the Conservatives an indirect favor. That is, if Dupuis success translates later into a large rump of Caouettistes in Ottawa, the Conservatives could not gain Quebec seats but Trudeau would certainly lose some.

If they could dictate the script of the Quebec election, the Conservatives would like best a strong survival of the UN as official opposition. As second choice, and much less wishful, a Social Credit rise of a limited scale would be preferable to a returned Bourassa government with the PQ in official opposition.

Only the Social Credit MPs in Ottawa talk about a Bourassa defeat, and they are always widely optimistic about election chances, publicly and privately. The federal Liberals from Quebec have small reverence for Bourassa and an immense contempt plus some fear of Yvon Dupuis. A surprising generalization about attitudes of federal politicians to the leadership candidates in Quebec is that Rene Levesque seems both more comprehensible and appreciated in terms of integrity and intelligence than do Bourassa, Loubier and Dupuis. There's a respect, even a fondness for the articulate little Levesque among all but the Social Credit people; and something, fly tying. They've settled on Raising Beef Cattle for Fun and Profit, and Purebred Dogs as a Hobby or Profession. He'll go to one, she'll go to the other and they'll compare notes. If neither pans out, next year they'll try beekeeping. There's no hurry. He's only 39.

A nameless woman has decided to learn to drive. She is 54 and all she really wants is the licence. "Every time I try to write a cheque in a store they ask to see my driver's licence. I feel like a freak."

As I write this, I face the unnerving prospect of being a late registration for something, but I'm not sure what. Not only am I overwhelmed by subject matter, but I now question my motives. I may just settle in by the TV and wait for the whole show to move inside. After all, in five years at the most, the community cable outlets will be offering their own at-home, televised courses on everything. We'll be able to explore different subjects each week. With drink in hand, I can hardly wait for the heart-stopping moment when I have to choose between the Dallas Cowboys on Channel 7, Flip Wilson on 4, Basics of Nutrition on 10 and Experimental Yodeling on 49.

The Dilemma Of English Quebec

The Globe and Mail

MONTREAL — A large, elderly businessman in an expensive-looking grey flannel suit was riding the CN commuter train in from the English-speaking enclave of Roxboro the other day. He read a few reassuring lines in the Montreal Gazette about the coming provincial election and gradually dozed off, his umbrella tucked between his knees, as the train bumped along.

The train screamed suddenly to a stop at the next station and the man awoke. "It is an important election, a very important one," he said to me.

Around him most of the other commuters had cast aside the news section of their newspaper and were reading the sports page to learn about the regrettably collapse of their beloved Expos. No one seemed concerned about the election. It's typical of the mood in the English-speaking community since the election announcement earlier last week.

"The Liberals will probably get in again, but the Parti Quebecois and the Creditistes will surely gain ground," the man said.

Traditionally, Quebec's English-speaking population — more than a million people and 20 per cent of the electorate — votes Liberal in a bloc.

"There is no reason to expect otherwise," he said, almost sadly. He wished there was a serious alternate federalist party for the Anglophone Quebecer.

Lost Enthusiasm

Quebec's English have lost enthusiasm for Mr. Bourassa's Liberals. They are worried about how far Mr. Bourassa's often-repeated but still-to-be-defined policy of naming French the "working language" will go. They blame him in part for new hiring and promotion practices in business that favor bilingual or French-speaking candidates over unilingual English-speaking ones.

The businessmen in Montreal — most of whom are English-speaking in the big companies — are worried about the growing government intervention in the economy, and the cost in taxes of the major social reforms underway.

The Conseil du Patronat (literally: bosses' council), fronted by eloquent French-speaking Quebecers, but which represents business — which in Montreal is English — has put considerable pressure on Mr. Bourassa's government to cut back spending increases in education, hospitals and welfare.

The English-speaking community of Montreal is not at all satisfied with its representation in Quebec City. Many feel it has been co-opted by the French-speaking majority.

English Quebec is in a political dilemma. Since it insists on federalism it can't vote Parti Quebecois, and since the English — businessman — demands a sound, business-minded government, he can't vote Creditiste.

A Silent Wince

I mentioned to the commuter-businessman beside me that if Yvon Dupuis' Creditistes form the next government, Camille Samson might be appointed finance minister. He winced in silence.

The English community, long accustomed to behind-the-scenes accommodations with whatever government was in Quebec City — Liberal or Union Nationale — never really participated in grassroots politics.

Yet, numerically, it is a strong population; there are more Anglophones in Quebec than in six other provinces.

One of the problems is that, in the past, the Quebec Anglophones have used their money instead of their voting power. The average Quebecois sees the Quebec English as a dominant minority, not really plugged-in to Quebec life, that rides commuter trains to Mount Royal or Roxboro carrying umbrellas and only waits to be told by the Liberals every four years to trot out dutifully to the polls to vote Liberal.

Despite all the pleadings and persuasions of people like Montreal Liberal backbenchers George Springate that there are thousands of poor English in Montreal who do not live in Westmount or Mount Royal, but in the Grifintown, St. Henri and Verdun slums, the average Quebecois doesn't believe any of it.

Even the Liberal Party, which draws roughly half its electoral strength and much of its finance from the Quebec English, treats English-speaking members of its conventions as if they were a very unimportant minority.

Gabriel Loubier, Union Nationale leader, said recently that if the Liberals came to power mainly on the strength of the Anglophone vote, it could be "dangerous" for Quebec.

Like a Threat

Loubier didn't mean it that way, but it came out as a threat. The last poll showed that Mr. Loubier's UN had less than 1 per cent of the English vote in Montreal — the Liberals 68.9 per cent and the PQ and Creditistes less than 5 per cent each.

As the crowded commuter train pulled into the bowels of Central Station, Parti Quebecois Leader Rene Levesque was already preparing what he would tell Anglophone reporters later in the day. "We regret it, but we're not counting on any substantial support from the English in this election," said Levesque, shrugging. "We had our lesson in 1970. We went all out to make a dent in the English-speaking bloc which was so well-manipulated by the English media."

"We have no illusions about doing much better. We know the result will have to come from our own cultural family — French Quebec."

One man who is trying to make a dent this time is Yvon Dupuis, who has been courting English-Speaking businessmen.

The last public opinion poll showed that 21.1 per cent of English Montreal was undecided as to whom it should vote for. Dupuis, attending one businessman's luncheon gathering after another, appearing almost daily on the rubber-chicken circuit, has been a popular entertainer. But will they vote for him?

Night School Smorgasbord

The weighty question I have been wrestling with over the past few weeks is: "Which night-school course should I take this year?" (It isn't fair to expect the NFL, CFL, NHL, WHL and Marcus Welby to carry me through until May.)

The smorgasbord of courses served up these days seems to be exceeded only by the variety of reasons for partaking.

In my deliberations, I have talked to friends and distant relatives. Here is what a few of them are taking, and why: Susan, 25, has signed up for Conversational Portuguese. Last July, while vacationing in a village near Lisbon, she met Antonio who spoke no English. For six days and nights they needed neither English nor Portuguese. Then on the morning of the seventh day, he packed his duffel bag and shouted: "Eu tenho que voltar para minha mulher e meus seis filhos!" Heartbroken, she hopes to learn why he left her.

Gerry is taking Life Drawing again. This will be his third year in the front row. He has promised to quit if they switch models. Fred is taking Gas Fitter I Upgrading. Last year he took Gas Fitter Basic. (Guess what Fred does.)

Harry, his wife and their two children share a dream of sailing away to the South Seas. Each evening he works on the huge sailboat he is building in their basement. He expects a Monday night course called Intermediate Blueprint Reading will be a great help. And before he sets sail, he is looking forward to taking Navigation and Swimming.

Girls seem to have given up on being airline stewardesses. Be a Professional Bartender is a more appealing idea. Said one: "You can't even compare mixing Gibsons in Jamaica with pouring coffee over Halifax."

Ben is also looking into careers and reports that such fields as computers, franchise operations and chinchilla breeding have lost some of their glamour. He has registered for Security and Crime Investigation. "They call us the Watergate boys," he laughs.

The Coopers are planning ahead to the day when they retire to their piece of country property near Toronto. They hope to do something that will bring in a few dollars and have looked into courses on beekeeping, stud farm management, weaving, jewelry and silver-

TEXASGULF UP

TORONTO (CP) — Canada Development Corp. said today it is holding steady with its offer to buy 10 million shares of Texasgulf Inc. at $29 a share, despite some stock market fluctuation that has pushed the share price above $29.

President Anthony Hampson, operating from offices that have been moved to Toronto from Ottawa, said: "We are not paying attention to the short-term market."

While Canadians Ate Turkey Wall Street Went Bullish

By AL FORREST
Times Business Editor

While Canadian markets were closed Monday for Thanksgiving, Wall Street traded a brisk 18 million shares—and the Dow Jones rose 6.40 points closer to 1,000 and closed at 977.65.

U.S. analysts were impressed by the strength of the New York market despite the outbreak of hostilities in the Middle East.

Wall Street opened down slightly on Monday as oil issues took a beating but over-all strength of buying quickly put the Dow Jones on the upside.

The strength is mainly attributed to a general feeling that interest rates are beginning to peak out. In addition, the predicted U.S. recession, already discounted by the market, may be delayed more than six months if the solid company earnings reports are good evidence.

Oil firms with heavy interests in the Middle East took a beating in Monday's trading.

Exxon was down 2 1/4 to 93 1/2. Mobil was down 3 1/4 to 80 1/2.

Both were sliding in response to a nationalization move by Iraq and the Suez Canal warfare contributed further to the decline in the two stocks.

Texaco dropped 2 1/4 to 32 1/2 and Gulf was off 1/4 to 23 1/2 in Monday's brisk trading.

Companies with alternate sources of oil and large prospects in Alaska gained from the troubles in the Middle East. Atlantic Richfield on Monday put on 4 1/4 to 97 1/2. Standard Oil of Ohio jumped 5 to 142 1/4 and Sun Oil rose 3 1/2 to 59 1/4.

Oil issues were in the spotlight in Canada as well today as investors watched for reaction to Alberta's announcement it planned to increase royalties.

An estimated $490 million was erased from the values of Imperial Oil, Gulf Oil Canada and Shell Canada in Thursday's trading as a response to the announcement.

However, much of the loss had been wiped out on Friday as investors apparently felt the decline was an overreaction to the news.

Alberta has announced it plans to substantially increase oil and natural gas royalties, beginning Jan. 1.

Some large institutional traders began hunting a buyer or buyers for their large holdings in oil company shares. Because of the time factor involved in arranging large trading, the full effects of the Alberta announcement might not be felt for several weeks.

The Alberta decision is expected to have an effect on Canadian oil company earnings in 1974 but some analysts feel the decline could be minimal.

A decision by a single large institutional buyer to bid for the available oil shares would have a powerful effect in keeping share values close to present levels.

In Vancouver, Lewes River Mines Ltd. shareholders were hit with a one-for-six consolidation, leaving them 166.7 shares for every 1,000 they held.

The newly-formed company will be called Olympian International Resources Ltd. (OLY) with capitalization of three million shares.

There were 2,366,502 shares of Lewes River distributed but these have been reduced to less than 400,000 with the consolidation.

Lewes River was incorporated in 1968 and held claims in the Yukon and near Smithers, B.C.

Olympian shares began trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today.

Ardo Mines Ltd. and Driftwood Mines Ltd. have informed the VSE their shares are not now in primary distribution. Spratt Silver Mines Ltd. is also out of primary.

Shasta Mines and Oils Ltd. shares have been suspended pending clarification of the company's affairs.

The suspension is related to an investigation of the trading in shares of Financorp Ltd., a company 21 per cent owned by Shasta.

Cockfield, Brown

Cockfield, Brown and Company Ltd. has announced the purchase for an undisclosed sum of Industrial Advertising Agency Ltd., which has annual billings of about $3.5 million.

Ray Collington, Cockfield, Brown president, said the acquisition of Industrial Advertising, which has offices in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver, will permit his firm to provide more specialized communications and marketing services to Canadian industry.

Great Lakes, Brascan Reorganize

TORONTO (CP) — Shareholders of Great Lakes Power Corp. Ltd. will be asked at a meeting Oct. 26 to approve a reorganization under which it will acquire practically all of the Canadian assets of Brascan Ltd. Great Lakes is 96 per cent owned by Brascan.

Assets to be included in the new organization are Great Lakes Power Co. in Sault Ste. Marie; Brascan Resources Ltd.; and Brascan's share interests in John Labatt Ltd. and Hudson's Bay Co.

The new company "will be a substantial Canadian investment management company with interests in the energy and natural resource field and investments in consumer products and retail merchandising," shareholders are told.

Brascan has major holdings in Brazil in addition to its Canadian operations.

Steep Rock Iron Plans New Mine

ATIKOKAN, Ont. (CP) — Steep Rock Iron Mines Ltd. has announced plans for a $327,000 mine development at Lake St. Joseph, 200 miles northwest of Thunder Bay.

Company President F. R. Jones said two deposits of iron ore have been found, each 600 to 800 feet wide and more than two miles long.

He said the project will mean as many as 800 jobs. Ground breaking is to begin next year and initial production is set for 1976.

Jones made the announcement in a statement issued in this northwestern Ontario town where Steep Rock already had a large mining operation.

He said there is enough iron ore near Lake St. Joseph, a rugged area that is accessible by road, to keep plants going for the next 50 to 100 years.

Jones said test drills have been made to a depth of 500 feet and it is believed the drills can go to 1,000 feet or deeper.

He said a provincial study group is considering a new townsite for the development. Full-scale production could reach 4 million long tons annually.

Labor Cases Provide Leisure for Weiler

By JOHN LEBLANC

TORONTO (CP) — Labor law has provided "fun and excitement and a change from the ivory tower" to Paul Weiler, a heavy thinker on many aspects of law.

A law teacher and an innovative arbitrator much in demand in Ontario labor-management disputes, he now moves his ideas to a broader field as chairman-designate of an expanded B.C. labor relations board under that province's proposed sweeping new labor code.

"This is the kind of thing that intrigues me," 34-year-old Weiler said in an interview as he prepared to tackle a backlog of arbitration cases that will keep him going until December.

For almost all of the nine years he has been teaching at Osgoode Hall Law School, labor cases have filled much of his free time. He has handled more than 200 disputes — some bringing precedent-setting decisions — and of late has had to ration himself to one a week.

Though he studied labor law at Harvard Law School, he doesn't teach it and he fell into arbitration to be on opposite sides of a wrangle decide to give him a try.

"I didn't have another case for six months after that," he said. "It's a hit-or-miss game. If you hit, you're in demand."

One of the good features is that you've got to be acceptable to both sides."

A number of his decisions may not have received open-arms acceptance but they have all stood up, even though at least one came pretty close to overstepping guidelines laid down by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The top court's ruling was that, once an arbitration board found reason for justifying the disciplining of an employee, the form of discipline chosen by the company was not subject to further arbitration. In 1969 a panel chaired by Mr. Weiler unanimously set aside the discharge of an employee in these circumstances.

Later, some of the provinces including B.C. changed their law along the same line.

Another 1969 piece of writing by Weiler also was a precursor of legislation. In a study for the federal study group on labor relations, he wrote that no-strike clauses in contracts should not preclude new bargaining over technological or other industrial changes.

Since-adopted federal legislation goes part of the distance this way, and so does B.C. in its newly-introduced labor code.

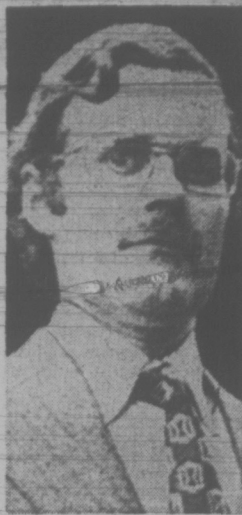

While Weiler declined to discuss the new B.C. law, he did say he spent much of the last year in Vancouver — on sabbatical leave — and that colleagues there "bounced a few ideas off me" while the bill was being drafted. But he was surprised when he was eventually offered the $39,000-a-year board chairmanship with its prospect of administering already controversial labor law.

His main purpose in taking the year off, he said, was to finish up a book on the judicial function in Canadian law as particularly embodied in the Supreme Court of Canada.

He chose Vancouver because his wife's family lives there.

The book, due out about Christmas, is to some extent in tune with the new B.C. legislation's proviso that labor board decisions are not subject to review by the courts.

1974 Pontiac. It's a little more car.

Parisienne Brougham 2-door Hardtop.

Count on it. Getting a bit more when you buy a Pontiac is nothing new. In fact, those Wide-Track people have a talent for giving you even more than you counted on. What's new is the way they do it.

Look how they've styled the '74 Parisienne Brougham 2-door Hardtop. Ever expect a full-size car to look so impressive from the front yet so downright sporty from the side?

Come on in. This is the life. What appears like hand-carved dark chestnut is on the instrument panel, the doors and on the cushioned steering wheel. There's thick, cut-pile carpeting, even on the lower doors. The upholstery is distinctively attractive whether it's the standard block tweed or optional vinyl Morrokide.

But you didn't know you could now order white vinyl seats with the rest of your interior in color! Or you could have the seats plus interior in white with your carpeting, instrument panel, steering column and the shelf behind the rear seat all in blue or green. As you can tell, this is a new year!

More car. You'll find Turbo Hydra-matic transmission, variable-ratio power steering, power front disc brakes, powered ventilation and a 350-cubic-inch V8 are standard. And if you thought Pontiac had gone about as far as it could go in sheer driveability, then you've yet to drive a '74. Do it soon.

And ask about the Radial Tuned Suspension option. When you order whitewall steel-belted radial tires they come with a special ride and handling package.

See your Pontiac dealer about a new Parisienne Brougham. And give yourself a little more car this time out.

Left: Standard Parisienne Brougham block tweed upholstery. You can live the good life for the price of a Pontiac.

Centre: Parisienne Brougham instrumentation and Custom Cushion steering wheel. When you're behind all this, you're ahead.

Right: Parisienne Brougham 2-door Hardtop roofline. More than great new styling it offers outstanding visibility.

Changes Made In CS Bill

Legislation giving the province's civil servants collective bargaining rights for the first time is expected to be re-introduced in the legislature Friday, provincial Secretary Ernie Hall said today.

The bill, called the Public Service Labor Relations Act, was first introduced in the spring session and was withdrawn by the government so that discussions could be held with employees on proposed amendments.

Hall said today there have been some minor wording changes made to the bill. He also hinted the legislation may contain a conscience clause permitting exemption from a union by individuals whose religious beliefs do not favor membership.

$4M PARTY SETS SAIL

Times News Services
NEW YORK — In a gala holiday mood, several hundred businessmen are on their way to Newfoundland aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth 2 as guests of industrial promoter John Shaheen for the opening of a new $130-million refinery.

The QE2 sailed Sunday night from New York for Come-By-Change, Nfld., with more than 500 business, shipping and oil industry leaders from more than 20 countries, and in many cases their wives.

The liner was chartered by Shaheen, head of Shaheen Natural Resources Ltd., to bring the businessmen to Come-By-Change for the opening of the new oil refinery Wednesday.

The refinery is to be managed and later acquired by Newfoundland Refining Co. Ltd., a subsidiary of Shaheen Resources.

There was no immediate estimate of the cost of chartering the luxury liner for the gala affair.

One report said it cost more than $4 million to throw the big celebration, but this figure could not be confirmed.

Winston Churchill, British MP and grandson of the late war-time leader, will be the guest speaker at the official refinery opening.

The Canard Line's Hudson River pier was a scene of confusion Sunday as chauffeur-driven limousines disgorged their passenger in the afternoon, and taxes three deep brought more expensively-dressed guests through the evening.

Many were braced for cold weather despite assurances that 60-degree temperatures were forecast for Come-By-Change.

The ship was to leave Come-By-Change after the ceremonies, stopping first at the Strait of Canso site where Shaheen plans a second refinery, and at Halifax to visit still another Shaheen development.

HANKY-PANKY DETAILED

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Michael McMinoway, otherwise known as "Sedan Chair II," told senate investigators he infiltrated the 1972 presidential campaigns of three Democratic senators for the purposes of spying and political sabotage.

McMinoway, who was to testify in public session before the senate Watergate committee today, said in a preliminary interview with the committee staff that he spied on Sens. George McGovern, Edmund Muskie and Hubert Humphrey.

Using his code name, "Sedan Chair II," he operated under the direction of Jeb Stuart Magruder, deputy director of President Nixon's re-election campaign, he said.

A second witness, John "Fat Jack" Buckley, told investigators that a cab driver planted in the Muskie campaign gave him political documents which he photographed and gave to convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

McMinoway told the committee staff he "walked in" to Humphrey headquarters in Philadelphia, announcing himself as a businessman with spare time to donate.

He was put to work on mailing and telephone projects, McMinoway said he switched telephone cards so that some potential Muskie supporters were never called and others were called twice.

He said he switched mailing lists, to that campaign literature aimed at black voters went to labor groups and vice versa.

He infiltrated the Muskie campaign in Milwaukee and the Humphrey and McGovern campaigns in California, he said.

Voter Lists 'Wrong'

MONTREAL (CP) — Rene Levesque Monday claimed that voters' lists in Montreal ridings were inaccurate for the Oct. 29 provincial election.

Levesque told 650 persons attending his first public campaign meeting in his home riding of Dorion, just west of here, that more than 100,000 qualified voters have been left off lists in 24 east-end ridings.

He also told reporters that another 25,000 are missing from lists in 10 west end ridings.

Those figures, he said, were arrived at by checking Montreal water tax records and by door-to-door surveys by party members.

Earlier Monday, Premier Robert Bourassa told a rally in Dorion that the Parti Quebecois will "meet its Waterloo" today when it unveils its budget for the first year of an independent Quebec.

"I have the impression this will be a gloomy document," Mr. Bourassa said.

IRA Chief Jailed

DUBLIN — A special Dublin court sentenced guerrilla leader Seamus Twomey, once the British Army's most wanted man in Northern Ireland, to three years in jail Monday.

Twomey, 33, who earlier this year was said to be chief of staff of the Irish Republican Army's provisional wing, was jailed for 12 months as a member of the illegal organization, and drew a three-year concurrent term on a charge of handling stolen money.

He refused to recognize the court and in one of several shouted interruptions in the proceedings, he called court officials "bootlickers of the British Army."

Twomey was the commander of the Provisionals' Belfast brigade before he moved to the Irish Republic.

Meanwhile, two carloads of masked men belonging to the IRA set off a bomb at a country hotel today but the building was cleared before the blast and no one was injured, police said.

Employees at the Roxborough Hotel at Rosstrevor in County Down said the men, all wearing masks, asked for rooms when they arrived.

Then announcing they were members of the IRA, they planted the bomb and a can of gasoline in the lounge and the manager's office.

The explosion followed 50 minutes after the men left. The hotel had been cleared of guests and staff and no one was injured, police said.

Army experts were called in because another bomb was believed to have remained unexploded in the hotel.

Shooting-Death Probe

Ladysmith RCMP are investigating the death of a 28-year-old Cassidy-area man found dead in his home five miles north of Ladysmith Sunday.

Police said today an autopsy has determined the man was killed by a gunshot wound to the head from a small calibre gun. The wound was not self-inflicted, said police.

The man had been dead several days, possibly a week when a friend, who had been trying unsuccessfully to contact him, climbed through a window of the house and discovered the body, they said.

The American Motors Buyer Protection Plan.

Every '74 AMC car we build has to pass with top marks before it gets to the toughest car inspector we know.

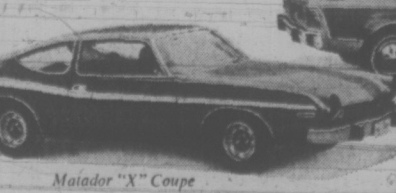

Car shown is the 1974 Gremlin "X". Certain items illustrated are optional at extra cost on all cars shown.

We believe that you're the toughest car inspector we know. That's why we take special precautions through our Buyer Protection Plan to make sure that your new 1974 AMC car will live up to your expectations. It starts at our factory where specialized production personnel have the responsibility of seeing that our high quality of manufacture is constantly maintained. But it doesn't just stop there. Then your American Motors Dealer puts it through an extensive Pre-Delivery Inspection that includes a 37 point check and certifies in writing that he has inspected and approved things like the braking, handling and overall performance. All this is part of the Buyer Protection Plan and it's done before you even drive an AMC car off the lot.

Then once you take delivery, one of the ways our Buyer Protection Plan keeps on working for you for 12,000 miles or one year is with our new car Guarantee. What it means is that when you buy a new 1974 AMC car from an American Motors Dealer, American Motors guarantees, except for tires, to have repaired or replaced any part it supplies that's defective. And this Guarantee is good for 12,000 miles or one entire year from the date the car is first used, whichever comes first. See your American Motors Dealer for full particulars.

What we're really trying to do is give you, the toughest car inspector we know, the easiest job on the road, owning one of our cars.

Waffle Rejects NDP Affiliation

MOOSE JAW (CP) — Membership in the New Democratic Party is no longer compatible with the goals of socialism and Canadian independence, the Saskatchewan Waffle movement decided in a three-day convention that ended Monday.

The 200 delegates — two-thirds of the total Waffle membership in the province — decided almost unanimously Saturday to leave the provincial NDP and set up their own political party.

Sunday was devoted to launching a policy-formulation process and Monday's session consisted of debate on organizational tactics.

Except for part of Saturday morning's discussion, the convention was closed to the news media.

At a press conference Monday, Waffle president Don

Mitchell emphasized that the new party will not be designed merely to get votes.

"Our concept of political party is not focused on the strategy of electoral emphasis," he said.

The party would work with wage-earners and persons exploited by the present economic system. He said in response to a question that it is conceivable, although unlikely, that the new party would not run a candidate in a provincial election for 10 years.

"Electoral activity for this political party is a tactical decision which may be made from time to time, locally or provincially."

He said the character of the Waffle — known as the radical left wing of the NDP — would not change, but separation would make the movement more effective.

2 Plead Not Guilty In Sex, Sadism Case

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two youths pleaded not guilty to charges of 10 counts of murder in the sex and sadism slayings of 27 teen-age boys. A preliminary hearing will be held Oct. 23.

Bible-carrying Elmer Henley, 17, and David Brooks, 18, entered the pleas at their arraignment before district Judge William Hatten.

Hatten ordered the two to face separate trials, Henley, on Jan. 14, 1974, and Brooks on March 4, 1974.

Police said the two promised young boys liquor, sex and marijuana to lure them to a house belonging to bachelor electrician, Dean Corll, 33, who engineered the homosexual attacks that ultimately ended in their deaths.

Corll died Aug. 8, of gunshot wounds during one of the alleged sex and murder orgies. Police said Henley confessed he pulled the trigger in self-defence, then admitted he and Brooks aided Corll in committing the worst mass slayings in the nation's history.

Linking of Ammo to Block Tagged 'Irresponsible'

YELLOWKNIFE (CP) — There is no reason to believe that Indians in Wrigley who asked for treaty payments in ammunition had any ulterior motive, Wally Wryba, regional representative for the Indian Affairs Department, said Monday.

And he said the government official who related the ammunition shipment to the tiny settlement's efforts to block nearby construction of the Mackenzie highway had "quite an irresponsible attitude."

The official, who did not want his name to be used, said on Saturday that 6,000 rounds of 30-30 ammunition were heading towards the settlement, 290 miles northwest of here, and "could stop the highway, the pipeline and the American 6th Army."

Andy Theriault, assistant to Wryba, said Monday only 2,800 rounds were sent to Wrigley from the federal government's supply and services department in Edmonton.

He explained that under Treaty 11 signed in 1921 Indians in the area receive $5 in cash and $3 in supplies annually.

The Wrigley settlement about one-quarter of the distance down the Mackenzie river, consisting of 185 people, asked for its supply money in various kinds of ammunition — instead of fishing nets, traps and canvas.

The ammunition, shipped to Wrigley from Yellowknife Friday, included rounds of 30-30, 303, 243 and 100PSP, said Theriault.

The residents of Wrigley so far have been successful in stalling construction of the highway past their community.

Eldon Schorn, territorial co-ordinator of pipeline and highway development, said Thursday that land-use permits allowing crews to clear the highway's right-of-way have not been issued for 10 miles on each side of Wrigley.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A man who missed some seagulls with an empty wine bottle but smashed the windshield of a parked car was fined $50 in provincial court Saturday.

Lorne Thomas Huffman, 49, of No. 11, 828 Courtney, pleaded guilty to a charge of public mischief.

Huffman told police the seagulls had been bothering him. He threw the bottle from a third floor window at the rear of 850 Courtney at noon Friday.

Huffman was intoxicated, police said.

Said Judge William Ostler: "It is an irresponsible and dangerous thing you did. Someone might have been killed."

Stanley Bruce Reese, 17, and Jeffrey Lynn Bentley, 18, both of Nelson, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and were fined $75 each.

Police said they checked them in the Yates Street car-park Friday at noon.

Pen Riot Blamed On The Season

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)

A weekend riot at the British Columbia Penitentiary was an indirect result of the fall weather, says prison director Richard Graves.

Because of shorter daylight hours inmates were given less time outside their cells and in recreation, said Graves, and the disturbance was probably intended as a peaceful demonstration that got out of hand.

No security staff or inmates were injured in the disturbance, which started Friday evening with the clatter of objects against cell bars and progressed to the throwing of food trays and the setting of small fires in individual cells.

The prison was quiet within 12 hours of the disturbance but remained closed to visitors Monday.

During the summer inmates spent evening hours in the outdoor recreation yard and remained until 30 minutes before dusk.

Starting Oct. 1, said Graves, the prison reverted to a normal winter program in which only half the inmates could use the prison auditorium at any one time.

No damage estimates were available and Graves said that inmates who destroyed property would probably be dealt with internally unless there were serious charges to be laid outside in court.

Estimates on the number of inmates participating in the demonstration ranged from 100 to 300 of the 600-plus population, with other inmates supplying vocal support.

Some inmates will be feeling other effects of the fall weather. Glass windows outside steel bars were broken in one cellblock, letting in the chilly air.

Unions Offer Names

VANCOUVER (CP) —

Three independent Canadian unions have banded together to nominate candidates for the provincial government's proposed new labor relations board.

In a joint release, the Canadian Association of Industrial, Mechanical and Allied Workers Union, the Canadian Aluminium Smelter and Allied Workers Union and the Canadian Food and Associated Service Union insisted that at least one of the 10-member board be a representative of the movement for independent Canadian unions.

The release said that the three organizations had nominated Fred Mullin, national president of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada and Jess Succamore of the CAIMAW.

The government has already appointed four members to the board and has asked labor and management to each recommend three more.

George Brown, CAIMAW regional vice-president, said: "We felt Mullin and Succamore are two men of integrity and good judgment whom we consider should be appointed to the board. They will represent the interests of Canadian unionists."

Yes! They Talked With Whales

by PAT DUFOUR

Can people converse with killer whales? Tapes heard in the Times' newsroom today indicate they can.

Some people scoffed when the 32-foot yawl Four Winds headed out of Victoria bound for whale territory this summer. They said the bank-roll of $14,000 given the four men aboard through a Youth grant was an exercise in futility.

Bruce Bott, 25, who headed the expedition, is back. He, sound man Eric Hoyt and photographer Michael O'Neill, produced evidence today substantiating their claim that they've become firm friends with two pods of whales — Hooker's pod and Stubb's pod.

Hooker is a big bull whose dorsal fin hooks over to the left and Stubb is a cow that is matriarch for a pod of 16.

They spent the summer with Four Winds and her occupants at Robson Bight, which is in the Tsitika River valley at the upper end of Johnstone Strait.

The tapes record the whales' responding to Hoyt's synthesizer, beginning with the synthesizer's reproduction of Hooker's greeting at the first encounter.

Hoyt recalls: "When we first met, he came right up to the stern of the boat, rolled over on his side and looked us straight in the eye. Then he gave this call which pods seem to always give when they meet each other."

No matter how strong an "I'm-from-Missouri" attitude you have when the tapes begin to roll, skepticism gives way to belief as you hear the joint concert of synthesizer and whales in musical cadences, the whales repeating the notes of the synthesizer, sometimes embellishing them. Bott says that Robson Bight appears to be a favorite spot for whales.

"Robson Bight is a resting and playing area. Perhaps, because it's the only unlogged river valley left the whales seem to enjoy the natural wilderness. They come up to where the salt and fresh waters meet and the water is shallow."

O'Neill says his group will be lobbying this winter, trying to get the area preserved as a whale sanctuary.

Admitting that their venture is a minor breakthrough in the area of communication with whales, Bott and his companions have promised the federal department of fisheries and the University of Victoria access to the 5,500 feet of film and tape material they've gathered.

Bott, an experienced diver, shot a great deal of underwater footage during their expedition. He reports that the whales seemed to know why they were there and responded accordingly.

"Even cows with calves seemed completely trusting," he said. "One time I was on the rocks and saw this cow and calf coming toward me. I went in the water to meet them and they came in as close as eight feet to the shore."

Hoyt is convinced that whales have a social sense and intelligence that's equal if not better than man's.

"They don't repeat behavior patterns," he said. "They seemed to check things out and, once they knew the answer, they'd spread the information among themselves."

The tapes also bear out Bott's theory that whales in their natural environment communicate with less inhibition than those in captivity.

The trio — Vatcher is now driving a taxi in Vancouver in order to earn money to go back again next summer — is busy editing the film and getting the tapes ready for a public showing.

Indians Plan $8 Million Shop Centre

... project president

The Songhees Indian Band today announced plans for an $8 million shopping centre on its land at Admirals and Craigflower.

Project president Harry Dick said profits would all go to the 125 band members and be administered by the all-Indian Songhees Development Company Ltd.

"We don't expect to become millionaires overnight but this should help to get our people off welfare," he said.

"The main thing is to provide work and positions for our young people and keep the band together."

The Songhees Development Company Ltd. will borrow funds, using the land as collateral. By federal law Indian treaty land cannot be sold but it can be leased and bands can borrow against the value of the leased land.

Dick said details of the project were still being worked out but the target date for opening is 1975.

The Songhees Development Company Ltd. is negotiating with several companies for space in the 30-acre site.

The plan is for two competing department stores plus one — maybe two — supermarkets. Banks, small retail stores, a large restaurant and a shoppers babysitting service are other features planned for the 500,000 square feet of buildings.

The buildings would be arranged in a cluster, connected by covered walkways and landscaped areas.

"This is our first major project as a band," Dick said. "There have been five members involved in trailer parks but this time we are all together."

There are 125 members in the Songhees band. The new company consists of eight members, one for each person donating land to the project. Four of the eight were elected to a board of directors which will supervise the shopping centre and distribute any profits.

"The profits will be distributed according to a formula. Everyone will share in the project. The main purpose of and Associates Ltd., who designed Nootka Court. Leasing is by Barkley Management Ltd.

Dick said there is no financial involvement by non-Indians and non-Indian consultants would be phased out as soon as possible.

He planned to continue in his present job as counsellor at Comosun College while supervising the shopping centre project.

It was hoped ground clearing work would begin before year's end, he said.

The project would be called Lekwammen Village, after the original name of the Songhees Band.

The band decided to proceed after a market survey in May indicated the feasibility of a large shopping centre at that location.

The centre would be larger than the demand in 1975 but population growth would soon catch up with the facilities, the study showed.

The new company was determined to have two competing department stores in the project, rather than just one, in an effort to establish the site as the main shopping area in the western section of the district.

The band has room for expansion, holding a total of 163 acres.

Station Robbed At Knifepoint

Colwood RCMP are investigating a robbery Saturday in which a 16-year-old youth was held up at knifepoint.

Brian Dunwoody, the lone attendant at Payless Service Station, 2988 Jacklin, was preparing to close about 10:20 p.m. when two men wearing nylon stockings over their heads entered the station and brandished a hunting knife, police said.

Dunwoody, of 4270 Happy Valley Rd., gave the men $110 from the company's wallet.

Police described one man as 17 to 19 years old, six feet, 170 pounds, with long dark hair. The other man was also between 17 and 19, five feet 10 inches tall with light-colored hair.

No Sudden Merger Seen for Victoria

There is no indication that sudden amalgamation of municipalities will be forced on Greater Victoria as it was on the Kamloops district earlier this year, Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen said today.

He was commenting on a meeting this morning at which Greater Victoria municipal leaders met with Municipal Affairs Minister James Lorimer.

Pollen said he felt Lorimer would not tolerate the creation of an additional municipalities on southern Vancouver Island however.

"I'm sure he feels we have enough, and we can use them as the nucleus for rationalizing government at the municipal level," Pollen added.

He said he tried to impress on the minister the need for long-term objectives in sewage, public transportation, and other fields, as well as the need for a comprehensive land use plan which would not be "continually emasculated or eroded by independent municipalities going their own way."

Following the meeting Lorimer said he did not make any suggestions and the meeting was simply "an informal expression of views."

No further meetings have been planned, he said, adding that the men could be called together "easily in four or five days."

This morning's meeting was attended by representatives of the four core municipalities, Central and North Saanich, Sidney and the Capital Regional District.

ARSONIST BLAMED

An $8,000 fire which levelled a Colwood house on Sunday was set deliberately, Fire Chief Alan LeQueune said today.

The house at 2858 Glen Lake, owned by View Royal Holdings, was under construction. The walls and roof were complete and the wiring was to be installed today, said LeQueune.

The fire was likely started in the basement where a strong smell of furnace oil or diesel was noticed by firemen, he said.

Firemen arrived shortly before midnight and battled the blaze 1½ hours.

A Vancouver fire marshal will begin an investigation today.

$3,000 Damage

A fire Monday morning at Battery Street Guest House, 670 Battery, caused $3,000 damage to the roof and attic, a Victoria fire department official said today.

The fire started in the top floor suite of owner Mrs. Pam Gabas when her son was using a candle to see inside a cupboard and the cupboard caught fire, said deputy fire chief Carl Coates.

There were no injuries.

'Let's Ask the People'

The Ocean Cement property on the Inner Harbor should be tidied up, improved with gravel pathways and planters and then left for a while before any long-term plan is developed, city council agreed today.

Aldermen agreed with Ald. Sam Bawlf at this morning's caucus meeting that the Ocean Cement site could be readied for public use by next summer, and then used as a sounding board for public opinion as to its ultimate base use.

Bawlf said the city planning department could launch an extensive monitoring program on public opinion next summer, possibly with a kiosk displaying the plans for the Inner Harbor, prepared by Vancouver architect Arthur Erickson.

"Let's ask people what they want to see down there before we shape any firm plan."

Mayor Peter Pollen said the ultimate development on the Ocean Cement site should include facilities for fishboats.

CAMPER FOUND SAFE

A University of Victoria student was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Comox Monday after spending more than 25 hours lost in freezing temperatures near Forbidden Plateau.

Courtenay RCMP said today Beverley Biram, 19, was camping with a group of about 50 from UVic's outdoors club. She and some other members went fishing at a lake near the campsite.

At 3 p.m. Sunday the woman headed back to the campsite alone. She wasn't seen again until 4:30 p.m. Monday, said police.

Her disappearance was reported at 6:30 p.m. Monday when police began a ground search and later used a helicopter. She was found, soaking wet but safe, by two other members of the club.

Canadians Win

LUXEMBOURG (CP-Reuters) — Les Parsons of Vancouver and Joe Schirakli of Toronto each scored a goal Sunday as Canada's national amateur soccer team blanked Luxembourg 2-0 in an exhibition game.

The goals came during the first half when the Canadian team literally ran circles around their opponents before 1,000 fans.

Vampires Capture Close One

Dave Lee was wide on a field-goal attempt and had to settle for a single point Sunday and that was enough to give Saanich Vampires a share of first place in the Vancouver Island Bantam Football League.

Vampires edged North Island Warriors 21-20 in Comox on touchdowns by Bob Jones, Brad Leason and Randy Smith and three converts by Leason. Dave Friesen scored two touchdowns for Warriors while Lee counted a touchdown, convert and single on the wide field-goal try.

In another Sunday game, Oak Bay Invaders got three touchdowns and three converts from Lars Fenske, another TD from Paul Leslie and a two-point safety touch for a 29-6 win over Saanich Hornets. Dave Fletcher scored the Hornet major.

HORNETS FINISH IN FLURRY

Saanich Hornets finished the season with a flourish Monday and snatched second place in the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League from JBAA Mustangs.

Hornets had trailed the Mustangs by two points but crushed their rivals 24-7 in the last league game of the season at Macdonald Park and took second place because of a better points average.

The first half ended with the Hornets ahead 7-6 after a touchdown by Sean Flynn, converted by Ed Murray. Bernie Crump scored the Mustangs' touchdown.

Hornets came alive in the second half and dominated as halfback Kerry Lacroix and Mel Smith combined in a 50-yard pass-and-run play ending in Smith crossing for a touchdown. Murray again converted and it was 14-6 at the end of the third quarter.

Flynn thrilled the crowd with a 95-yard run down the sidelines in the fourth quarter that ended when he was stopped five yards from the James Bay line. From there, Lacroix barged over for a touchdown and Murray kicked the convert. Murray later booted a field goal.

Hornets and Mustangs clash again at 8 Wednesday night in a sudden-death semi-final at Royal Athletic Park and the winner meets league champion Oak Bay Farmer Construction in the final.

New Hemoroids for hemorrhoids.

When you're suffering, you need help fast.

Two way action to do one job well.

New Hemoroids' anaesthetic relieves pain and irritation quickly, relaxing muscular tension so natural healing can take place. Meantime, the rich cream gently soothes and lubricates irritated tissues.

An anaesthetic to relieve pain and itch fast.

New Hemoroids' water-soluble anaesthetic—Dipreron Hydrochloride—easily spreads long-lasting relief directly into sore tissues by combining with natural, protective body moisture. This helps Hemoroids' smooth cream to effectively coat the irritated area. Pain and itch are quickly relieved.

A soothing cream to heal sore tissues quickly.

New Hemoroids carries its anaesthetic in a soft-textured cream which can be spread over the most sensitive tissues without additional discomfort. And this soothing, cooling cream, in itself, has valuable healing properties. In suppository form, Hemoroids melts quickly and easily, becoming a gentle, healing cream.

New Hemoroids: when you need help fast.

Kelly Shows Why

Quarterback Dennis Kelly showed why Calgary Stampede of the Canadian Football League were so interested in him.

Kelly, given a training camp trial this season but cut by the Stampede, threw three sharp touchdown passes Sunday night at Royal Athletic Park and steered University of British Columbia Jayvees to an exciting 28-25 victory over Victoria Dolphins in an exhibition game.

Ron Taylor, who scored one touchdown and sent long passes to Leon Mitchell for two more, played well at quarterback while Gary Leitch, Gus Levens and Steve Ludvigson also had fine games for the Dolphins.

Secretariat Great on Grass

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretariat, making his first start on the grass, turned back E. P. Taylor's Tentam and won the 1 1/2-mile Man o' War Stakes in a Belmont turf course record time of 2:24 4-5 Monday.

The Triple Crown winner, who was upset in the Woodward Stakes just nine days ago, drew away in the stretch for a five-length victory over Tentam, a veteran campaigner on the turf, with Big Spruce another 7 1/2 lengths back.

The first money of $68,160 from a gross purse of $113,600 boosted Secretariat's earnings to $1,224,053 and moved him past Cougar II and Damascus into sixth place on the all-time thoroughbred money-winning list.

With a crowd of 35,878 cheering him on, Secretariat, carrying 121 pounds including Ron Turcotte of Grand Falls, N.B., smashed the turf course record of 2:25 2-5. His clocking was just four-fifths of a second slower than the time he posted in winning the Belmont Stakes on the dirt. The world record for 1 1/2 miles on the grass is 2:23 by Fiddle Isle.

Secretariat, who went out on his own when his Meadow Stable mate Riva Ridge was scratched, paid $3, $2.40 and $2.20. Tentam, 126, running for Taylor's Windfields Farm, paid $3 and $2.60. Elmendorf's Big Spruce, 126, was $3.20 to show.

Triangular, 126, was a half-length back of Big Spruce and was followed by London Company, 121; West Coast Scout, 126; and Anono, 121.

City Dog Runner-Up

SASKATOON (CP) — A dog from Bedford, Ohio, Saturday was named the 1973 Canadian retriever champion.

River-Oaks Corky, owned by Mike Flattery, was awarded the Purple Rosette, the annual Challenge Trophy and the Championship Trophy as the four days of field trials ended.

Six of the nine runners-up were Canadian dogs.

Shaw Ties For Second

VANCOUVER — Defending champion Bruce Shaw of Victoria finished in a second-place tie Saturday in the B.C. 20-mile road racing championship in Stanley Park.

Winner was Tom Howard of Richmond Kajak in a meet record time of 1 hour, 45 minutes, 56.2 seconds. Shaw, running for Vancouver Lion's Gate Roadrunners, tied with Wolf Schamberger of Duncan Ceevacs in 1:47:01.8 and helped Roadrunners to a first-place finish in the "A" division with nine points under the reverse scoring system.

Jacklin Wins

CHEPSTOW, Wales (AP) — Tony Jacklin, former United States and British Open golf champion, won the Dunlop Masters Tournament Saturday with a sparkling final round of 68 and a 72-hole score of 272-12 under par.

Reed Sinks Lions

Times News Services

Larry Highbaugh failed by inches in an attempt to run the ball out of the Edmonton end zone on a wide field goal attempt on the final play of the game Monday as Winnipeg Blue Bombers salvaged a 14-14 tie with the Eskimos in a Western Football Conference thriller before 21,841 Edmonton fans.

An Edmonton hero throughout the game with spectacular kickoff returns and fine defensive plays as the Eskimos overcame a 12-3 halftime deficit, Highbaugh bobbled the last-play kick by Walt McKee, recovered the ball and tried to run it out but was nailed by McKee for a single point.

Tom Wilkinson had generated an Edmonton comeback attempt that appeared successful until the final moment. He threw a 25-yard touchdown pass to Garry LeFebvre in the third quarter and directed a fourth-quarter march that set up a vital single by Dave Cutler on a missed field goal attempt.

Cutler had field goals of 40 and 53 yards plus a convert for Edmonton.

Eskimos fell into second place in the WFC standings, one point behind Saskatchewan Roughriders, who rallied behind George Reed for a 24-9 triumph Sunday over the B.C. Lions.

After the Thanksgiving weekend football festival, each western club had played 12 games and Saskatchewan had 16 points, one more than Edmonton. Calgary Stampeders, battered 37-10 by Toronto Argonauts Saturday and 45-0 by Montreal Alouettes Monday, remained in third spot, five points behind Edmonton and three ahead of B.C. and Winnipeg, tied for fourth place.

Reed provided all the momentum Saskatchewan needed after being saluted by almost 22,000 fans, including Premier Allan Blakeney, as "The greatest full-back in the world."

Reed, who has scored more touchdowns by rushing and gained more yardage along the ground than any player in organized football, scored on three short plunges after carrying the ball and taking short passes from Ron Lancaster.

Jack Abendschan completed Saskatchewan's scoring with a field goal and three converts.

B.C. opened a 9-3 lead in the fourth quarter before Reed took over. Ivan MacMillan kicked three field goals, bringing his total to eight in two games as a Lion.

While the Stamps were being battered by the first-place Argonauts and runner-up Alouettes, Ottawa Rough Riders bolstered their hold on third place in the Eastern Conference by nipping the Tiger-Cats 16-13 in Hamilton.

Larry Smith grabbed three touchdown passes from quarterback George Mira to pace the Montreal attack against Calgary.

In Hamilton, Gerry Organ booted two field goals, three singles and converted Rhone Nixon's touchdown on a short Jerry Keeling pass to account for 10 of the Ottawa points.

For Hamilton, Lewis Porter romped 119 with a pass interception for a third-quarter Ticat touchdown and Ian Sunter kicked a pair of field goals and a convert.

B.C. Upset Again

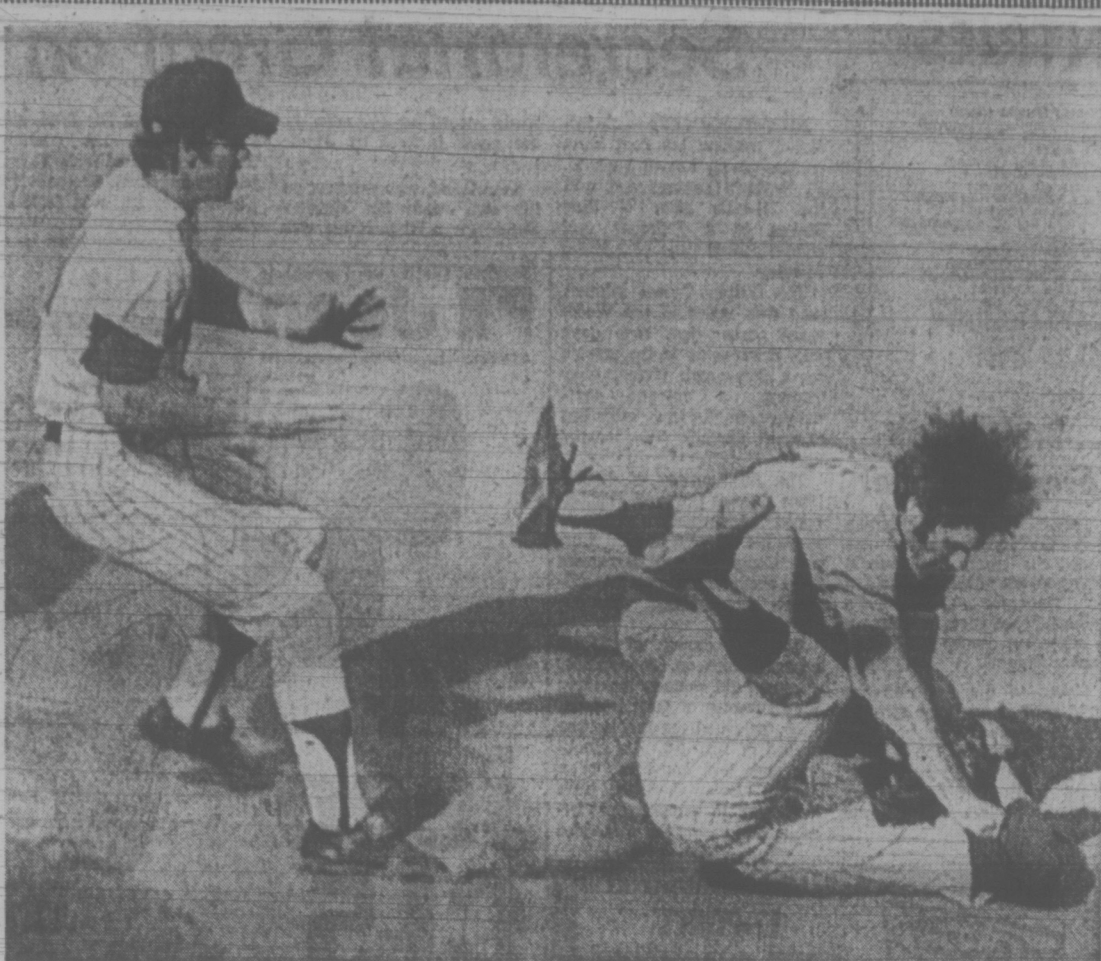

Times News Services

Alberta took the Western Canada senior rugby championship Monday, administering a 10-3 defeat to favored British Columbia in Regina. It marked the second year in a row Alberta upset B.C.

B.C., with nine members of the Canadian rugby team in its lineup, opened the championship with a 50-3 drubbing of the Manitoba side. Alberta, meanwhile, defeated an unorganized Saskatchewan squad 44-12 in the opening round. There were nine Victoria players on the B.C. side.

In the championship contest, B.C. opened strongly, moving the ball freely and holding play in the Alberta end. Rob Hindson lofted a 23-yard penalty kick through the uprights early in the first half to move B.C. into a 3-0 lead.

But soon after, the momentum began to shift. The turning point came midway

Rain—And Palmer Again

OAKLAND (AP) — Oakland Athletics feel they were doublecrossed by rain in their own park.

They said it acted to Baltimore Orioles' advantage in their American League baseball playoff when the third game was postponed Monday. The series is tied 1-1.

"We had them on the run, the champs were coming back," said outfielder Reggie Jackson. "Now they have Jim Palmer again."

Palmer now will be used in game No. 4.

The Orioles' ace right hander, 22-9 in the regular season, blanked the Athletics

6-0 Saturday in the opening game of the best-of-five series in Baltimore.

Palmer tossed a five-hitter and struck out 12. The Orioles took advantage of the ineffectiveness of Oakland's starting pitcher Vida Blue, who lasted two-thirds of an inning, in providing Palmer with a 4-0 lead in the first inning.

In Baltimore Sunday, the Athletics got two homers from Sal Bando and one each from Joe Rudi and Bert Campaneris to defeat the Orioles 6-3.

The rain disappointed both managers—Earl Weaver of the Orioles and Dick Williams of the Athletics. Williams was angry that the game was called 22 minutes before it was scheduled to start.

League president Joe Cronin's decision to call the game brought him into a sharp exchange with Oakland owner Charles Finley.

"It's not fair to these fans to call it off a half-hour before game time," Finley said.

A crowd of about 30,000 — the Oakland Coliseum seats 50,000 — had been expected with most school children having Monday as a Columbus Day holiday.

Williams struck with his original rotation—Blue to pitch the fourth game and Jim Hunter, the winner Sunday, ready for the fifth game, in essence.

The rain lasted long after Cronin announced the postponement, ending at least temporarily about 2 1/2 hours later—but it also had some beneficial effects for Oakland.

"I didn't get to sleep until 2 a.m. Monday after we flew home," said Holtzman.

"Maybe now I'll get a better night's rest."

And Hunter, 21-5 on the season, will get his normal three days rest between starts.

With Palmer pitching Wednesday, Weaver moved Doyle Alexander, 12-8, to a possible Thursday starting spot.

Nicklaus Wins by Six; Gives Away His Purse

KING MILLS, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus romped over his rivals in the $125,000 Ohio Kings Island open golf tournament Monday and then gave away his $25,000 prize.

"I don't accept the purse," said Nicklaus, whose final 72 gave him a four-round total of 271, 13 under par and six shots ahead of runner-up Lee Trevino.

Nicklaus said he was setting up a $20,000 Ohio State University scholarship in the name of his late father, pharmacist Charles Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio.

The other $5,000 went to the Boy Scouts of America.

Gary Player of South Africa gave $20,000 to the Cancer Fund after winning the United States' Open in 1965.

Trevino, who had a final 68 for a 277 total, also has given shares of his purses to charity.

Nicklaus moved close to an unprecedented $2 million in career earnings.

His rounds of 68, 69, 62 and 72 also accomplished: —The 1973 money-winning lead. He has more than $278,000 in a bid for a third straight earnings title. The idle Bruce Crampton dropped to second with more than $273,000.

—A 50th career victory in 12 United States tour seasons. Only Sam Snead (84), Ben Hogan (62), Arnold Palmer (61) and Byron Nelson (54) are ahead of him.

—Career earnings of $1,981,830 on the U.S. tour, more than $300,000 ahead of No. 2 Palmer.

Ben Kern of London, Ont., and John Morgan of Victoria were eliminated after the half-way mark Saturday.

MARATHON VICTORY

PRAGUE (Reuter) — Andy Boychuk of Sarnia, Ont., finished 28th Sunday in the Kosice peace marathon in eastern Czechoslovakia. The race was won by Viktor Moiseev of Russia.

PARIS (AP) — Johnny Miller fired a three-under-par 69 Sunday, topping Valentin Barrios of Spain by three strokes, for the $17,000 top prize in the Lancome Invitational golf tournament.

Miller, this year's United States Open champion, finished with a 72-hole total of 277 over the 7,048-yard, par-72 St. Nom la Breteche course outside Paris. He led the tourney throughout.

Gary Player of South Africa birdied the last two holes for a 67, the best score of the final round, for a 281 and tied with Charles Coody of the United States for third place. Coody carded a final round 71.

The other scores in the eight-man field were: Dale Hayes of South Africa, 282; Masters champion Tommy Aaron of the U.S., 285; Jean Garaisade of France, 286; and Arnold Palmer of the U.S., 288.

through the half when Alberta scored the lone try of the game to take a 4-3 lead.

Eric McAvity took the ball following a line-out on the three-yard line and squirmed into the B.C. end zone.

Alberta stopped several B.C. threats and shortly after the second half began, Jim Hamilton scored a drop-goal to move Alberta into a 7-3 lead. Then, with 10 minutes left to play, Ken Seymour drilled a 25-yard penalty kick through the uprights.

In the consolation final, Garry McDonald scored two break-away tries on Saskatchewan giveaways to lead Manitoba to an 18-10 victory.

In Halifax, Ontario won the Eastern Canadian title by downing Quebec 28-6 Monday. Newfoundland and Nova Scotia, the only other entries, bowed out Saturday.

The Ontario team will meet Alberta in Ottawa Oct. 20 for the Canadian crown.

Winning Struggle

Alamo, Calif. (AP) — Defending champion Sandra Haynie struggled to an even-par 73 Sunday, but still won this city's $32,000 women's pro golf tournament with a 54-hole total of 212.

Miss Haynie, who entered the final round with a four-stroke lead, picked up $4,500 in winning the event. Donna Caponi Young, with a final-round 73, and Jo Anne Garner, with a 72, were three strokes off the pace with 215 totals.

Kathy Whitworth, leading money winner on the Ladies' Professional Golf Association tour, tied for fourth with Phil Taylor, the district's "Mr. Golf" for 37 colorful years.

Taylor died Saturday after undergoing an exploratory operation earlier in the week. He was 83.

Born in Great Yarmouth on the east coast of England Dec. 8, 1889, Taylor came to Canada in 1921 to become professional at Victoria Golf Club, a post he held until his retirement in August, 1958.

He is survived by his widow, Gladys, and a son, Alan.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. at St. Mary's Church on Elgin Road, Oak Bay.

PARIS (AP) — Johnny Miller fired a three-under-par 69 Sunday, topping Valentin Barrios of Spain by three strokes, for the $17,000 top prize in the Lancome Invitational golf tournament.

Miller, this year's United States Open champion, finished with a 72-hole total of 277 over the 7,048-yard, par-72 St. Nom la Breteche course outside Paris. He led the tourney throughout.

Gary Player of South Africa birdied the last two holes for a 67, the best score of the final round, for a 281 and tied with Charles Coody of the United States for third place. Coody carded a final round 71.

The other scores in the eight-man field were: Dale Hayes of South Africa, 282; Masters champion Tommy Aaron of the U.S., 285; Jean Garaisade of France, 286; and Arnold Palmer of the U.S., 288.

through the half when Alberta scored the lone try of the game to take a 4-3 lead.

Eric McAvity took the ball following a line-out on the three-yard line and squirmed into the B.C. end zone.

Alberta stopped several B.C. threats and shortly after the second half began, Jim Hamilton scored a drop-goal to move Alberta into a 7-3 lead. Then, with 10 minutes left to play, Ken Seymour drilled a 25-yard penalty kick through the uprights.

In the consolation final, Garry McDonald scored two break-away tries on Saskatchewan giveaways to lead Manitoba to an 18-10 victory.

In Halifax, Ontario won the Eastern Canadian title by downing Quebec 28-6 Monday. Newfoundland and Nova Scotia, the only other entries, bowed out Saturday.

The Ontario team will meet Alberta in Ottawa Oct. 20 for the Canadian crown.

Phil Taylor, the district's "Mr. Golf" for 37 colorful years.

Taylor died Saturday after undergoing an exploratory operation earlier in the week. He was 83.

Born in Great Yarmouth on the east coast of England Dec. 8, 1889, Taylor came to Canada in 1921 to become professional at Victoria Golf Club, a post he held until his retirement in August, 1958.

He is survived by his widow, Gladys, and a son, Alan.

Cougars Start Task Of Picking Up Pieces

By JIM CRERAR
Times Staff

Coach Ollie Dorohoy began work on three problems Monday as Victoria Cougars held their first workout since Saturday night's disastrous start to the Western Canada Junior Hockey League season.

With 1,946 Memorial Arena patrons looking on, Cougars took a 9-2 shellacking from the experienced Calgary Centennials. It was a game in which Cougars hardly rated as favorites, to be sure, but few expected the incredibly inept lapses they committed.

Dorohoy has the rest of the week to get it back together and his task is as simple as 1-2-3.

(1) Calm down a shaky goaltender;

(2) Tighten the defence;

(3) Get the forwards to backcheck.

Shaky goaltending was the most obvious problem Saturday as Cougar rookie Glen Bueckert, making his first WCHL start after two all-star seasons in the B.C. Junior League, let in seven of the 16 shots he faced in the first two periods.

Dorohoy agreed goaltending was a major cause of his team's downfall.

"But I blame the defence and the forwards, too," he said after Monday's practice. "There were a lot of defensive lapses and some of the forwards weren't coming back."

Calgary's experience showed to advantage as returnees Mike Rogers (three goals), Jerry Holland (two) and Danny Gare (a goal and two assists) had a field day. Holdovers Don Ashby and Craig Einfield were the other Centennial marksmen as Calgary broke the game open with four goals in just over 3½ minutes of the first, three of them in a 72-second span.

Bueckert never got over that.

Defenceman Cal Kitching, scoreless all last season, counted both Victoria goals.

Cougar lapses weren't the only shock of the weekend. Winnipeg Clubs, a team nobody appeared to take seriously, played their first two games of the season Sunday and Monday and came away with three of a possible four points against Flin Flon Bombers, leaders in the Eastern Division.

The Clubs, dead last in the Eastern standings as the Winnipeg Jets last season, got a power-play goal from John Dunsmore Monday night with five seconds left and their goaltender out for a 4-1 tie. Sunday, Winnipeg shocked the Bombers 10-3 with Derek Talon's three-goal spree leading the way. Both games were in Winnipeg and there were 3,822 fans on hand Sunday and 2,837 back again Monday night.

In the only other Monday night contest, Murray Beck's two goals paced New Westminster Bruins to a 5-2 victory over Medicine Hat Tigers in the Royal City.

In other Sunday games, Stu McLellan's second goal of the night with four seconds left gave Swift Current Broncos a 5-4 win over Edmonton Oil Kings; Kamloops Chiefs collapsed in the third period, allowing six goals in a 7-1 loss to Medicine Hat in Kamloops; Saskatoon Blades counted twice in the third for a 4-2 decision over Regina Pats.

And in the only other Saturday game, Ed Johnstone fired three goals to lead Medicine Hat to a 7-2 triumph over Edmonton.

CAL KITCHING

Victoria Maple Leafs played like a two-period hockey club Monday night at Memorial Arena, but they got three-period goaltending from Roy Sinden and came away with their first victory of the Pacific International Junior Hockey League season.

Leafs hung on for a 5-4 decision over Surrey Stampers before 351 fans who pushed themselves away from Thanksgiving dinner in time to watch the contest.

Sinden was nothing short of spectacular as he kicked out 43 shots, 20 of them in the third period.

The victory leaves coach Al

Grier's Leafs with a 1-3 won-loss record after a 6-5 setback to the Stampers Saturday night in Surrey and a 10-4 loss to Nor Wes Caps Friday night in Vancouver.

A third-period letdown was responsible for both Leaf losses and Grier promised extra conditioning work until the team learns to play an entire game.

"It was a little nerve-racking in the last period," said Sinden, and 18-year-old graduate of Victoria Nixons of the South Island Junior "B" League.

Gordie Dumont, who signed with Leafs Saturday afternoon after obtaining his release from Nanaimo Clippers of the B.C. Junior League, scored what turned out to be the winner with 3½ minutes to go. Other Victoria goals went to John Entzminger, Kevin Woodburn, Al Glendenning and Bruce McLean.

Peter Tichner counted twice for Surrey while Glen Schwartz and Steve Bradford scored once each.

In the only other PIHL game Monday, Nor Wes Caps downed Richmond Sockeyes 4-2 in Richmond, Robin Saddler scoring the winning goal and Don Harrison the clincher.

Saturday night in Surrey, Stampers got a pair of third-period goals from Colin Beveridge, his second of the night, and Rod McKay for their 6-5 decision over Leafs.

Schwartz, Ross Friede and Clark Kavelinas were the other Surrey goal-getters while Woodburn, with a pair, McLachlan, Dave Archibald and Brent Patterson scored for Leafs.

Green Bows In Final

SEATTLE — Andrew Hunt of Vancouver has qualified for "A" class play after beating Phil Green of Victoria 3-1 in Sunday's "B" class final in the 34th annual College Club squash tournament.

Hunt, who ousted Egon Kuhn of Victoria 3-2 in Saturday's semi-finals, took the first two sets in the final 15-8, 15-11.

Green came back strongly to take the third set 15-11, however, and led 13-12 in the fourth before being edged 15-17.

In one of the best "A" class finals seen on the Pacific Coast in years, John Hutchinson of Seattle nipped top-seeded George Morfitt of Vancouver 3-2, with the last set a long 18-16 battle.

John Dowling of Victoria was eliminated in the "A" class quarter-finals by Dick Radloff of Seattle, who went out to Morfitt in the semi-finals.

Islander Record Best

By The Canadian Press
It may be different in the regular season, but New York Islanders had the best record in National Hockey League exhibition play.

Fourteen teams open their 1973-74 campaign Wednesday and the Islanders will take an undefeated exhibition record — six wins and four ties — into Atlanta for a game against the Flames.

Next best in pre-season play were Vancouver Canucks who wound up with seven wins — four over Los Angeles Kings and two over Montreal Canadiens. The Canucks lost their last two games in a row, both to Minnesota North Stars, 2-1 Saturday and 7-0 Friday.

In other Wednesday games, Montreal will visit Minnesota, Buffalo Sabres will play in Toronto against the Maple Leafs, Detroit Red Wings visit New York Rangers, Vancouver Canucks go to Boston, Chicago Black Hawks are in Los Angeles and St. Louis Blues visit California Golden Seals.

The Bruins wound up their exhibition schedule Sunday with a 5-2-1 record after defeating the Canadiens 5-2, Chicago whipped Toronto 6-1, Atlanta blanked Philadelphia Flyers 2-0 and Pittsburgh Penguins topped winless Buffalo 5-2.

Other Saturday scores were: Buffalo 2, Pittsburgh 2; the Islanders 5, California 2; the Rangers 4, Detroit 2; and Philadelphia 3, St. Louis 0.

The Canucks and Islanders finished seventh and eighth respectively in the Eastern Division of the NHL last season.

BUCKS GROUND GULLS

Ingraham Buckaroos climbed into a second-place tie with James Bay Athletic Association Gulls in the Victoria Intermediate Hockey League Sunday with a 5-1 win over the Gulls.

The results left both teams with two points, one behind leading Stockers North Americans.

Ron Cook fired two goals to pace Buckaroos in their game at Memorial Arena. Singles went to Larry Meyers, Ben Webber and Gord Wickware. The lone JBAA marksman was Barry McLaughlin.

Only 10 Shots for a Shutout

Greg Harrow registered the first shutout of the season in the South Island Junior "B" Hockey League Sunday and it may turn out to be the easiest.

Harrow, tending goal for Fuller's Lake Flyers, faced only 10 shots as his mates blanked Juan de Fuca Gulls 3-0 at Juan de Fuca Arena. Harrow steered away one shot in the first, five in the second and four in the third.

In the other opening games, Saanich Braves downed Lake Cowichan Bairds 7-2 Sunday at Pearkes Arena while Cowichan beat Fuller's Lake 6-1 Saturday night at Cowichan.

Mike Rogerson scored two goals and Don Knight one to lead Fuller's Lake to its Sunday win.

Saanich got two goals each from Perry Carrigan and Brad Addison and singles from Rob Caldwell, Yvan Clavette and Darryl Borden.

Cowichan marksmen were Mike Forrest and Gerry Sihota.

STRANGE ICE FOR TORO DEBUT

By The Canadian Press
Toronto Toros and Chicago Cougars were unfamiliar with the ice, but kept 4,754 fans interested in a World Hockey Association regular-season game Sunday night.

The teams tied 4-4 and the crowd was 107 short of capacity in the 47-year-old Varsity Arena, where the Toros — formerly Ottawa Nationals — play most of their home games this season.

The Ottawa club moved to Toronto under new ownership because of financial problems and poor attendance last year.

In another Sunday game, Quebec Nordiques defeated New England Whalers 4-2 before 9,128 home town fans. In a league contest Saturday, goaltender Joe Junkin blocked 43 shots to help Cleveland Crusaders tie the New York Golden Blades 2-2 in overtime before a crowd of 6,991 in New York.

In an exhibition game Monday night, 8,454 packed Cobo Arena in Detroit to see Gordie Howe play for Houston Aeros in 3-3 tie against Minnesota Fighting Saints. Howe drew a 51-second standing ovation in the city where he formerly starred for Detroit Red Wings and responded by setting up two goals.

Edmonton Oilers defeated Winnipeg Jets 5-2 and Minnesota downed Los Angeles Sharks 4-3 in exhibition games

Sunday. Saturday in pre-season games, Edmonton nipped Vancouver Blazers 6-3 and Minnesota topped Houston 6-5.

"It's going to take us three or four games to get used to the rink," said Toronto coach Billy Harris. "Then there will be an advantage for us over the teams coming in."

The Toros, who trained in Sudbury, Ont., have been unable to practice in the arena because the University of Toronto hockey team has been using it.

Jim Harrison had three goals Saturday night in Edmonton's win over Vancouver.

B.C. AND YUKON— YOUR POSTAL CODE IS HERE. AND IT'S BEAUTIFUL.

It's beautiful because it works. It gets you your mail faster than before because now a very fancy computer looks at a combination of numbers and letters and aims it right to your door.

It's beautiful because you can make funny memory rhymes with the Postal Code of your friends (how about this Ottawa code, for example: Ken once had one thought twice — for K1H 1T2?). Or songs. Or whatever.

And it's beautiful because it'll be good until at least 2001, without changes, unlike some we looked at in other countries.

We have sent you a kit containing your Postal Code, explanations, a postage paid address card and Postal Code stickers. In case you haven't received it, please write to your Post Office on a special card that will be sent to you. And when your friends start using your code, and you use theirs, everybody will communicate more easily.

Here's how the Postal Code works. Take K1H 1T2 for example.

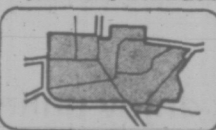

K1H 1T2

K — indicates one of 18 zones in Canada.

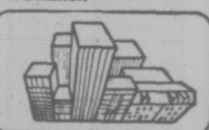

K1H 1T2

1H — narrows the zone down to part of a city or rural area.

K1H 1T2

1T2 — defines the actual block or business.

Canada Post. We're working to make it work better.

Now: All the banking services you're likely to need in one simple package.

Become a Charter Member Now and enjoy unlimited FREE P.C.A. cheques (no service charge) until Jan. 15, 1974

Starting January 15, enjoy unlimited no-charge chequing, a Safe Deposit Box,* reduced Termplan personal loan rates, Overdraft protection up to $300 and 8 other benefits. All for $3.00 monthly.

ROYAL CERTIFIED SERVICE ELIMINATES SEPARATE SERVICE CHARGES.

It covers much more than just the personal services you use most often—like your Personal Chequing Account. It also includes several other conveniences and cash-saving benefits—even a special reduction on the regular interest rate for your Termplan Personal Loan. It also provides you with a special personal identification card, which will entitle you to special treatment in a number of important ways at any branch of the Royal Bank, anywhere in Canada.

If you apply NOW—ahead of the rush—you will receive your Royal Certified Service card in plenty of time to allow you to start enjoying all of the benefits of the plan, starting on January 15th. (You may even have two cards: one for yourself and one for your spouse.)

We recommend that you carry the card at all times, since many of the special benefits to which you will become entitled will require that you show your card. Your card will prove that you are personally entitled to several special advantages that we will not be extending to other Royal Bank customers.

UNLIMITED CHEQUING

As a Royal Certified Service customer, you can write as many PCA cheques as you wish, without paying the normal 14 cents-per-cheque service charge. If you pay a lot of your bills by cheque, you'll find that these cash savings alone are quite valuable to you.

REDUCED TERMPAN PERSONAL LOAN

As a Royal Certified Service customer, you will be entitled to a SPECIAL REDUCTION off the current interest rate on our Termplan Personal loans.

If you have an existing Termplan Personal loan, you are entitled to this new advantage. We will give you a cash credit, equivalent to this special reduction in interest on your outstanding balance.

When you receive your special Royal Certified Service card, just come to the Royal Bank branch where you have your Termplan loan, show your card as soon as you conveniently can after January 15th, and we'll do the rest.

Your special reduction will take effect from the date you present your Royal Certified Service card and will not be retroactive. (This is another good reason why you should apply for your Royal Certified Service membership as soon as possible.)

FOR NEW CUSTOMERS: If you are a new borrower, you will be glad to know that one of the most helpful things we do is to make it easy for you to borrow money from us. Thousands of responsible Canadians have borrowed at the Royal Bank—comfortable in the knowledge that we will never knowingly let them "get in over their heads". Many of our nicest customer relationships started with such a loan.

EXCLUSIVE PERSONALIZED PCA CHEQUES

You will be given free distinctive, fully-personalized cheques, available exclusively to Royal Certified Service members. These cheques will be personalized with your name, full address and telephone number (if you choose).

CHEQUE CASHING—COAST TO COAST

Your Royal Certified Service card (and your exclusive Royal Certified Service cheques) will make it genuinely easy for you to get quick cash—at any of the more than 1,300 Royal Bank branches throughout Canada's ten provinces.

SAFE DEPOSIT BOX*

You will receive a certificate worth $7.50 towards the annual rental of a safe deposit box (subject to availability), or equivalent safekeeping services.* You will continue to receive this benefit annually, for as long as you remain a Royal Certified Service customer.

OVERDRAFT PROTECTION

If for any reason, you write cheques which cannot be covered by the balance in your personal chequing account, they will be honoured up to $300! No more accidental "NSF" cheques. This privilege is for Royal Certified Service cardholders only. Overdrafts will be subject to a monthly interest rate of 1½%: no charge at all if the interest is under 50¢.

VACATION TRAVEL BENEFITS

These presently include some very special and exclusive benefits arranged with Suntours in connection with Sunflight holidays booked through your travel agent. For example, free holiday cancellation protection, worth $5 per person, and other destination bonuses and special holiday packages. Other specific benefits and special destination holidays will be announced from time to time.

ROYAL BANK CHARGEX

As a Royal Certified Service member, you will automatically have a Royal Bank Chargex card. It is an excellent personal money-management tool, lets you take advantage of sales and other special opportunities, and consolidates all of your monthly Chargex shopping into one simple statement. You can use it as a straight charge account, or as a revolving credit account, as you choose.

'PAY-YOURSELF' SAVINGS

On request, we'll supply you with a booklet of "Pay-Yourself" cheques for paying money into your Savings Account—either a Royal Bank Regular Savings Account, with chequing privileges, or a Royal Bank Bonus Savings Account, with its higher rate of interest.

If you would like to transfer a regular amount each payday to your savings account, just visit your branch and we can arrange that too—automatically.

No charge for either convenience!

BILL PAYMENTS

You probably find it convenient to pay your telephone, power, or similar bills at the Royal Bank, (in those provinces where we are able to extend these courtesies) instead of sending payment by mail. Just show your Royal Certified Service card and you can pay your bills through us without any service charge. (And remember: you also save another eight cents postage each time!)

NO-CHARGE TRAVELLERS CHEQUES

Show your Royal Certified Service card and we'll waive the usual 1% commission normally charged for travellers cheques for your personal use—as many as you want, in any available currency, through any branch of the Royal Bank in Canada.

NO-CHARGE MONEY ORDERS

For any personal purpose, on showing your Royal Certified Service card, you can get our regular money orders, in any available currency, without paying the commission normally charged.

HOW TO QUALIFY?

Simple: All you need is a Royal Bank Personal Chequing Account and a Royal Bank Chargex card. Come in to your nearest Royal Bank branch and pick up an application today!

REBELS RED SHOCK GREYS

Rebels Red did it again Sunday.

Rebels Grey lost only two games all last season in winning the Vancouver Island Men's Field Hockey Association championship — one a shocking 1-0 decision to the club's junior team, Rebels Red.

And the Reds pulled off another big upset Sunday when Tom Renton scored his second goal 10 minutes from the end to give them a 3-2 win over the Greys at Lampson Street Park.

Renton's first goal and one by the Greys' playing-coach Brian Foley left the score tied 1-1 at half time.

Derek Douglas put the island champions ahead 2-1 early in the second half but Murray Butt got the equalizer and a furious late rally led to Renton's winning goal.

Defeat didn't rob Rebels Grey of first place, however. They lead Tigers and both Castaways Club teams, all tied for second place, by two points.

Oak Bay took the lead in the first division of the Vancouver Island Women's Association Saturday with a 3-0 win over University of Victoria Valkyries.

Oak Bay got a little help from the Pirates, who held Mariners to a 3-3 tie.

Sanderlings and Castaways both climbed over idle UVic Vagabonds and into a first-place tie in the second division. Sanderlings edged Sailors 1-0 and Castaways beat Rebels Grey, also 1-0.

Swede Wins Grand Prix

By The Associated Press.

Ronnie Peterson will take $53,900 back to Sweden and Cale Yarborough will keep $41,300 at home after a heavy weekend of auto racing.

Peterson, 29, from Orebro, Sweden, beat Britisher James Hunt, a rookie, by less than half a second to win the $275,000 United States' Grand Prix at Watkins Glen, N.Y., Sunday.

At Charlotte, N.C., Yarborough nipped Richard Petty by about two seconds to win the National 500 for stock cars.

Peterson's jackpot included a first-place cheque for $50,000 and $3,900 for setting a record qualifying lap of 121.990 miles an hour to win the pole position.

Yarborough's total included $17,000 from the $166,693 purse and a $24,000 for leading 243 of the race's 400 laps.

Peterson's triumph, his fourth Grand Prix victory of the season, came under the shadows of a grinding wreck that cost the life of French driver Francois Cevert in a qualifying session Saturday.

Cevert, 29, was a teammate of three-time world champion Jackie Stewart. After the accident, Stewart's Elf Tyrrell Ford team pulled out of the race. Stewart already had clinched the 1973 title.

Peterson, in addition to his single-lap record, drove the 200 miles of the U.S. Grand Prix in a Lotus Ford at a speed of 118.055 m.p.h., a Formula 1 record for the hilly, 11-turn, 3.377-mile road course.

Yarborough's 500-mile speed at Charlotte in a Chevrolet was 145.240 m.p.h., a Charlotte Motor Speedway record.

And Bobby Allison drove 800 miles at breakneck speed to collect $16,865. He won a 300-mile race Saturday at Charlotte for late model sportsman cars and finished third behind Yarborough and Petty in Sunday's 500 miler.

Roger McCluskey, who already has locked up USAC's national driving title and close to $200,000 in winnings, was the weekend's other race winner.

He was leading A. J. Foyt and Ramo Stott when rain washed out a 200-mile stock car event at College Station at the 152-mile mark.

MAZDA ROTARY

If all you've ever driven is piston engine cars ...

Now you've got a choice.

Try a gentle laxative from the maker of Tums!

It's called NR because it's Nature's Remedy.

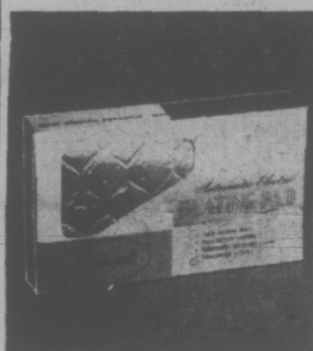

The Tums people, as you would expect, know a great deal about sensitive stomachs. They make their laxative with vegetable ingredients. NR brings easy, effective, overnight relief. NR's gentle action works while you sleep without disturbing your rest. Try Nature's Remedy, a gentle all-vegetable laxative. Regular or chocolate coated. NR tonight, tomorrow alright.

Robbers Hit Colwood

Several houses, businesses, schools and cars in the Greater Victoria area were ransacked and robbed during the Thanksgiving weekend, local police departments reported today.

Colwood was hit hardest with four house break-ins. An estimated $1,000 in cash and other items were stolen.

Items stolen included a polaroid camera, wristwatches, coin collections, cash, and an old-age pensioner's cheque, said police.

Belmont High School was also broken into, police said. There was no significant damage.

Victoria police reported break-ins at two houses, one motel, and two business premises, and one school.

Ten classrooms were ransacked at Victoria High School but nothing was reported missing, said police.

Overnight Sunday three rooms at the Slegwood Park Motel, 123 Gorge Road East, were entered and approximately $35 was stolen, police said.

Trans-World Enterprises, 1817 Douglas, and Silverwood Dairies, 1015 Yates, were also entered but little was stolen.

A total of $550 in jewelry was stolen from an apartment at 1430 Stadacona and a house at 1114 Dallas.

Six cars in the Fairfield area were ransacked.

Also in Victoria, rocks were thrown through the front windows of three businesses premises, police said.

In Saanich, Durrance School was broken into and a window was broken at Lake Hill School.

CROSSED CANADA

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — A drug trail that began in eastern Canada and involved RCMP surveillance of a boat transported across the country has ended with four men charged with conspiracy to traffic in hashish.

Edward Stenson, 37, and former nightclub operator Sydney Stork, 41, both of Vancouver, were to appear in North Vancouver court today along with Melvin Bruce, 27, of Richmond and Robert Toews, 21, of no fixed address.

The four were arrested after police swooped on a pleasure craft anchored at Deep Cove in North Vancouver Saturday and seized 275 pounds of hashish. RCMP said the drugs had a street value in Vancouver of $2,860,000.

It was reported Monday that the boat was shipped to Canada from Holland. On arrival at the East Coast it was placed under RCMP surveillance and was followed as it was brought across the country by trailer.

Police said the 17-foot boat was kept under surveillance at Deep Cove for two weeks before the raid.

Stars Sue Beaty

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association have filed a breach of contract suit against centre Zelmo Beaty and his lawyer for not showing up at the pre-season training camp. The Stars are asking $250,000 punitive damage against Beaty's lawyer.

Untrained Cyclists Are the Real Hazard

By KIT COLLINS
Times Staff

Cyclists are the hazards on Greater Victoria streets, not the bicycles as reported by an American consumer product safety commission.

"The biggest hazard on the road is the rider who is not obeying traffic regulations," said John Reeves, general manager of the Capital Region Safety Council.

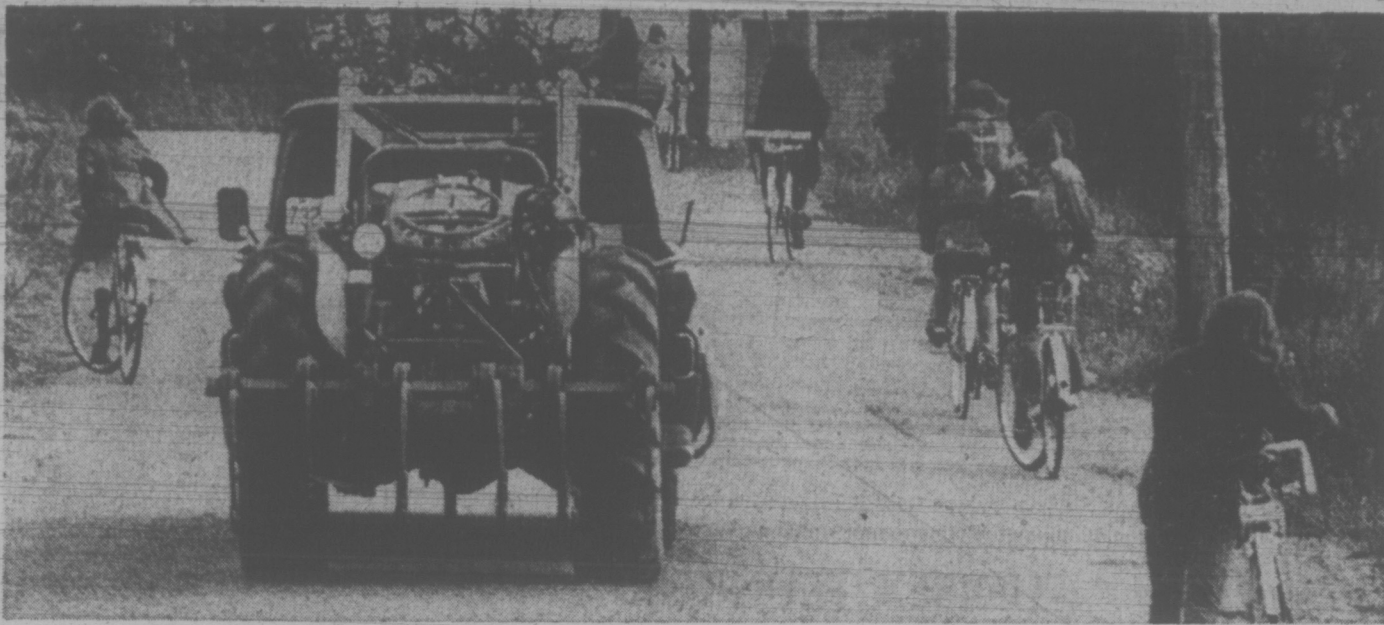

"And we just can't get anybody over the age of 13 to take bicycle training. We can't get at the adult cyclist problem — they're the biggest problem, not the children, and they won't take bicycle safety training."

Reeves was commenting on a U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission report which singled out bicycles as the most hazardous product — including automobiles — on the American market.

It said, based on emergency room data from 119 hospitals, that bicycles come out on top of any list of hazardous products because of the high risk of injury.

The list reflects not only the number of injuries but the severity and the degree to which children under age 10 are involved.

The commission estimated that bicycles, and the equipment attached, are responsible for 372,000 injuries requiring emergency room treatment each year. Hazards include mechanical failures, feet caught in spokes or chains and loss of control resulting in collisions.

A cyclist assumes a motorist will see him . . . but the driver is watching for cars has not driven a car and therefore isn't knowledgeable about the rules of the road.

"I'm not concerned about spokes," he said, but "brakes and lights and rear reflectors can be a definite hazard if they're not working."

He added bicycle safety courses are available in Sooke, Sidney, Saanich, Oak Bay and in Victoria.

Other hazardous products listed by the American commission were: second-highest risk of injury comes from indoor and outdoor stairs, ramps and landings and the third most dangerous product area is non-glass doors, including screen and garage doors.

In all, the list contains 369 product categories. The one at the bottom, deemed least risky, was lapidary equipment such as rock tumblers and polishers.

Pioneers of Under-Sea Farming

VANCOUVER (CP) — The University of British Columbia oceanography department is harvesting a tiny sea animal no bigger than a little fingernail and probably just as bad tasting.

But the animal, a great scavenger of organic wastes on the sea bottom, is a tasty morsel for a hungry scallop or salmon.

The amphipod, an organism related to the common beach fly, is being scooped up from nearby mud flats and transported to tanks at UBC as part of an experiment to determine whether aquaculture—agriculture under the sea—can be suited to B.C. waters.

Project director T. R. Parsons says the amphipod is slated to play the same role in undersea farms that the chicken plays in barnyards.

"What we want to do is domesticate a marine animal the way agriculture has done with the chicken," said Mr. Parsons.

"A chicken will eat almost anything. It virtually recycles a lot of waste energy. It eats the grass, then produces the waste that makes more grass."

LIKE CHICKENS

Chickens are also adaptable, domesticated from the tropics to northern climates.

"The amphipod is like that," said Mr. Parsons. "It is able to withstand changes in water temperature, salinity, type of habitat, tides, changes from salt water to fresh, and still continues to reproduce on schedule."

Mr. Parsons said he plans to establish it in an unnatural environment.

He is currently looking for an inlet with a narrow neck that can be bottled up with a rock dam to control the inflow and outflow.

The inlet will be connected to the open sea by a pipe which will draw water through tidal action from depths greater than 60 feet—water which still retains nitrates, phosphates and other nutrients that sustain living creatures.

"The main energy cost for such a project is the tidal cycle, and that doesn't cost anything," said Mr. Parsons. The nutrients would be used by microscopic plant organisms, which in turn would be eaten by the amphipods, which can also feed off the waste of larger organisms.

To be economically viable in B.C., Mr. Parsons said he believes the undersea farm would have to concentrate on a fairly high-cost product, such as scallops, oysters, lobsters, shrimps or small salmon, which could be sold to airlines for in-flight meals. "You can get 2,000 pounds per acre, which is higher than most agricultural products. But you need a fair investment, say $120,000 for the whole system, so you can't go raising herring for mink feed, or anything like that.

"But if you grow something like scallops, there would be absolutely no problem in selling anything you could produce."

He wants to start a pilot project of five to 20 acres, with scallops and oysters. This would require a 300-foot long dam consisting of 15,000 cubic yards of rock.

IMPLANT AGAINST ALCOHOL

TORONTO (CP) — Two Toronto men are walking around with pills implanted in their stomachs that guarantee they'll be deathly ill if they drink alcohol.

The two volunteers of the first Antabuse implantation program in North America — will pay a price of retching, flushing and a rapid heart beat after a few drinks, says Dr. Edward Kingstone, psychiatrist at Sunnybrook Medical Centre.

The 10 Antabuse tablets inserted in their stomachs offer no positive cure but are likely to keep the men off alcohol for six months, he said.

The program is run jointly with the Donwood Foundation, an alcohol-treatment centre, where psychiatrist Neil Maharaj said about 20 more drinkers are ready for the program. "The motivation to stop drinking has to be extremely high."

DESCRIBES USES

Both psychiatrists suggested Antabuse for people who get into fights, become violent or commit crimes while on benders. But Dr. Kingstone would stop short of involuntary implantation. However, Dr. Maharaj said: "In the long run, the effectiveness of this will be with drunk drivers. Instead of taking their driver's licence away, they could stick Antabuse in them."

Studies of the implantation method used in Europe showed that seven out of 70 drinkers remained abstinent for up to 24 months. The rest averaged six months.

Dr. Kingstone said other programs have given patients alcohol just to prove how nasty the Antabuse can be. "We don't do that," he said. "Some reactions are quite severe and it seems enough to just describe them."

By JOHN L. HESS
New York Times

NEW YORK — "One thing that struck me this season," said Sally Ann Lederman, "was to hear people say how expensive lettuce was—that tasteless stuff—when just by stooping down they could gather a week's supply of salad."

To prove it, Mrs. Lederman crossed the street to a vacant lot here. Her seven-year-old daughter, Leandra, called, "Mommy, here's dandelion."

Within 10 feet, her mother also picked up chicory, whose leaves are used in salad or as pot greens and whose roots supply a widely used coffee substitute or additive, and lamb's quarters, a mild cooking green comparable to spinach. A little further on were wisps of "poor man's pepper," or peppercorn.

Back inside her own lawn, Mrs. Lederman pulled some violet leaves for salad and day lilies, whose stalk bases when sauteed taste like mild, sweet leeks, and whose bulbs are boiled like tiny new potatoes.

Her husband, Lawrence, a Wall Street lawyer, observed that before lots were bulldozed recently, they were alive also with nourishing milkweed (whose young buds are cooked like sweet corn, and whose leaves and blossoms are also edible) and mustard greens. "With mustard greens in a salad," he said, "you don't need a dressing."

The Ledermans and their two children, all lean, brown, young and energetic climbed into a battered stationwagon and headed for nearby South Beach. Beside Sally Ann at the wheel was a shelf of paperback.

There were "Sturtevant's Edible Plants of the World," Maude Griddle Peterson's "How to Know Wild Fruits" and, of course, Euell Gibbon's "Stalking the Wild Asparagus," which put Mrs. Lederman, like thousands of others, on the trail of nature's bounty.

The rose hedge beside the promenade at South Beach was brightened by gold and red hips which, when the seeds are discarded, are comparable to fine sweet peppers for salad.

By the parking lot was a rich stand of milkweed, and in the scrub wood beyond were pin cherries, from which Mrs. Lederman makes a cherry drink for the children.

"I was really shocked when I found out what children in school eat," Mrs. Lederman said. "There's a birthday party in Leandra's class about once a week, and they all fill up on candy, cake and soft drinks. When it was my daughter's birthday, I sent in that cereal of mine, and cut-up fruit. For her party at home, she asked for violet leaves and a big bowl of raw greens, and it went like that."

The Lederman "cereal," a neighborhood sensation, is a baked mixture of sunflower, pumpkin and sesame seeds, unsweetened shredded coconut — "the sweetened just tastes like sugar" — wheat germ, whole wheat flour, dried milk and rolled oats or rolled wheat, honey, vegetable oil and water.

The Ledermans gather weeds not to save money, but for fun, taste and vitamins. "One of the things that gets me is people asking, 'But don't you get bugs all over it?' I was an analytical chemist for five years with the Food and Drug Administration. If they only knew!" Mrs. Lederman said.

If insects are not a real problem, poisonous plants are. Neophytes should arm themselves with good guides. Fortunately, a number of helpful books are available. Among the new ones:

"The Wild Food Trail guide," by Alan Hall (Holt), a handy paperback, extremely well organized.

"The Edible Wild," by Berndt Berglund and Clare E. Bolsby (Scribners), for looking and cooking, as is.

"The Wild Flavor," by Marilyn Kluger (Coward, McCann and Geoghegan), fun to read, and intelligently organized by seasons.

Legislation Aims at Social Isolation for Smokers

PHOENIX, Ariz. (NYP)—Politely, and sometimes not so politely, the non-smokers of America are taking on the puffers and hackers with new zeal. Non-smokers, once timid closet characters content to simply leave a smoke-filled room, are now demanding, and getting, equal but unpolluted indoor air.

So-called "non-smokers' rights" legislation has been passed or is pending in several cities and states. On July 10, the Civil Aeronautics Board made a non-smoking section mandatory on commercial airlines.

Some entertainers, such as Vicki Carr, the singer, tell night-clubbers to stop smoking during their acts. And party hosts simply prohibit smoking in their homes.

Perhaps more significantly, proprietors, previously afraid of offending smoking customers, are experimenting with non-smoking sections in hotels, restaurants, beauty parlors and other establishments. And they say they are finding it profitable.

In July in Phoenix, Leonard

Monti, a restaurateur for 26 years, reserved a 35-seat section of his restaurant, La Casa Vieja, for non-smokers.

"I decided to take a chance and see what happened," he said.

What happened was that business picked up and he expanded his non-smoking section to 125 seats on weekdays and 200 on weekends. Now, about half the 800 customers he serves daily ask to dine in smokeless air. Six other Phoenix restaurants now have similar non-smoking sections.

Early in September Carl

Elkins, a cigarette smoker, opened a beauty salon called "Hair Fashions" in nearby Scottsdale featuring Wednesday and Thursday as no-smoking days. On those days, ashtrays are collected and hidden, and when Elkins wants to smoke, he goes outside.

Cigarette smoking declined from 1967 to 1971 in the United States, but the number of smokers has increased since then, according to the American Cancer Society.

"With tobacco sales rising, tobacco opponents have set a course to isolate smokers socially by claiming danger for non-smokers." Horace R. Kornegay, president of the Tobacco Institute, said in a letter to The New York Times. He said the health argument was unproved, then added:

"The key consideration is comfort. The answer lies in courtesies between those who enjoy tobacco and those who do not. Laws and further government intervention are over-reactions."

In the campaign of the non-smokers, Arizona is special for two reasons. First, it has a large population of health-conscious retirees who moved there to breathe clean air. Second, one of them happens to be Mrs. Betty Carnes, a crusader for non-smokers' rights who devotes almost full time to the cause of clean indoor air.

Arguing that a personal postcard poll of 16,000 Arizonians showed that only one-fourth smoked, she helped push a bill through the Legislature that on Aug. 8 sharply curtailed smoking in public places.

Arizona, with the first state non-smoking law, may not be unique for long. Similar legislation is pending in at least a dozen states. Cities in Florida and California have passed local ordinances. And the Canadian House of Commons is considering a bill to provide equal space for non-smokers on all public transportation.

Most new laws on the books or pending do not exclude the smoker. They say smoking is not allowed unless there are separate sections for non-smokers.

Not all non-smokers object to people smoking around them. But what is new and growing is the number of people who do object and who are saying so publicly, according to a private organization in Washington called Action on Smoking and Health (ASH), which bills itself as "the legal action arm of the anti-smoking community."

"Beyond any doubt," said John F. Banzhaf III, ASH's executive director, "non-smokers' rights is an issue of growing importance and public concern."

UNISEX FLUNKIES

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Almost all the female candidates for the newly created "unisex police force" flunked the physical strength test. Of the 178 applicants for police officer training, 35 were women.

Only two of them passed the physical strength tests, compared to 139 of the 143 male applicants, the city personnel department said Friday, and one of these two women was disqualified for other reasons.

The test results brought more criticism from Sgt. Fancho Blake, the policewoman who is leading the fight against what she contends is anti-female discrimination in the department. She is suing the department in federal court in a class action suit aimed at forcing the city to hire more women officers.

Did you know that Canada's Northwest Territories cover an area larger than Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan combined? Although this means that the N.W.T. represent more than one-third of Canada's total area, only one-fifth of one per cent of our population lives up there.

The 20-page bilingual booklet "Background Information On The Northwest Territories" also reveals that in the N.W.T. most of the population is either Eskimo or Indian. Of the remainder, about half is Metis.

With regard to natural resources, the booklet says that geological surveys indicate that our northern territories are potentially rich in mineral deposits, oil and gas. They have, for instance, almost three times as many potential oil-bearing sediments as those which brought riches to Alberta.

The booklet also points out that the future of the N.W.T. will largely be determined by the development of its wealth of natural resources including forests, fresh water, fish and game. It is also noteworthy that one of the world's richest iron ore deposits, located on Baffin Island, is awaiting exploration.

Bob for Apples In an Autumn Party Dip

You don't need a recipe to enjoy delicious apples. Eaten alone, apples are a treat any time, but served with sauces and dips they are transformed into party fare.

For a marvellous appetizer or a late evening snack, cut apples into wedges and arrange them on a plate. Provide small forks or toothpicks for dipping and an array of dips and your guests will do the rest.

Cheese and caramel spreads and dips made with cream cheese or salad dressing mixed with honey and orange juice are perfect accompaniments. Another good idea is to dip the fruit into sour cream and then roll in crushed peanuts.

When buying apples, choose firm, mature, juicy fruit which are free from bruises. In order to prevent the apples from darkening when cut into wedges, cut them just before serving and dip them immediately into lemon juice or ascorbic acid.

The Agriculture Canada home economists suggest several recipes for your dipping pleasure. Creamy Nut Dip, Cream Cheese Dip and Honey Orange Dip are as easy to prepare as they are good to eat.

CREAMY NUT DIP

Combine 1/2 pint (1 1/4 cups) dairy sour cream with 2 tablespoons sugar. Chill. Chop 1/4 cup salted peanuts. Dip fruit into cream, then into nuts.

CREAM CHEESE DIP

8 ounces cream cheese, softened
1/4 cup light cream
3 tablespoons salad dressing
2 teaspoons lemon juice
Dash of salt
Beat cheese until fluffy. Gradually beat in remaining ingredients. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

HONEY ORANGE DIP

1/4 cup mayonnaise
2 teaspoons honey
2 teaspoons orange juice
1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
2 tablespoons finely chopped walnuts
1/2 cup whipping cream, whipped
Combine all ingredients except cream. Fold in cream. Chill. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Forecast for Wednesday, Oct. 10
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Lunar cycle high; take initiative. Make new start. Highlight independence of thought, action. Trust your own judgment. Sense of timing is sharp. Your originality, pioneering spirit surges to forefront. Ignore those who are jealous.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Secrets are featured. Make inquiries. Do some personal investigating. Keep promise to one confined to home, hospital. Co-operate in project aimed at helping those who are incapacitated. Gemini, Virgo persons could figure prominently.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Accents on friends, hopes and desires. Protect business interests. Refuse to give up something for nothing. What seems adverse could boomerang in your favor. Pisces individual might play key role. Be selective. Insist on quality.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emphasis on responsibility, authority, willingness to back beliefs with investments of time or money, or both. Capricorn might play significant role. Civic project, business deal—these rate high on your agenda.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Good luck aspect. Good luck in writing, advertising and generally "spreading the message." Long-range view is necessary. Travel and a broadening of horizons—these are featured. You get rid of outmoded concepts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): New deal with finances indicated—male or partner proves valuable ally. Be sure you make your own decisions. Means right or wrong. It is your style, your play that counts. Know it and respond accordingly. Tap creative resources.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Lie low. Permit one close to you to take initiative. You do best now as a shrewd observer who listens, learns. Family and legal complications likely. Virgo, Leo natives could figure prominently. Be receptive. Collect needed data.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Maintain even level—obtain hint from Libra message. Accents on routine, health, what you do to relieve tension. Solitary. Gemini persons could figure prominently. Scorpio in accord with fellow workers, those who share interests and goals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accents on the creative process. You feel, perceive and impart your individual style. Young persons' members of opposite sex figure prominently. Aquarius, Leo natives could figure in plans. Be open to change of procedure.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): One in home area is inquisitive. Find ways of answering. Don't be upset by verbal onslaught. Analyze reasons, motives. Your sense of security will be enhanced if you deal with situation rather than attempting to ignore it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Study Capricorn message. One at home wants very much to open line of communication. Make it easier. Send. Receive. Harmony is a key now to progress and to your health. Taurus, Libra persons may be in picture.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): If selective, you gain financially. Insist on quality. Eschew get-rich-quick maneuver. Accents on collecting what you need. You can put together missing links. Know it and proceed with confidence. Neutral abilities are magnified.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are creative, somewhat of a rebel, musical and independent. You have original touch and opposite sex finds you attractive. Many born under Leo are drawn to your sphere. You discover truths about others and yourself in December. You currently are in process of change. Don't resist!

To Catch a Thief

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote that a member of her family had been consistently stealing money out of her purse—fives, tens, twenties—but she had not way of knowing for sure who the guilty party was. You suggested that she keep her purse locked up.

I have a better idea, which I used when we had that problem in our house. I got some gentian violet crystals from a pharmacist. It's an invisible powder which when sprinkled on an object will leave dark purple stains on the hands of a y o n e who touches the object. The stains are impossible to wash off—they must wear off.

I carefully dusted some money with this powder. The next day the money was gone—but the culprit showed up with purple hands! If you use this letter please omit my name. The thief in our house has learned his lesson—SHERLOCK.

DEAR SHERLOCK: Thanks for the suggestion, but to catch a thief purple-handed, one needs the co-operation of a physician, because I'm advised that a prescription is required to obtain gentian violet crystals.

DEAR ABBY: I have this favorite Aunt Edna who lives out of town. Last Christmas she sent me a lovely personal gift, but she didn't send my husband Al anything. She is not an ignorant woman, so I can't understand her actions.

Al is very fond of her, and I knew he'd be hurt if he knew she forgot him, so I bought him a very expensive tie, had it gift-wrapped and told him it was from Aunt Edna.

I write all the thank-you notes, so Al assumed I thanked Aunt Edna for the tie.

The few times during the year we saw Aunt Edna I was scared to death Al would say something about the "beautiful tie" she sent him, and she wouldn't know what he was talking about.

I don't want her to forget Al again this Christmas, but I haven't the nerve to tell her. Please help me. —DREADING CHRISTMAS.

DEAR DREADING: Come right out and tell Aunt Edna how you covered for her last Christmas, and ask her please to remember Al this year because he is so fond of her he'd be hurt if he knew she forgot him.

DEAR ABBY: I am 74 years old and have been a widow since the age of 29. I raised five children and 12 grandchildren, and what a thankless job I had.

My biggest problem is loneliness. But the reason for my loneliness is the fact that I am poor. Young people today don't want us older folks around unless we are well fixed and can do for them.

I have a sister who married well. She is two years older than I am, and she has never known a lonely hour. Her children and grandchildren flock around her like bees. She is always handing out money and handing out money and presents, and they treat her like she is some kind of queen. I have nothing to give, so I am ignored. I am not helpless yet, and God forbid I ever should be, because I'd be dumped into a state home and forgotten. Money is power. —POWERLESS.

DEAR ABBY: I am boiling!

My boss asked you to publish an "open letter" to his secretary in which he tells her that he wishes she would please keep her personal problems to herself. He says he is not a financial advisor, neither is he a marriage counselor, and he doesn't want her to waste his time (or hers) crying on his shoulder at the office. Well, I have a letter for HIM:

Dear Boss:

In the six months I have worked for you, I know just about everything there is to know about your family situation. I really don't care if your wife is cold, and that you'd divorce her in a minute if it weren't for your children. Also, I don't care if you do think I have beautiful hair, lovely eyes, great legs. Also, do not want to join you to "relax" after office hours with a cocktail.

I don't wish to discuss my private life with you, and some of the questions you ask are pretty embarrassing.

I am no "Dear Abby," so don't tell me your problems because I have no desire to become part of them.

And by the way, when I find another job that pays me what this one does, I'll give you my two-weeks' notice. Meanwhile, since you think I'm such an excellent secretary, how about a raise?—Your Secretary.

School Book vs. Pollution

LET'S 'UNPOLLUTE'

OTTAWA (CP) — Concerned about an apparent lack of environmental education materials, the government has entered the field with a publication for elementary schools.

About 1.3 million copies of new booklet prepared by the environment department, entitled Let's Unpollute, are going out to school children across the country. A department spokesman said the color booklet, in comic book form "was prepared in response to the hundreds of inquiries we were getting from school kids."

The department has prepared packages that include 40 booklets, 10 small posters and one large poster — at a total cost of about $6 a package. The schools get the packages free.

The 32-page booklet is designed for children in Grades 4, 5 and 6, but some teachers in higher grades have requested them.

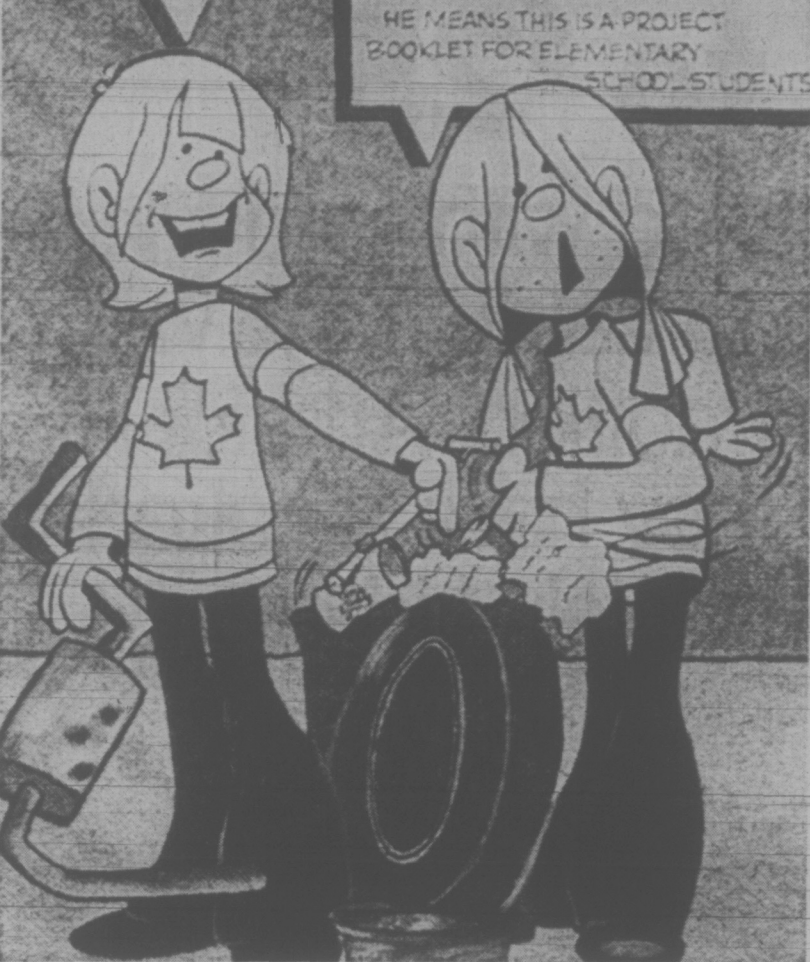

The booklet takes a refreshing new approach to younger readers by avoiding the condescending "let's pick up lots of litter" angle.

It starts off by explaining what man's role is in the ecological cycle, then progresses through discussion groups and explains "how we got into this mess in the first place."

"Every day there are more mouths to feed, for the population of the world is now doubling every 40 years. More food and goods must be manufactured to support this increased population and the wastes from these activities, if not treated, will poison natural systems."

Other sections of the booklet include crossword puzzles on varying aspects of the environment, how to set up field trips and experiments and explanations of the less-publicized types of pollution, such as noise.

It concludes with a list of information sources in all provinces and at the federal level and an explanation of the environment department's role in cleaning up the country.

CARTOON COVER is the outside of a 32-page federal government booklet aimed at teaching elementary school children about environmental problems. About 1.3 million copies have so far been distributed.

Press Reports Reflected On Store Shelf Prices

By MARY MOORE

The manager of one of the branches of a large supermarket told me that the public reacts to reports from the press. If a reported writes a story about bread prices going up customers flock in late Saturday afternoon and buy dozens of loaves of bread to store in their freezers.

The same applies to beef. One week recently the price of steaks was $2.29 per pound. After a story appeared early the next week about the rising cost a supermarket reduced the price of steaks to $1.79. More panic buying (which they anticipated). The same holds for frozen turkey. As I write they are 79c per pound. This is a real good buy with a good prospect of the price remaining steady for Thanksgiving. A turkey grower told me it might be nearer to 70c per pound.

My store manager friend told me that the most popular size weighs 15 pounds. Left-over turkey may be used for Turkey and Egg Bake next week.

SAVORY STUFFED ROAST TURKEY

NOTE: If turkey is frozen, thaw in storage part of refrigerator for 48 hours.

One 14- to 16-pound turkey (if frozen thaw — see above). 16 slices fresh white bread crumbled (buzzing in blender speeds up crumbling).

1/2 lb. margarine

1 tsp. savoury
1 tsp. chopped parsley OR bottled flakes (optional)
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. onion salt
1 tsp. celery salt (OR celery seed)

In a large pot melt the margarine and add the savoury, parsley (if used), salt, onion salt and celery salt and gently saute until seasonings are soaked with margarine. Add the bread crumbs, cristen a little and mix well and stuff prepared 14 to 16-pound bird. Skewer, tie the turkey and butter the skin with hard butter. Cover with tent of foil and roast it at 325 deg. Fahr. for 3 hours then reduce heat to 250 deg. Fahr. for 2 1/2 hours. It will be roasted to a delicious golden brown and will be moist and tender. Baste your turkey if you wish. Remove foil for the last hour.

TURKEY GIBLET GRAVY
Giblets and neck from turkey, 4% c. water, 1 tsp. salt, 1 onion sliced fine, 1/2 c. chopped celery leaves, 1/2 c. drippings from roasting pan, 1/2 c. flour. Wash giblets and neck, place all but liver in saucepan; add water, salt, onion and celery. Cover and bring to boil, then SIMMER until gizzard "is tender" — about 3 hours, adding liver 5 minutes ahead of this. Remove giblets and neck. Strain broth — there should be 4 cups. Chop giblets and neck meat discarding the grisly bits of gizzard. Blend drippings and flour together, stir in broth until thick, add giblets and heat through stirring. Serve piping hot.

CHAIN OF VILLAGES SEEN FOR ELDERLY

TORONTO (CP) — A string of senior citizen villages across Ontario may result in a province-wide survey.

The idea is to develop centres with all modern conveniences in slow-paced rural, rather than crowded urban areas, where senior citizens can live together in apartments and condominiums on a rent geared-to-income basis.

Manitoulin Island in Georgian Bay has been selected as the site of the first test village, a tribute to John Lane, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for the area, who conceived the plan and convinced the government to act on it.

"I think this could change the whole life-style of people over 60," Lane said in an interview.

Warm-Up Artist Almost Stole Remarkable Show

By BRIAN HAY
Times Staff
Toronto is in for a Christmas treat that was a Thanksgiving delight for Victoria.

It was the annual visit of Sonny Terry and Brownie McGhee to the Garden City, part of a tour that started last week in Vancouver and will wend its way through the U.S. West, Midwest and East Coast before wrapping up at the Riverboat folk club in Toronto the week of Christmas and New Years.

But this year, their visit was more. Much more.

Of course, Sonny and Brownie were their delightful, whooping, self-denigrating selves during their two shows at the McPherson Sunday night.

There is very little to say about them.

Surely, if James Brown is the Godfather of soul, these two aged blues hollers who shuffle on stage one lame and the other blind are the grandfathers of soul. . . . Rufus Thomas notwithstanding.

And the cross-cut of generation and society who make up their fans show their universal appeal.

As two almost-full houses showed Sunday.

But the delight in the show came from the warm-up artist, a young Californian named Sherman Hayes.

The boy is good.

And the next time he comes back to Victoria, it will be as a headliner.

Hayes works in the delta-folk-rock idiom, highly-evocative and extremely mellow.

Appearing with two side-men — although Hayes is quick to underscore the obvious as it shows on stage — the trio is a tightly-knit band, not a performer and back-up men . . . and the bulk of effect for the almost-unique sound they produce must go to them, especially Steve Van Gelder who (pardon the pun) doubles in brass on mandolin, fiddle and lead guitar.

"It's funny," Sherman told me, "but I was getting to the point of thinking that I'd never get a group together that suited me, then I got this tour and first Chris (the bass player) and then Steve were recommended to me and . . . click."

"Although everybody there went to hear Sonny and Brownie in concert, I'm willing to bet that most of them would go back to hear Sherman Hayes in concert."

Some service station owners in the U.S., angered that the government will not let them raise gasoline prices as much as they say is reasonable, now are charging for maps and other services such as washing the windshield.
"Maybe they'll appreciate the maps if they pay for them," said Paul Allen, a Gulf dealer in Los Angeles.
"Anyway, if we were allowed to make money on our products, we could keep the free services."

In the San Francisco area and in Utah some dealers have divided pumping areas into "full service" zones and "no service" zones.
In the former, the motorist gets his windshield washed and oil checked, but pays a penny or two per gallon more than the one in the "no service" area.
In another development, Richard Meser, president of the Greater Indianapolis Gasoline Dealers, Inc., said an assistant to Charles Owens, head of the Cost of Living Council's energy division, has asked him to set up a seven-man panel of dealers to advise the council.

The CLC Sept. 20 let U.S. gas stations raise prices by between one and 2½ cents per gallon. Dealers said that was not enough.

Many dealers on the West Coast either have stopped carrying maps or are charging a dime and even a quarter for them.

After the Surgery: Champagne people

TORONTO — A 32-year-old Toronto man had Canada's first nuclear-powered heart pacer implanted in his chest Monday and within minutes of getting off the operating table, was celebrating with champagne.

Jack Tootill, who had worn a conventional battery-powered pacer since 1965, became the first Canadian to receive a nuclear pacer after the Atomic Energy Control Board approved their use in this country.

Dr. Bernard Goldman, surgical director of Toronto General Hospital's pacemaker clinic, said the pacer has "brought us full circle from the days when Dr. Wilfred Bigelow first experimented with electrical stimulation of the heart more than 20 years ago."

The $5,000 pacer is about the size of a round cosmetic powder compact and is totally implanted under the skin near the shoulder. Electric impulses are emitted that regulate the heartbeat.

It is expected to run for at least 10 years without replacement with the plutonium having a half-life of 87 years. Battery-powered pacers have an estimated life of only 18 months to two years and Tootill is looking forward to fewer operations.

"It's not bad when you are young and your skin is elastic and you heal fast, but it isn't so great as you get older. I first heard about the plutonium pacer when it was first used in France about three years ago and it seemed a great idea for someone my age."

ROME — Actor Burt Lancaster and an Italian television crew filming the story of Moses in Israel have not been heard from since fighting broke out there.

The group was known to be based in Jericho and planning to shoot exteriors in the Jerusalem area.

The Italian television press office said it was trying to contact the team through Italian diplomatic channels in Israel.

LANCASTER, Pa. — A businessman from Missouri paid $176,000 Monday for one of Adolf Hitler's touring cars.

Thirty-three-year-old Robert Pass of St. Louis, who is Jewish, said he plans to display the car across the country and donate the proceeds to Jewish charities. Three-inch metal swastikas adorn the front fenders.

He bought the car from Earl Clark, a Lancaster tourist executive, who bought it for $133,000 in Scottsdale, Ariz., last January.

Bidding on the Hitler black Mercedes-Benz started at $50,000 and was over in 15 to 20 minutes.

SAN FRANCISCO — Comedian Red Skelton left the church trailing wisecracks after his solemn, single-ring wedding to Palm Springs sportswoman Lothian Toland.

"This was a double-ring ceremony," Skelton said as he clutched the arm of his beaming bride. "We had two rings, one for her finger and one for my nose."

The marriage Monday at San Francisco's First Unitarian Church was Skelton's third and his 35-year-old bride's first.

The new Mrs. Skelton looked up at her husband and said softly: "I just know I re-

No One Helped —6 Die

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—"I fought and honked my horn and kicked and put on the brakes and screamed for five minutes. Several people who were there have called and apologized for not helping me."

"They said they didn't know why they didn't help. They said they weren't scared. They just didn't help."

Geraldine Ewalt was describing her abduction last week by two escaped federal prisoners, later charged with six murders, three in Lexington and three at Falmouth, Ky.

"Somebody could have pulled their car in the way or thrown a book at them or done something," Mrs. Ewalt said Monday.

"There was a young man right next to me and a woman standing next to the car. I looked at both of their faces and they were looking right at me, and I pleaded with them to help."

The escapees forced her to drive to her home, bound her, a daughter and a son and took her car.

"If somebody would have done something to prevent the escape or help me, those six people would be alive today."

Skelton kissed her on the cheek.

The bridegroom, 60, was referred to as "Richard" by Rev. David Rankin, who performed the ceremony.

Connors Tops Reissen In Quebec Open Final

Young Jimmy Connors blasted fellow-American Marty Reissen 6-1, 6-4, 6-7, 6-0 Sunday to win the singles title in the $50,000 Quebec Open international tennis tournament.

Connors then teamed with Reissen but his bid for two titles failed when they were beaten 6-2, 7-6 by Frew McMillan of South Africa and B.B. Carmichael, an Australian living in France, in the doubles final.

Elsewhere on the weekend tennis scene:

Billie Jean King overpowered Nancy Gunter 6-1, 6-3 Sunday to win the $40,000 international tournament in Phoenix, Ariz.

States won the singles title in the $50,000 Fort Worth National Colonial tournament Sunday, beating Brian Gottfried 7-5, 6-2, 6-4 in the final.

Dibbs, only 20 and seeded eighth, wiped out the first, second and third seeded players in his last three matches.

Gottfried and Dick Stockton, also of the U.S., combined to beat Australians John Newcombe and Owen Davidson 7-5, 6-4 to win the doubles.

And in Osaka, Japan, top-seeded Ken Rosewall defeated Japanese Davis Cup player Toshiro Sakai 6-2, 6-4 to take the singles title in the $25,000 Osaka Open tournament.

crashed on the down ramp after completing a jump over 10 cars and three trucks lined up side by side. Doctors said he suffered possible injuries to the kidney as well as numerous cuts and bruises.

Despite his injuries, Knievel managed to get to a trackside microphone before being taken to the hospital. He told the 6,000 onlookers, "I am too tough to die."

CASERTA, Italy — British film star Peter Finch announced Monday he will marry his long-time Jamaican companion Eletha Barrett.

The 57-year-old actor, in Italy for the making of a new film, entitled the Abduction, said the wedding would be in Rome Nov. 1.

Finch was previously married to Russian ballet dancer Tamara Tchinarova and later to South African actress Yolande Turner. Both marriages ended in divorce.

MILFORD, Ind. — Officials in this town of 1,200 accidentally discovered Monday a way to make people pay their water bills. Water Commissioner John Martin had to shut off the water for a few hours for repairs when a water main broke.

Then people began showing up at town hall with payment for their water bill thinking their water had been shut off because of unpaid bills.

LASH LA RUE NOW WHIPPING SOULS INTO LINE

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Lash La Rue, whose whip and six-gun once punished bad guys in the movies, now is an evangelist whipping drunks into line behind the Lord.

The Cheyenne Kid thought seven years ago that he had come to the end of the trail. Arrested for vagrancy in Miami with just 35 cents in his pocket, he said he asked the arresting officer to shoot him and put him out of his misery.

Now La Rue is helping round up maverick souls at the Mission Power Headquarters and Home of the Apostles.

One project at the mission which La Rue favors is the Hollywood Western Revue for the Lord. The show features tricky whip and gun handling, Lash La Rue movies and a smattering of old-time religion.

"I got sidetracked in the world of competition and I got lost," said the 54-year-old former matinee idol. "But I dedicated my life to Him as His servant. My sense of values changed."

Lash La Rue comic books sold 12 million copies in 1952, so after leaving Hollywood in 1962 he took a whip act across the United States in one carnival after another. Things went downhill from there.

DECISION

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT

The Canadian Radio-Television Commission announces the following decisions effective on September 28, 1973.

Decision 73-429
VICTORIA, B.C.

Application by British Columbia Broadcasting System Ltd. to renew its broadcasting licence for CHEK-TV, Victoria, B.C.

Decision: APPROVED

The Commission renews this licence from October 1, 1973, to January 9, 1975, subject to conditions to be specified therein. Western Broadcasting Company Ltd. directly and indirectly through subsidiaries, is a substantial shareholder of British Columbia Television Broadcasting System Ltd. The Commission grants a short term renewal of this licence taking into account the concerns expressed in its Public Announcements of June 2, 1972, and November 24, 1972.

It will be a requirement of this licence that CHEK-TV be operated in affiliation with the CBC English Network.

The Commission expects the licensee to increase the number of hours of local programming directed to viewers in Victoria and Vancouver Island as promised at the public hearing.

Study Shows 1 Out of 20 MDs Admits Sex With Patients

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Tribune reported today that in a nationwide survey conducted by a team of California psychiatrists, at least one out of every 20 doctors responding admitted he had engaged in sexual intercourse with his patients.

The Tribune said the survey, reported in the current issue of the American Journal of Psychiatry, showed that most physicians frowned upon the use of erotic behavior in their practice as unethical or "professional suicide."

Conducted by Dr. Sheldon H. Karver, Mariel Field Fuller, and Dr. Ivan N. Menseh of the University of California at Los Angeles, the study was responded to by 489 psychiatrists, obstetricians, gynecologists, surgeons, internists and general practitioners.

The study showed that 5 to 13 per cent of the group engaged in some kind of erotic and 5 to 7.2 per cent engaged behavior with their patients, in sexual intercourse.

The report said 87 per cent of the physicians condemned erotic behavior with patients. The doctors said it destroyed the doctor-patient relationship, was "unforgivable," or indicated the doctor was psychopathic.

But 13 per cent of the doctors okayed erotic practices for such reasons as "improves sexual maladjustments," "helps patients' recognition of their sexual status," "especially in the depressed, middle-aged female who feels undesirable," or "to relieve frustration in a widow or divorcee."

The doctors said the patients most often initiated the sexual behavior.

The study also said psychiatrists and obstetrician-gynecologists were the most reluctant to engage in sex with their patients.

'QUEEN' SUIT EYED

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne State University student Bob Baker is threatening to go to court because he was disqualified from competing for the school's homecoming queen crown.

It's a clear case of sex discrimination, he says.

Baker, the student-faculty council candidate, was disqualified by the university's homecoming committee. He ran as a "favorite son" in an "anti-sexist campaign" for his spot on the court.

SEARCH HALTED FOR LOST PILOT

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — A Canadian Forces spokesman said Monday the search for pilot Neil Carey of North Vancouver, missing since Sept. 18, has been halted.

"We have ceased formal searching," the spokesman said, adding that pilots flying in the area would be advised to keep a lookout for the light plane Carey was flying.

Carey, a pilot for CP Air, was on a flight from Quesnel to Terrace.

A Canadian Forces tracker plane, which disappeared Sept. 20 while taking part in the search for Carey, was found Sept. 27 with the bodies of its four-crew-members on board.

The armed forces spokesman said military and civilian aircraft had searched 833 hours for Carey. A total of 86,460 square miles had been searched, he said.

King Lost Temper At Stubborn Mike

By STEPHEN SCOTT

OTTAWA (CP) — The story of how the late prime minister Mackenzie King was dragged kicking and screaming into what Lester Pearson called "participatory internationalism" will be released next week.

The story is how the isolationist-minded King clashed head-on with Pearson, then under-secretary of state for external affairs, and Louis St. Laurent — his minister-over-Canada participation in a United Nations body dealing with Korea in 1947.

The outcome of the showdown was a reversal of King's isolationist policies and the entry of Canada into the international arena.

The story is related in the second volume of Mike, the autobiography of Lester Pearson, which will be released next week by the University of Toronto Press.

Volume II picks up where the best-selling Volume I, released last October, left off, concentrating on the time when Pearson was under-secretary and minister.

Excerpts of the second part of the late prime minister's memories were made available to The Canadian Press.

SPARKS DISSIDENCE

The book ends with the awarding of the Nobel Prize to Pearson on the day the Queen opened Parliament in 1957. Conservative John Diefenbaker was prime minister and Liberal Pearson the leader of the opposition.

Pearson tells of how in 1947, when King was in London, External Affairs Minister St. Laurent authorized Canadian membership of the UN Commission on Korea, which was charged with seeking the reunification of that country.

On his return, King demanded Canada's withdrawal and St. Laurent refused. King, St. Laurent and Justice Minister J. L. Ilsey threatened to resign, and Pearson considered it.

Faced with the breakup of his cabinet, King retreated and Canada set off on a new road of internationalism.

Pearson related that he was surprised by the outbreak of the Korean War, partly as a result of a conversation held with United States General Douglas MacArthur in Tokyo in February, 1950.

MacArthur, allied supreme commander in Japan, had pointed to a line on a map of the Pacific where, if there was any threat of aggression, the "United States would have to say 'thus far and no farther'."

'IS NOT VITAL'

Pearson had remarked that Korea was not included in that line, and MacArthur had replied: "No, it would be very difficult, it would be embarrassing, it would be disappointing, it would be worrying if an enemy took Korea; but it is not vital to our security."

Pearson adds to that: "This was not too many months before Korea did become vital." The men who collaborated with Pearson in the writing of his autobiography said some professional diplomats consider Korea to be Pearson's most important diplomatic work, with the Korean armistice as the high point in his career.

"Had the United Nations disintegrated in the face of its first real collective security challenge (as the League of Nations had in 1935 and 1936), there obviously would not have been his more spectacular success over Suez a few years later," they said in releasing the excerpts.

They said Mike, Volume II, gives Pearson's impressions of leading Cold War figures and reaffirms his own stand on the issues and organizations of the time.

RETIRE Victoria army officer, Col. R. J. Carson, 58, has been named colonel commandant of the armed forces' military engineering branch. Still active with the Engineering Institute of Canada, Carson retired from the armed forces in 1963.

MOUNTIES MAKING PITCH FOR MINORITY RECRUITS

OTTAWA (CP) — With little fanfare, the RCMP is making some effort to recruit native peoples into the almost all-white national police force.

The 14,000-person force, sometimes criticized by native organizations for lack of understanding, has no hard-sell campaign on for recruits to fill what a spokesman said Friday is an "obvious need."

But it is inserting recruitment advertisements in periodicals often read by Indians and Eskimos.

"We recognize we should have more native peoples in the force," a spokesman said Friday. "We are advertising in areas where we hope we can attract them."

A typical ad may say: "Have you considered joining the RCMP?"

It is the same no matter where it is inserted.

"We haven't had the success we would like," the spokesman said of native recruiting.

The force needs about 800 recruits annually. Four hundred of these are needed to fill vacancies created by a small annual turnover of slightly more than three per cent a year. The remainder meet the needs of a force that is growing year by year.

The RCMP spokesman said there has always been a backlog of applicants and in the past there has been no need to encourage people to join.

But in recent years there has been some advertising, including attempts to find native recruits.

Natives are given no guarantees that they will serve in their own areas, such as the North.

The spokesman said one of the drawing cards of the RCMP may be that some people would like to travel elsewhere in Canada.

But he added that just as Quebec recruits generally serve in Quebec, Eskimo and Indian recruits probably would serve in their own areas.

Force records were not broken down in terms of race. The number of native people now in uniform is not known.

The force does employ Indians and Eskimos as special constables and guides, but these are not regarded as members of the regular forces.

In a related matter, attempts to have the RCMP training establishment in Regina train Indian special constables to operate on reserves still are bogged down in financing disputes.

Under a pioneering plan agreed to by Saskatchewan and the federal government the force would give native policemen a course in police work which would help them in their work on the reserves.

The program also would be innovative and experimental and involve such things as Indians giving lectures to RCMP officers on Indian culture.

The first course for 30 Indians was to have started this fall.

THE VICTIM WHO WASN'T

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A 36-year-old automobile polisher has been ordered to stand trial in the shooting death of a man whose brain was dead but whose heart was kept alive for a transplant.

The defendant's lawyer argued that his client should not stand trial for murder because the victim's heart still was beating when it was removed from the body.

"This is the first and only case we know of in the United States in which the victim of a criminal homicide was the donor for a heart transplant," said Albert Meloling, deputy district attorney in Alameda County.

He said the case could establish a new definition of death in California.

SHOT IN THE HEAD

After two days of medical and police testimony, Municipal Court Judge Stafford Buckley ordered Agnew Lyons of Oakland Friday to stand trial Oct. 26 on a charge of murdering Samuel Allen, 29, Sept. 10. Allen was killed by a shot in the head.

"All the time they're taking tests and pronouncing him (Allen) dead, the heart and other vital organs are merrily pumping away," Lyon's lawyer, John Cruikshank, said during the preliminary hearing.

Allen's heart was kept beating artificially before it was removed at Highland Hospital here, flown to Stanford University Hospital and transplanted Sept. 12 into Blaine Wixom, 52, of Salt Lake City.

Allen had been pronounced dead after his brain showed no electrical activity and he was unresponsive to stimuli, had no reflexes and was unable to breathe for himself.

Cruikshank contends the victim wasn't dead because his heart was beating, although his brain showed no life.

Inside Strange Tubers
Lurks Beautiful Life

One-inch pieces of Douglas fir bark from the beach can scarcely be expected to yield gaily-colored flowers when planted in the garden, yet a similar miracle happens when we plant tubers of Anemone coronaria.

These are the Crown-anemones, or Poppy-anemones, blooming outdoors here in late spring and early summer. The three-inch wide, shallow-saucer-shaped flowers are a surprise with their intense colors and long-lasting quality.

Now is time to put the strange tubers into the ground, strange in appearance and strange to believe that such dried looking things have dormant life within them. These anemone tubers have been likened to plugs of dried-chewing tobacco, but more gardeners here on the Pacific coast have seen the fir bark chips on the beaches so that the latter simile is perhaps more appropriate.

A dozen tubers cost a dollar. Out of them you may get three dozen flowers the first year; more in the second if you treat them right.

You can leave them in the ground indefinitely if your soil is right, or you lift them in July after two years and replant in enriched soil.

Anemone coronaria is perfect for small sunny pockets in a city garden, or in balcony tubs where late winter and spring sunshine reaches. As a welcome mat beside a home door, they do the job in glorious color.

What colors? Well, the single de Caen strain will give you dark blue, purple, mauve, scarlet, pink and pure white.

Unless you buy separate colors you cannot be sure of getting all these colors in one dozen corms, mixed.

As well as sunshine by late winter, these anemones must have soil which is well drained of winter rains. Yet another requirement is a humusy soil to hold moisture around the roots in spring and early summer before the leaves die down.

The ideal way to get this type of soil location is to add coarse sand and compost to a stiff clay loam; and much compost only, to a gravelly soil.

Two to three inches of soil covering above each corm is about right. But you will ask as soon as you see the corms — how do I know which way is up?

Gardeners will plant many roots upside down without knowing it, but with none is it so excusable as with these anemones.

Look at each one carefully. With most you notice one side has roughened zones. This is up. The more rounded, smoother side is down.

When my mind refuses to make a decision as to which is up or down, I plant the tuber on edge; then neither roots nor top growth will be greatly impeded.

If planting into dry soil, water well just over the planted area to hasten rooting before cold weather.

Plentiful rooting early in the growth period means ample green leaves showing by late winter, followed by the vivid blossoms.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

Three turtles — two big ones and one little one — went to a bar to quench their thirst. Each ordered a bottle of root beer. One of the big turtles happened to look outside and noticed that it was raining. After some discussion, it was decided that they should have their umbrella; and by a vote of 2-1, that the little turtle should go home to get it.

The little one objected, expressing the fear that if he went for the umbrella, the two big ones would drink his root beer. The two big turtles promised that they wouldn't. The little one started after the umbrella.

Two weeks went by, and one of the big turtles spoke up: "Let's do it." From down near the end of the bar, a shrill voice cried: "If you do, I won't go after the umbrella."

Had our little slowpoke turtle been the South declarer in today's deal, he probably would have fulfilled his grand slam contract. Our actual South declarer played too hurriedly and, as a result, was defeated. This deal, incidentally, has become a classic one. Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

Dummy's diamond ace won the opening lead, South discarding his five of clubs. After the ace and king of trumps — had gathered in East's two pieces, South laid down his ace of spades. When East failed to follow suit, South's contract had become unmakeable.

Although declarer was most unlucky in catching West with the four outstanding spades, he really had no one but himself to blame for his defeat. On the opening diamond lead, South should have discarded his spade ten. Had he done so, he would have had a guaranteed contract.

Trumps would then be drawn, after which the top spades would be cashed. Next would come a trump to dummy's nine, and a fourth spade lead would be ruffed by South. Dummy's fifth spade would now be the only one left in the deck.

Dummy would then be re-entered via the trump jack, and on the board's fifth spade South would discard his losing club. But, as was stated, South played too hurriedly.

CASTEL RIGONE, Italy (UPI) — What do you do when a cow walks into a cottage, is trapped under a collapsed beam and threatens in its panic to bring down the whole building?

Firemen called by farmer Angelo Alunni found an answer. They gave the cow a lot of wine to drink and then lifted the tipsy animal to safety with a crane.

Giant Kohoutek May Outshine Halley's Comet

WASHINGTON (WP)—The tail of the giant comet Kohoutek was seen for the first time last week as the huge ball of gas and ice swept in between the orbits of Jupiter and Mars.

So long is the tail of the comet that scientists expect that, when it passes the sun next January, it will be visible to the naked eye across one-sixth of the sky, from horizon to horizon. The head of the comet will be the brightest single object in the sky, with the exception of the January moon when it is full.

"We believe Kohoutek has a head 50 miles across and a tail that's somewhere between 50 and 100 million miles," said Dr. Stephen Maran, manager of operation Kohoutek at the space agency's Goddard space flight centre.

"We think Kohoutek will be every bit as big and bright as Halley's Comet was in 1910, when the earth passed right through the comet's tail."

The tail of the comet was seen for the first time last week by astronomers at Table Mountain Observatory, which is run by the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif. The tail had just begun to form last week, coming close enough to the sun to be ionized by the solar wind and heated by the sun's rays.

Kohoutek is now about 257 million miles from earth, moving at a speed of about 18 miles a second towards the sun. It is visible right now only to telescopes, in the constellation Sextans (sextant) in the early morning-southeast sky.

It will move into the constellation Leo this week, then enter Crater (the cup), speed through the corner of Virgo, then into Corvus (the crow) before re-entering Virgo (the virgin) in the third week of November. It will become visible to the trained naked eye about this time, becoming visible to the untrained eye about the first week of December when it flies into Libra (the scales) and then Scorpius.

Kohoutek will brighten significantly in the weeks before Christmas, shining at its brightest Dec. 28 when it passes across the constellation Sagittarius (the archer) only 13.2 million miles from the sun. It might be possible to see the comet in broad daylight with the naked eye, simply by screening the sun with an outstretched hand.

The best viewing time will come just after New Year's Eve, when the comet swings out from behind the sun west of the sun. This means the comet will be visible at night for the first time, since the sun will set before the comet does.

While the head of the comet is believed to be 50 miles across, the gassy envelope (called the coma) surrounding the head might measure as much as 10,000 miles across when the sun lights it up after sunset in January.

The comet will move across Capricorn (the goat), then hit its peak Jan. 18 as it moves through Aquarius. The head and the coma will be almost as bright as a full moon.

"The tail will be brightest near the head of the comet and fainter toward the tail's end," Goddard's Dr. Maran said, "but in a good dark spot with clean air and a clear night the tail should be visible a distance equal to the diameter of 30 full moons."

Kohoutek will be the most watched comet in world history, seen not only by more people but examined by more scientists than any comet before. When it makes its closest approach (75 million miles) to earth on Jan. 10, observatories around the world will be photographing it.

The space agency has deliberately delayed the launch of its last Skylab crew until Nov. 11, so the astronauts will still be aboard the orbiting space station to study it until Jan. 10. They will examine the comet with an array of solar telescopes and an ultraviolet camera that was used to photograph the stars from the surface of the moon by the Apollo 16 crew.

Kohoutek is a new comet, meaning that it has probably entered our solar system for the first time this year. The comet got its name for the man who found it, a Czechoslovakian-born astronomer named Lubos Kohoutek who discovered it by accident at the Hamburg observatory in Bergedorf, West Germany. He had been looking for an asteroid.

The origins and makeup of the comet are the prime goals of Operation Kohoutek. Scientists think the comet came from the edge of the solar system, that it entered the solar system because it was disturbed by the eruptions of a nearby star or an odd alignment of the outer planets Saturn, Neptune and Uranus.

Comets are at least as old as the solar system and are believed to be made of huge chunks of primordial rock, ice and gas. The makeup of the gases is unknown, though carbon, methane and hydrogen have all been identified in comets before Kohoutek.

Curse You, Fuel Crisis! Now Snoopy Joins Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration today enlisted Snoopy as the symbol for a campaign to conserve energy supplies.

President Nixon received a citizen's advisory committee report on ways the public can help ease predicted fuel shortages this winter.

In addition, top administration officials gave Nixon reports on how the government and private industry are moving to conserve energy supplies.

The energy conservation campaign will seek to cut energy consumption by five per cent this winter. Among the steps outlined are:

—Adoption of cartoonist Charles Schultz's character Snoopy as a symbol for a Save-Energy campaign with distribution of advertisements to the media and energy conservation kits to schools.

—Widescale distribution of energy-saving flints to consumers, including a sugges-

The Canadian Forestry Association is looking for junior wardens.

The association is sponsoring weekly meetings for boys between 10 and 16 interested in learning about forests, and how to preserve them.

The meetings are held every Wednesday evening at McKenzie, Willows and Cloverdale schools.

The young wardens will also go on camping trips and weekend hikes.

Anyone interested in becoming either a junior warden or a warden leader may obtain more information by calling 479-2736.

Duplication Worries Cocke

Health Minister Dennis Cocke says his department will set up machinery to cut down duplication of services.

He told a weekend meeting here of the Kinsmen Rehabilitation Foundation of British Columbia:

"The government's job is to help set up a vehicle of co-ordination of services. If we don't become efficient we're going to go down the tube because costs are escalating tremendously."

Cocke said hospital costs are increasing 13 per cent a year.

He stressed the need for coordination, "communication and co-operation."

"As an example," Cocke said, "we know of one woman who was being served by seven different agencies without the knowledge of the complete picture by any of them."

"There are far too many vacuums. There is far too little co-ordination in our view." The minister said a review of health care in British Columbia, being prepared by Dr. Richard Foulkes, should be completed in two or three weeks.

"This (the study) is not written in Holy Grail or in stone," he said, "but will be put out for public discussion. Some aspects of it can be put into effect readily but others must go up for discussion."

Cocke congratulated the foundation on its work, noting it had spent $333,000 in the past year and praised the "added dimension" of the volunteer input, which he said was vital.

"You are close to the community," he said. "You know what's going on in the community far more than a centralized organization would. The grass roots operation is very important."

Stating he didn't wish to throw stones, Cocke said volunteer organizations sometimes failed to sit back and assess the results of the service.

Kinsmen zone directors from across B.C. attended the meeting in the Ingraham Hotel, as well as representatives from the various agencies helped by the foundation.

Orders of merit were presented to Mrs. Frances Lamont of Vancouver and her sister, Mrs. Phyllis Sutton of Victoria. Mrs. Lamont recently retired as executive secretary of the Cerebral Palsy Association of B.C. Her sister was honored for her work with Arbutus Crafts.

An award of merit was also given Robert Knight, who was accountant at Arbutus Crafts for six years.

The main source of funds for the foundation comes from the annual Kinsmen Mothers' March.

Radiation Curbs Urged On Anti-Hijack Screens

WASHINGTON (UPI)

The Food and Drug Administration has proposed rules to protect the public from radiation emitted by commercial X-ray machines, including anti-hijacking devices in use at more than 30 major U.S. airports.

The rules would limit how much radiation can be given off in the vicinity of such machines and provide safeguards to prevent accidental exposure.

The X-ray machines involved are those enclosed in cabinets and used for such purposes as authenticating works of art or detecting flaws in solid matter.

In recent months they have come into widespread use to screen airline carry-on luggage to detect weapons.

Last month Ralph Nader asked the Federal Aviation Administration to ban the airport use of such devices, saying passengers should not be exposed to them until the government sets safety standards.

At that time the air transport association said 175 of the machines had been installed at a cost of $4 million.

Passengers are generally screened by metal detectors which do not employ X-rays.

The FDA said the cabinet devices are also being used to uncover contraband at air, rail and bus terminals as well as in civilian and military post offices.

Under the proposal filed Monday for 60 days of public comment, X-ray emissions could be no higher than 0.5 milliroentgen per hour at a distance of five centimeters, about two inches, from the equipment.

Barriers would be required to prevent any part of a worker's body from passing before the primary X-ray beam.

There would also be locking systems and other devices to guard against accidental exposure.

Medical and dental X-ray devices were covered by previous government safety rules and were not involved in Monday's proposal.

SOVIETS CANCEL
NHL EXHIBITION

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Ice Hockey Federation has cancelled an agreement with the National Hockey League for a number of games between NHL members and Soviet teams next month.

Tass news agency said today the cancellation was made because John Ahearne, president of the International Ice Hockey League, and NHL officials "could not overcome financial difficulties as a result of which the president of the international federation did not sanction the holding of these games."

During last March's world championship in Moscow, Ahearne had agreed in principle to the games in November and December, Tass added.

Stanfield Says
He's Ruthless

HALIFAX (CP) — Robert Stanfield said Monday he will make some ruthless decisions in choosing a cabinet if the Progressive Conservative party wins the next federal election.

A number of old friends and senior party members will be bypassed in the interest of putting together the best possible cabinet to lead a government, the Conservative leader said.

"If you're the leader of a government, there are certain tough decisions that you've got to make, and you can't refrain from making them because somebody's a nice guy or a friend ...

"I've always believed in that kind of ruthlessness," he said in a television interview as he opened a five-day cross-Canada tour.

Stanfield rejected a suggestion that he would have trouble putting a cabinet together from the 107 Conservative MPs now sitting in the commons.

"I think we have lots of talent, and it's not all on the front row," he said.

The former Nova Scotia premier said he doesn't believe in keeping his MPs "on a very short leash," but that he can be "quite ruthless" in decisions that affect the public.

He did not indicate which MPs might be bypassed. Numerous senior Conservatives sit on front-row benches in the Commons. They include: John Diefenbaker (Prince Albert), Alfred Hales (Wellington), George Hees (Prince Edward-Hastings), Gerald Baldwin (Peace River), Angus MacLean (Malpeque), and Walter Dinsdale (Brandon-Souris).

The Conservative leader expressed confidence that his party will out the Trudeau government when an election is called.

FERRIES JAMMED

Highways and ferries were jammed to capacity Monday evening as motorists returned home at the close of Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

At the Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay ferry terminals 3½-hour waits were reported and an extra sailing from each terminal had traffic cleared away by early this morning.

There were no extra ferry sailings from Swartz Bay. A terminal spokesman said today two-hour line-ups which started forming in early afternoon were cleared away by the last scheduled run at 10 p.m.

Traffic, he said, "was just like any normal Thanksgiving weekend."

SEATTLE (AP) — Inaction on complaints by U.S. advisers could lead to a push for the United States' withdrawal from a three-nation treaty of the International North Pacific Fisheries Commission, according to the Seattle Times.

The Times reported Monday that dissatisfied industry advisers to the U.S. section of the commission may seek modification of the pact if Japan does not give ground at an annual meeting next month.

The advisers, the Times said, are unhappy about the commission's inability to stop Japanese poaching of salmon and halibut resources.

"The INPFC is not doing a thing really. It is beneficial only to the Japanese to maintain the status quo," said one industry spokesman.

News
Leaks
Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge is weighing a justice department offer of sworn statements denying the campaign of news leaks alleged by Vice-President Spiro Agnew.

In legal arguments Monday, the department also sought to defend reporters against subpoenas issued by Agnew's lawyers and offered the judge an unusual private peek at the evidence against the vice president.

The government arguments were contained in papers filed with United States District Judge Walter Hoffman, who is to preside over the Baltimore federal grand jury investigation of extortion and bribery allegations against Agnew.

The papers were filed in response to a demand by Agnew's lawyers that Hoffman halt the investigation on grounds that impeachment must come before criminal proceedings and the department has poisoned the inquiry through intentional leaks of confidential material.

The department replied that Agnew's lawyers "are engaged in an attempt to confuse the issues and to halt a legitimate investigation by the common defence tactic of trying the prosecutor."

Chinese officials had offered to provide the Canadian network with a live feed of the central events during the Peking portion of the visit.

Chinese cameras and crews would have been used, with Canadian network men providing the commentary.

LEADERS of the B.C. Federation of Labor have a brief chat this morning before a meeting in the Empress Hotel of representatives of affiliated unions. Federation is lobbying govern-

Unions Mount
Bill 11 Lobby

Union leaders descended on Victoria today to lobby the government for changes in its proposed labor code now going through second reading in the legislature.

The lobby, organized by the 200,000-member B.C. Federation of Labor, began with a meeting of representatives of affiliated unions in the Empress Hotel.

Later, a B.C. Fed delegation met a five-member cabinet committee and union leaders were also to meet government MLAs.

The cabinet committee comprised Labor Minister Bill King, Provincial Secretary Ernie Hall, Education Minister Eileen Dailly, Recreation Minister Jack Radford and Attorney-General Alex Macdonald.

Federation secretary Ray Haynes said after the meeting that Labor Minister Bill King had made no commitments on the part of the government and that the bill would have to go through at this session of the legislature.

The federation will continue to lobby and push for referral of the bill to the legislature's labor committee, he added.

IWA regional president Jack Munro was not included on a list of 20 to 30 federation lobbyists to see government MLAs and while everyone was told they were welcome to join the lobby, Munro felt he should have been included on the list.

Last week, while federation leaders bitterly criticized the labor code, Munro said in a telephone interview from Bermuda that the IWA wouldn't attack it unless it has had time to study it.

City Man Killed
In Plunge

A 62-year-old Victoria man died Sunday when he slipped and fell from a 280-foot cliff eight miles east of Hope on the Hope-Princeton highway.

Thomas Braeme Waddington, of 103-1255 Grant and his wife Josephine had stopped off on their drive back to Kelowna. They were travelling with friends, Mr. and Mrs. James Duprau of 285 Helmcken.

Hope RCMP said an autopsy will be performed Wednesday.

Waddington was a tallyman for B.C. Forest Products in Victoria, where he had worked for 27 years.

OK Picket Lines
Close B.C. Tel

Pickets from strike-bound Okanagan Telephone Company appeared today at all offices of the parent B.C. Telephone Company in British Columbia.

A spokesman for B.C. Tel said the company views the action as illegal and has applied to the B.C. Supreme Court in Vancouver for an injunction to halt the picketing.

In Victoria, pickets appeared at B.C. Tel's district headquarters downtown and its divisional headquarters and supply and vehicle depot at Quadra and McKenzie.

"Our business office is closed until the conclusion of this affair," said a company spokesman.

Six hundred B.C. Tel. employees in the Victoria area declined to cross the picket lines, joining close to 8,000 other employees elsewhere in the province.

B.C. Tel said management personnel took over operating duties but warned that "there may be delays on calls requiring an operator or directory assistance."

Last week, Okanagan Telephone employees set up picket lines briefly at B.C. Tel's Vancouver office and at offices in Nelson and Kamloops.

The pickets carried signs today, saying that strike-breakers are working at Okanagan Telephone, a reference to B.C. Tel supervisors they say have been moved into the Okanagan to keep basic telephone service in operation.

Some 550 employees of Okanagan Tel went on strike Aug. 21 to back contract demands. Like B.C. Tel workers, they are members of the Federation of Telephone Workers of B.C. Negotiations broke off last week.

Okanagan Tel had offered a wage and benefit contract package representing an increase of 26.9 per cent in a two-year agreement, but the chief dispute is over control of the pension plan.

Union spokesmen said the pension plan now is controlled by the company and they want an equal voice in the plan.

An information meeting was held this morning at the Union Centre, attended by about 350 members.

FILIPINOS
AFTER BLOW

MANILA (UPI) — More than 800,000 Filipinos on the main island of Luzon were left homeless today by typhoon Nora, relief officials said. A new typhoon, Patsy, was reported in the Pacific heading towards Taiwan.

Two ships in the South China Sea, where Nora was reported at a point 156 miles northwest of Luzon with winds of 115 miles an hour, sent distress signals, maritime officials in Hong Kong reported.

Typhoon Nora was reported by the Manila weather bureau to be moving toward China at three miles an hour.

Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos met with his cabinet to assess damage from the typhoon, which swept across Luzon on Monday.

Damascus,
Cairo Hit

Times News Services

Israeli bombers bit deep into the Arab heartland today with massive air raids on both Damascus and Cairo.

Ground battles raged along the Suez Canal and the Golan Heights.

Israel backtracked on a series of optimistic reports and indicated the war has taken a turn for the worse.

"I would not say that we have moved over to a major offensive yet ..." said Reserve Maj. Gen. Haim Herzog, former chief of Israeli military intelligence.

The Arab armies "are fighting in an orderly manner without indication of a break in their psychological or military make-up," he said.

Herzog's analysis appeared to counter an assessment by Lieut. Gen. David Elazar, Israel's chief of staff, who said Monday night "we have gone over to the offensive ... the entire offensive is succeeding."

Elazar vowed at a news conference to "break the bones" of the Arab armies and said both Egypt and Syria "had lost several hundred tanks while being thrown back from their advances across the Suez Canal in the south and into the Golan Heights in the north."

In the bombing raids on Damascus, Israeli planes scored a direct hit on the Soviet embassy, CBS radio reported.

The network quoted a Soviet diplomat as saying 30 Soviets, including women and children, were killed.

The CBS reporter in Damascus said he saw children's bodies in the rubble. He said the Israeli aircraft inflicted tremendous damage.

Israeli planes overnight hit what Tel Aviv described as anti-aircraft missile batteries and military targets around Port Said, the Egyptian oil installation at the northern end of the Suez Canal.

"The batteries were knocked out and the installations damaged," the announcement said, describing the strikes as "massive."

It was the first large-scale Israeli counterstrike reported across the waterway since the war began.

Witnesses at the foot of the Golan Heights reported seeing artillery flashes all along the front. Syrian shells were said to have fallen on a collective farm inside Israel but no damage was reported.

Simultaneously, the command said, Israeli Naval vessels sank three Egyptian missile boats in the Mediterranean off the Nile Delta and escaped after the attack.

Associated Press correspondent C. C. Minidier reported from Cairo that "we are in the middle of an air raid."

He made the report in a telephone call to the AP bureau in Athens, but the line then went dead.

Israeli Phantom jets bombing in Damascus were said to have damaged the Syrian defence ministry and the government radio station across the street.

The Lebanese defence ministry said Israeli jets struck an army radar station 18 miles east of Beirut and there were reports of Israeli armor crossing into Lebanon, so far not involved in the fighting.

An Israeli spokesman said the attack on Damascus was in retaliation for Syrian shelling earlier today of Israeli settlements south of Nazareth in which the Israelis said there were a number of civilian casualties.

The Syrians said they hit only military targets. As the Israeli aircraft

By COLIN LEGUM

LONDON — The precipitating factor in the renewal of military hostilities in the Middle East — just six years after the Six Days War — is almost certainly the success of the Arab gunmen in forcing Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky to capitulate to their demands to end the special facilities granted by Austria for the transit of Russian Jews to Israel.

The Israelis are convinced that the Austrian operation was the work of Saigah, the wing of the Palestinian Liberation Organization which operates out of Damascus under the aegis of the Syrian regime.

Saigah has publicly claimed the credit for the Austrian operation which was carried out by a group calling themselves the "Eagles of the Palestine Revolution." Since the success of this operation the Syrian Baathist regime has been bracing itself for reprisals from Israel.

These suspicions about Israeli intentions have been steadily building up since Sept. 10 when, at a meeting in Cairo, the leaders of Syria and Egypt made their peace with King Hussein of Jordan.

Egypt's president Anwar Sadat hailed this reconciliation as a decisive step towards re-establishing the "eastern front" against Israel "within the framework of a long-term Arab strategy."

Three days later Israel shot down 13 Syrian MiG-21s in the UNITED NATIONS — Prospects for swift Security Council action to end the Middle East war looked bleak after the 15-country body cut short a meeting Monday night.

The main disagreement was over the position the opposing armies should take up following an end of hostilities.

No date was set for a further meeting, but diplomatic sources said it could be held late today.

The United States appeared alone Monday with its proposal that the council call for a return to military positions held before the outbreak of fighting Saturday.

China called the idea "preposterous" and, with the Soviet Union, demanded Israeli withdrawal from all Arab lands occupied in the 1967 war.

Some sources said war news was so contradictory that some council members were waiting for a clearer picture to emerge before taking position on a cease-fire resolution.

U.S. Ambassador John Scali told the council the "least damaging way" to end the fighting was to restore the cease-fire lines that Egypt and Syria crossed Saturday.

Later he said the United States had "ideas which we will be discussing within the government and with other governments."

Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik said Israel must be forced to abandon the parts of Egypt, Jordan and Syria it has occupied with the "support of imperialist circles" since 1967.

He blamed Israel and its allies for the outbreak of fighting.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. — Two persons and a baby, marooned upstream from Niagara Falls, withstood flowing water for 2½ hours Sunday awaiting rescue.

By the time they were saved a helicopter had crashed, a patrol boat was lost and seven would-be rescuers shared their plight.

A motorboat on the Niagara River was carrying Jerry Land, 20; Joanne Horn, 21, and her son Michael, 1½, all from the Buffalo area.

The engine went dead and the boat drifted downstream.

As it neared Goat Island, the passengers climbed out into waist-high water. They stood in one spot, not daring to move for fear of losing their footing in the current. Their boat was swept over the falls.

Police, spotting the the stranded party, used a helicopter to make a rescue. But when one of the boats grabbed the aircraft's skid as it hovered low, the helicopter crashed.

The pilot and two police officers climbed out of the downed craft, and with the others clung to the wreckage for support.

Authorities next tried sending four officers in a police boat to their aid. But the boat stalled. The officers jumped into the river before their boat too was swept over the falls.

Three officers made their way to the helicopter but a fourth became caught up in the current. He drifted closer to the falls before being pulled ashore by a "human chain."

Finally a cable was hauled out to the marooned. After anchoring the rope end to the helicopter, all nine, one carrying the baby, inched along the line to shore.

Yes! They Talked With Whales

by PAT DUFOUR

Can people converse with killer whales? Tapes heard in the Times' newsroom today indicate they can.

Some people scoffed when the 32-foot yawl Four Winds headed out of Victoria bound for whale territory this summer. They said the bankroll of $14,000 given the four men aboard through a Youth grant was an exercise in futility.

Bruce Bott, 25, who headed the expedition, is back. He, sound man Eric Hoyt and photographer Michael O'Neill, produced evidence today substantiating their claim that they've become firm friends with two pods of whales — Hooker's pod and Stubb's pod.

Hooker is a big bull whose dorsal fin hooks over to the left and Stubb is a cow that is matriarch for a pod of 16.

They spent the summer with Four Winds and her occupants at Robson Bight, which is in the Tsitika River valley at the upper end of Johnstone Strait.

The tapes record the whales' responding to Hoyt's synthesizer, beginning with the synthesizer's reproduction of Hooker's greeting at the first encounter.

Hoyt recalls: "When we first met, he came right up to the stern of the boat, rolled over on his side and looked us straight in the eye. Then he gave this call which pods seem to always give when they meet each other."

No matter how strong an "I'm-from-Missouri" attitude you have when the tapes begin to roll, skepticism gives way to belief as you hear the joint concert of synthesizer and whales in musical cadences, the whales repeating the notes of the synthesizer, sometimes embellishing them. Bott says that Robson Bight appears to be a favorite spot for whales.

"Robson Bight is a resting and playing area. Perhaps, because it's the only unlogged river valley left the whales seem to 'enjoy' the natural wilderness. They come up to where the salt and fresh waters meet and the water is shallow."

O'Neill says his group will be lobbying this winter, trying to get the area preserved as a whale sanctuary.

Admitting that their venture is a minor breakthrough in the area of communication with whales, Bott and his companions have promised the federal department of fisheries and the University of Victoria access to the 5,500 feet of film and tape material they've gathered.

Bott, an experienced diver, shot a great deal of underwater footage during their expedition. He reports that the whales seemed to know why they were there and responded accordingly.

"Even cows with calves seemed completely trusting," he said. "One time I was on the rocks and saw this cow and calf coming toward me. I went in the water to meet them and they came in as close as eight feet to the shore."

Hoyt is convinced that whales have a social sense and intelligence that's equal if not better than man's.

"They don't repeat behavior patterns," he said. "They seemed to check things out and, once they knew the answer, they'd spread the information among themselves."

The tapes also bear out Bott's theory that whales in their natural environment communicate with less inhibition than those in captivity.

The trio — Vatcher is now driving a taxi in Vancouver in order to earn money to go back again next summer — is busy editing the film and getting the tapes ready for a public showing.

No Sudden Merger Seen for Victoria

There is no indication that sudden amalgamation of municipalities will be forced on Greater Victoria as it was on the Kamloops district earlier this year, Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen said today.

He was commenting on a meeting this morning at which Greater Victoria municipal leaders met with Municipal Affairs Minister James Lorimer.

Pollen said he felt Lorimer would not tolerate the creation of an additional municipalities on southern Vancouver Island however.

"I'm sure he feels we have enough, and we can use them as the nucleus for rationalizing government at the municipal level," Pollen added.

He said he tried to impress on the minister the need for long-term objectives in sewage, public transportation, and other fields, as well as the need for a comprehensive land use plan which would not be "continually emasculated or eroded by independent municipalities going their own way."

Following the meeting Lorimer said he did not make any suggestions and the meeting was simply "an informal expression of views."

No further meetings have been planned, he said, adding that the men could be called together "easily in four or five days."

This morning's meeting was attended by representatives of the four core municipalities, Central and North Saanich, Sidney and the Capital Regional District.

ARSONIST BLAMED IN HOUSE BLAZE

An $8,000 fire which levelled a Colwood house on Sunday was set deliberately, Fire Chief Alan LeQueune said today.

The house at 2858 Glen Lake, owned by View Royal Holdings, was under construction. The walls and roof were complete and the wiring was to be installed today, said LeQueune.

The fire was likely started in the basement where a strong smell of furnace oil or diesel was noticed by firemen, he said.

Firemen arrived shortly before midnight and battled the blaze 1½ hours.

A Vancouver fire marshal will begin an investigation today.

$3,000 Damage

A fire Monday morning at Battery Street Guest House, 670 Battery, caused $3,000 damage to the roof and attic, a Victoria fire department official said today.

The fire started in the top floor suite of owner Mrs. Pam Gabas when her son was using a candle to see inside a cupboard and the cupboard caught fire, said deputy fire chief Carl Coates.

There were no injuries.

'Let's Ask the People'

The Ocean Cement property on the Inner Harbor should be tidied up, improved with gravel pathways and planters and then left for a while before any long-term plan is developed, city council agreed today.

Aldermen agreed with Ald. Sam Bawlf at this morning's caucus meeting that the Ocean Cement site could be readied for public use by next summer, and then used as a sounding board for public opinion as to its ultimate base use.

Bawlf said the city planning department could launch an extensive monitoring program on public opinion next summer, possibly with a kiosk displaying the plans for the Inner Harbor, prepared by Vancouver architect Arthur Erickson.

"Let's ask people what they want to see down there before we shape any firm plan."

Mayor Peter Pollen said the ultimate development on the Ocean Cement site should include facilities for fishboats.

CAMPER FOUND SAFE

A University of Victoria student was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Comox Monday after spending more than 25 hours lost in freezing temperatures near Forbidden Plateau.

Courtenay RCMP said today Beverly Biam, 19, was camping with a group of about 50 from UVic's outdoors club. She and some other members went fishing at a lake near the campsite.

At 3 p.m. Sunday the woman headed back to the campsite alone. She wasn't seen again until 4:30 p.m. Monday, said police.

Her disappearance was reported at 6:30 p.m. Monday when police began a ground search and later used a helicopter. She was found, soaking wet but safe, by two other members of the club.

Indians Plan $8 Million Shop Centre

... project president

The Songhees Indian Band today announced plans for an $8 million shopping centre on its land at Admirals and Craigflower.

Project president Harry Dick said profits would all go to the 125 band members and be administered by the all-Indian Songhees Development Company Ltd.

"We don't expect to become millionaires overnight but this should help to get our people off welfare," he said.

"The main thing is to provide work and positions for our young people and keep the band together."

The Songhees Development Company Ltd. will borrow funds, using the land as collateral. By federal law Indian treaty land cannot be sold but it can be leased and bands can borrow against the value of the leased land.

Dick said details of the project were still being worked out but the target date for opening is 1975.

The Songhees Development Company Ltd. is negotiating with several companies for space in the 30-acre site.

The plan is for two competing department stores plus one — maybe two — supermarkets. Banks, small retail stores, a large restaurant and a shoppers babysitting service are other features planned for the 500,000 square feet of buildings.

The buildings would be arranged in a cluster, connected by covered walkways and landscaped areas.

"This is our first major project as a band," Dick said. "There have been five members involved in trailer parks but this time we are all together."

There are 125 members in the Songhees band. The new company consists of eight members, one for each person donating land to the project. Four of the eight were elected to a board of directors which will supervise the shopping centre and distribute any profits.

"The profits will be distributed according to a formula. Everyone will share in the project. The main purpose of and Associates Ltd., who designed Nootka Court. Leasing is by Barkley Management Ltd.

Dick said there is no financial involvement by non-Indians and non-Indian consultants would be phased out as soon as possible.

He planned to continue in his present job as counsellor at Comox College while supervising the shopping centre project.

It was hoped ground clearing work would begin before year's end, he said.

The project would be called Lekwammen Village, after the original name of the Songhees Band.

The band decided to proceed after a market survey in May indicated the feasibility of a large shopping centre at that location.

The centre would be larger than the demand in 1975 but population growth would soon catch up with the facilities, the study showed.

The new company was determined to have two competing department stores in the project, rather than just one, in an effort to establish the site as the main shopping area in the western section of the district.

The band has room for expansion, holding a total of 163 acres.

Station Robbed At Knifepoint

Colwood RCMP are investigating a robbery Saturday in which a 16-year-old youth was held up at Knifepoint.

Brian Dunwoody, the lone attendant at Payless Service station, 2988 Jacklin, was preparing to close about 10:20 p.m. when two men wearing nylon stockings over their heads entered the station and brandished a hunting knife, police said.

Dunwoody, of 4270 Happy Valley Rd., gave the men $110 from the company's wallet.

Police described one man as 17 to 19 years old, six feet, 170 pounds, with long dark hair. The other man was also between 17 and 19, five feet 10 inches tall with light-colored hair.

FIFTEEN-FOOT FALL damaged car but driver Arlene Taylor of 3048 Millgrove, suffered only a nosebleed in Monday evening mishap. Saanich police said the woman was driving north on the Trans-Canada highway near Burnside when the car went out of control and over the embankment.

SOVIETS CANCEL NHL EXHIBITION

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Ice Hockey Federation has cancelled an agreement with the National Hockey League for a number of games between NHL members and Soviet teams next month.

Tass news agency said today the cancellation was made because John Ahearn, president of the International Ice Hockey League, and NHL officials "could not overcome financial difficulties as a result of which the president of the international federation did not sanction the holding of these games."

During last March's world championship in Moscow, Ahearn had agreed in principle to the games in November and December, Tass added.

Stanfield Says He's Ruthless

HALIFAX (CP) — Robert Stanfield said Monday he will make some ruthless decisions in choosing a cabinet if the Progressive Conservative party wins the next federal election.

A number of old friends and senior party members will be bypassed in the interest of putting together the best possible cabinet to lead a government, the Conservative leader said.

"If you're the leader of a government, there are certain tough decisions that you've got to make, and you can't refrain from making them because somebody's a nice guy or a friend."

"I've always believed in that kind of ruthlessness," he said in a television interview as he opened a five-day cross-Canada tour.

Stanfield rejected a suggestion that he would have trouble putting a cabinet together from the 107 Conservative MPs now sitting in the commons.

"I think we have lots of talent, and it's not all on the front row," he said.

The former Nova Scotia premier said he doesn't believe in keeping his MPs "on a very short leash," but that he can be "quite ruthless" in decisions that affect the public.

He did not indicate which MPs might be bypassed. Numerous senior Conservatives sit on front-row benches in the Commons. They include: John Diefenbaker (Prince Albert), Alfred Hales (Wellington), George Hees (Prince Edward-Hastings), Gerald Baldwin (Peace River), Angus MacLean (Malpeque), and Walter Dinsdale (Brandon-Souris).

The Conservative leader expressed confidence that his party will out the Trudeau government when an election is called.

FERRIES JAMMED

Highways and ferries were jammed to capacity Monday evening as motorists returned home at the close of Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

At the Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay ferry terminals 3½-hour waits were reported and an extra sailing from each terminal had traffic cleared away by early this morning.

There were no extra ferry sailings from Swartz Bay. A terminal spokesman said today two-hour line-ups which started forming in early afternoon were cleared away by the last scheduled run at 10 p.m.

Traffic, he said, "was just like any normal Thanksgiving weekend."

No Live Television Of Trudeau Visit

Special to the Times
PEKING — The Canadian television networks, after reviewing the technical complications, scheduling difficulties and high costs involved, have decided not to carry live coverage of the highlights of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's visit to China this week.

Instead, CBC and CTV will limit their coverage to filmed highlights that will be shown on a delayed basis.

decision on the weekend on the basis of information relayed to them by the Canadian advance team that is in the Chinese capital preparing for the prime minister's arrival on Wednesday.

Chinese officials had offered to provide the Canadian network with a live feed of the central events during the Peking portion of the visit.

Chinese cameras and crews would have been used, with Canadian network men providing the commentary.

LEADERS of the B.C. Federation of Labor have a brief chat this morning before a meeting in the Empress Hotel of representatives of affiliated unions. Fishing Treaty Rapped

SEATTLE (AP) — Inaction on complaints by U.S. advisers could lead to a push for the United States' withdrawal from a three-nation treaty of the International North Pacific Fisheries Commission, according to the Seattle Times.

The Times reported Monday that dissatisfied industry advisers to the U.S. section of the commission may seek modification of the pact if Japan does not give ground at an annual meeting next month.

The advisers, the Times said, are unhappy about the commission's inability to stop Japanese poaching of salmon and halibut resources.

"The INPEC is not doing a thing really. It is beneficial only to the Japanese to maintain the status quo," said one industry spokesman.

News Leaks Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge is weighing a justice department offer of sworn statements denying the campaign of news leaks alleged by Vice-President Spiro Agnew.

In legal arguments Monday, the department also sought to defend reporters against subpoenas issued by Agnew's lawyers and offered the judge an unusual private peek at the evidence against the vice-president.

The government arguments were contained in papers filed with United States District Judge Walter Hoffman, who is to preside over the Baltimore federal grand jury investigation of extortion and bribery allegations against Agnew.

The papers were filed in response to a demand by Agnew's lawyers that Hoffman halt the investigation on grounds that impeachment must come before criminal proceedings and the department has poisoned the inquiry through intentional leaks of confidential material.

The department replied that Agnew's lawyers "are engaged in an attempt to confuse the issues and to halt a legitimate investigation by the common defence tactic of trying the prosecutor."

Unions Mount Bill 11 Lobby

Union leaders descended on Victoria today to lobby the government for changes in its proposed labor code now going through second reading in the legislature.

The lobby, organized by the 200,000-member B.C. Federation of Labor, began with a meeting of representatives of affiliated unions in the Empress Hotel.

Later, a B.C. Fed delegation met a five-member cabinet committee and union leaders were also to meet government MLAs.

The cabinet committee comprised Labor Minister Bill King, Provincial Secretary Ernie Hall, Education Minister Eileen Dailly, Recreation Minister Jack Radford and Attorney-General Alex Macdonald.

Federation secretary Ray Haynes said after the meeting that Labor Minister Bill King had made no commitments on the part of the government and that the bill would have to go through at this session of the legislature.

The federation will continue to lobby and push for referral of the bill to the legislature's labor committee, he added.

IWA regional president Jack Munro was not included on a list of 20 to 30 federation lobbyists to see government MLAs and while everyone was told they were welcome to join the lobby, Munro felt he should have been included on the list.

Last week, while federation leaders bitterly criticized the labor code, Munro said in a telephone interview from Bermuda that the IWA wouldn't attack it unless it has had time to study it.

City Man Killed In Plunge

A 62-year-old Victoria man died Sunday when he slipped and fell from a 280-foot cliff eight miles east of Hope on the Hope-Princeton highway.

Thomas Braeme Waddington, 103-1255 Grant and his wife Josephine had stopped off on their drive back to Victoria from a weekend visit to Kelowna. They were travelling with friends, Mr. and Mrs. James Duprau of 285 Helmcken.

Hope RCMP said an autopsy will be performed Wednesday.

Waddington was a tallyman for B.C. Forest Products in Victoria, where he had worked for 27 years.

OK Picket Lines Close B.C. Tel

Pickets from strike-bound Okanagan Telephone Company appeared today at all offices of the parent B.C. Telephone Company in British Columbia.

A spokesman for B.C. Tel said the company views the action as illegal and has applied to the B.C. Supreme Court in Vancouver for an injunction to halt the picketing.

In Victoria, pickets appeared at B.C. Tel's district headquarters downtown and its divisional headquarters and supply and vehicle depot at Quadra and McKenzie.

"Our business office is closed until the conclusion of this affair," said a company spokesman.

Six hundred B.C. Tel, employees in the Victoria area declined to cross the picket lines, joining close to 8,000 other employees elsewhere in the province.

B.C. Tel said management personnel took over operating duties but warned that "there may be delays on calls requiring an operator or directory assistance."

Last week, Okanagan Telephone employees set up picket lines briefly at B.C. Tel's Vancouver office and at offices in Nelson and Kamloops.

The pickets carried signs today saying that strikebreakers are working at Okanagan Telephone a reference to B.C. Tel supervisors they say have been moved into the Okanagan to keep basic telephone service in operation.

Some 550 employees of Okanagan Tel went on strike Aug. 21 to back contract demands. Like B.C. Tel workers, they are members of the Federation of Telephone Workers of B.C. Negotiations broke off last week.

Okanagan Tel had offered a wage and benefit contract package representing an increase of 26.9 per cent in a two-year agreement, but the chief dispute is over control of the pension plan.

Union spokesmen said the pension plan now is controlled by the company and they want an equal voice in the plan.

FILIPINOS HOMELESS AFTER BLOW

MANILA (UPI) — More than 800,000 Filipinos on the main island of Luzon were left homeless today by typhoon Nora, relief officials said. A new typhoon, Patsy, was reported in the Pacific heading towards Taiwan.

Two ships in the South China Sea, where Nora was reported at a point 156 miles northwest of Luzon with winds of 115 miles an hour, sent distress signals, maritime officials in Hong Kong reported.

Typhoon Nora was reported by the Manila weather bureau to be moving toward China at three miles an hour.

Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos met with his cabinet to assess damage from the typhoon, which swept across Luzon on Monday.

Damascus, Cairo Hit

Times News Services

Israeli bombers bit deep into the Arab heartland today with massive air raids on both Damascus and Cairo.

In the bombing raids on Damascus, Israeli planes scored a direct hit on the Soviet embassy, CBS radio reported.

The network quoted a Soviet diplomat as saying 30 Soviets, including women and children were killed.

The CBS reporter in Damascus said he saw children's bodies in the rubble. He said the Israeli aircraft inflicted tremendous damage.

Ground battles raged along the Suez Canal and the Golan Heights.

Israel backtracked on a series of optimistic reports and indicated the war has taken a turn for the worse.

"I would not say that we have moved over to a major offensive yet," said Reserve Maj. Gen. Haim Herzog, former chief of Israeli military intelligence.

The Arab armies "are fighting in an orderly manner without indication of a break in their psychological or military make-up," he said.

Herzog's analysis appeared to counter an assessment by Lieut. Gen. David Elazar, Israel's chief of staff, who said Monday night "we have gone over to the offensive... the entire offensive is succeeding."

Elazar vowed at a news conference to "break the bones" of the Arab armies and said both Egypt and Syria had lost several hundred tanks while being thrown back from their advances across the Suez Canal in the south and into the Golan Heights in the north.

In the bombing raids on Damascus, Israeli planes scored a direct hit on the Soviet embassy, CBS radio reported.

The network quoted a Soviet diplomat as saying 30 Soviets, including women and children, were killed.

Israeli planes overnight hit what Tel Aviv described as anti-aircraft missile batteries and military targets around Port Said, the Egyptian oil installation at the northern end of the Suez Canal.

The batteries were knocked out and the installations damaged," the announcement said, describing the strikes as "massive."

It was the first large-scale Israeli counterstrike reported across the waterway since the war began.

Witnesses at the foot of the Golan Heights reported seeing artillery flashes all along the front. Syrian shells were said to have fallen on a collective farm inside Israel but no damage was reported.

Simultaneously, the command said, Israeli Naval vessels sank three Egyptian missile boats in the Mediterranean off the Nile Delta and escaped after the attack.

Israeli Phantom jets bombing in Damascus were said to have also damaged the Syrian defence ministry and the government radio station across the street.

The Lebanese defence ministry said Israeli jets struck an army radar station 18 miles east of Beirut and there were reports of Israeli armor crossing into Lebanon, so far not involved in the fighting.

An Israeli spokesman said the attack on Damascus was in retaliation for Syrian shelling earlier today of Israeli settlements south of Nazareth in which the Israelis said there were a number of civilian casualties.

The Syrians said they hit only military targets.

Hijack Linked To War

By COLIN LEGUM
London Observer

LONDON — The precipitating factor in the renewal of military hostilities in the Middle East — just six years after the Six Days War — is almost certainly the success of the Arab gunmen in forcing Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky to capitulate to their demands to end the special facilities granted by Austria for the transit of Russian Jews to Israel.

The Israelis are convinced that the Austrian operation was the work of Saigah, the wing of the Palestinian Liberation Organization which operates out of Damascus under the aegis of the Syrian regime.

Saigah has publicly claimed the credit for the Austrian operation which was carried out by a group calling themselves the "Eagles of the Palestine Revolution."

Since the success of this operation the Syrian Baathist regime has been brazen itself for reprisals from Israel.

These suspicions about Israeli intentions have been steadily building up since Sept. 10 when, at a meeting in Cairo, the leaders of Syria and Egypt made their peace with King Hussein of Jordan.

Egypt's president Anwar Sadat hailed this reconciliation as a decisive step towards re-establishing the "eastern front" against Israel "within the framework of a long-term Arab strategy."

Three days later Israel shot down 13 Syrian MiG-21s in the

Associated Press
NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. — Two persons and a baby, marooned upstream from Niagara Falls, withstood flowing water for 2½ hours Sunday awaiting rescue.

By the time they were saved a helicopter had crashed, a patrol boat was lost and seven would-be rescuers shared their plight.

A motorboat on the Niagara River was carrying Jerry Land, 20; Joanne Horn, 21, and her son Michael, 1½, all from the Buffalo area.

The engine went dead and the boat drifted downstream.

As it neared Goat Island, the passengers climbed out into waist-high water. They stood in one spot, not daring to move for fear of losing their footing in the current. Their boat was swept over the falls.

Police, spotting the stranded party, used a helicopter to make a rescue. But when one of the boaters grabbed the aircraft's skid as it hovered low, the helicopter crashed.

The pilot and two police officers climbed out of the downed craft, and with the others clung to the wreckage for support.

Authorities next tried sending four officers in a police boat to their aid. But the boat stalled. The officers jumped into the river before their boat too was swept over the falls.

Three officers made their way to the helicopter but a fourth became caught up in the current. He drifted closer to the falls before being pulled ashore by a "human chain."

Finally a cable was buried out to the marooned. After anchoring the loose end to the helicopter, all nine, one carrying the baby, inched along the line to shore.
